Twitter Thread by Harpreet

Harpreet
@CestMoiz

I was putting off tweeting about these men, since I knew the mood would only go downhill hereafter.
But then, it is definitely a day to remember the #14FebPulwamaBravehearts.
Let me share my jumbled, angry thoughts about that dastardly attack ..

> #ObituaryOfTheDay
> In remembrance of the CRPF boys martyred this day two years ago in Pulwama.
> God bless their souls pic.twitter.com/nhheCkZfQa
>
> — Harpreet (@CestMoiz) February 14, 2021

I still remember that evening as the news of the attack came in and the casualty count just kept on going higher and higher. I was having dinner at my boss' place that evening. It was supposed to be a light evening, but it was anything but that.
#14FebPulwamaBravehearts

I doubt anyone of us was actually 'attending' that party that evening. Despite being physical present there, we were lost in our own worlds of emotions as the gravity of the event sunk in.
There wasn't much conversation that night, despite quite a few 'talkative' guys amongst us.

All that we could think of was for the damned evening to end.
Thankfully, the boss too agreed with us and we went homewards much earlier than planned.
#14FebPulwamaBravehearts

I rushed back home and let out on twitter in this thread. Info was still very sketchy, but still, the event had shaken me to the very core.
Practically EVERYONE of us knew who did it.
MUST read this thread before moving ahead.
#14FebPulwamaBravehearts
https://t.co/xC3JJE0j7P

> 1
> Replugging some thoughts, in light of the #PulwmaAttack in the Valley.
>
> — Harpreet (@CestMoiz) February 14, 2019

#14FebPulwamaBravehearts
One hardly slept that night.
Dare I say, I wouldn't have been the only one.
It was time for yet another thread. It came in this form below.
Do read it as well, it's a humble request ■
https://t.co/8usNa06pfD

> 1
> Ok, so this 15 tweet thread was a replug of my long held point of view on the terror apparatus in the Valley.
> Now let me share some thoughts on today's #PulwamaAttack.
> Still disjointed, but let's see how it goes https://t.co/xC3JJE0j7P
>
> — Harpreet (@CestMoiz) February 14, 2019

#14FebPulwamaBravehearts
As far as accountability for the terror attack goes, this minister from the Govt of Terroristan himself PROUDLY proclaimed IN THEIR PARLIAMENT that it was they who had done it. Of course, there was a thumping applause at this 'Kamyaabi'.

#14FebPulwamaBravehearts
Of course, do concentrate at the end of the video above.
That minister from Terroristan makes it known that that successful terror attack is a 'Kamyaabi' of the entire Paaki 'Qaum'.
Do watch that video in case you missed this part

This was how I ended that thread that night.
Feel free to judge me
#14FebPulwamaBravehearts
https://t.co/CDdZBbccCe

> 31/31
> I'll just leave this photo of a bumper sticker on a car somewhere in Delhi to this thread. pic.twitter.com/uGQ70w0xjQ
>
> — Harpreet (@CestMoiz) February 15, 2019

#14FebPulwamaBravehearts
Here's that thread in a blog, for ease of reading in case interested.
(Other blog posts in the aftermath, including Balakot Attack and the days that followed, are there as well, behind this tweet quoted below)
https://t.co/aHmFYnqOyQ

> Blog 33 - Thoughts on the Pulwama Attackhttps://t.co/y9wvZQjLZr
>
> — Harpreet (@CestMoiz) February 15, 2019

#14FebPulwamaBravehearts
Then there were the usual vultures within our own borders, who were rubbing their hands with glee at the embarrassment to the DEMOCRATICALLY ELECTED govt of India, on account of the loss of soldiers, who ironically, were THEIR OWN as well.

Seema Singh
@seemasingh1971

I am happy that Pakistan taught Modi a good lesson
Now he wont try to hurt muslims anywhere

> omer firdous @omer_firdous
> @seemasingh1971 @sanjivbhatt they vl do nothing except meetings . indian politicians love there chairs only

#14FebPulwamaBravehearts
Then there were our own Presstitutes who tried their darnedest best to paint it as anything but a Pakistan sponsored attack. Of course, they misjudged the public anger and had to retreat quickly.

BENNETT, COLEMAN & CO. LTD. | ESTABLISHED 1838 | TIMESOFINDIA.COM | EPAPER.TIMESOFINDIA.COM

MUMBAI | FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 2019 | PAGES 46

THE TIMES OF IN

PRICE ₹7.00 ALONG WITH MUMBAI MIRROR OR THE ECONOMIC TIMES OR MAHARASHTRA TIMES*

dineout GIRF FLAT 50% OFF 6000+ RESTAURANTS BOOK NOW ON dir

Govt blames Pak after local youth rams CRPF convoy with IED-packed SUV in worst-ever J&K terror strike

Accuses It Of Supporting Azhar-Led JeM

All that remains of a bus carrying 39

42 JAWANS KILLED

3.30am | Convoy of 78 vehicles carrying some 2,500 CRPF personnel leaves Jammu for Srinagar

Suicide bomber was inspired by Taliban 'victory

#14FebPulwamaBravehearts
Talking about Presstitutes, I'll leave this tweet here as well.
A dastardly terror attack was a 'God Sent' opportunity for making political points, even before the blood of THEIR OWN soldiers had dried from the spot of the attack.
https://t.co/YFn5opO0Qh

> 7#PulwamaAttack
> That there is a definite, even if unintended, political angle to this is undeniable.
> All one needs to do is go thru the TL's of some 'celebrity' journos and politicos.
> Of course, there are folks saying this was done solely for political purposes. pic.twitter.com/5XFTH0CKyT
>
> — Harpreet (@CestMoiz) February 14, 2019

#14FebPulwamaBravehearts
While on the topic of Presstitutes, I am not quite sure whether this one was reinstated by #NDTV after her gleeful statements at the failure of the Govt in preventing the Pulwama Attack.
Any update on that would be welcome ■
https://t.co/Za9YQfomYP

> 138
> To be fair, she wasn't the only one who celebrated the deaths of soldiers, in their blind hatred of a certain group of politicians.
> But what are the odds that having served her two weeks of penance, she is back working for #NDTV?
> pic.twitter.com/BGhXYNRFXI
>
> — Harpreet (@CestMoiz) April 24, 2019

#14FebPulwamaBravehearts
Here's the lady in question.
I would REALLY like to know whether she continued working for NDTV after those two weeks of suspension.

https://t.co/UIEceb8Q3u

> 139
> ^^
> Just for the sake of archiving, here are the screenshots of what Nidhi Sethi, Deputy News Editor at #NDTV said in the aftermath of the #PulwamaAttack.
> A truly sick mentality, this. pic.twitter.com/zal4uRA7tX
>
> — Harpreet (@CestMoiz) April 24, 2019

#14FebPulwamaBravehearts
Twitter timelines were just too gloomy in the aftermath of the attack. They stayed thus for quite a few days in fact https://t.co/XbDpcanPg0

> Am I the only one, or are others' TL too devoid of any jokes / cartoons / light hearted tweets since the #PulwamaAttaack?
> I myself haven't been able to share any humour since then ..
>
> — Harpreet (@CestMoiz) February 17, 2019