Twitter Thread by A Fine, Rich Woman

A Fine, Rich Woman
@Orifunke

When Biodun Fatoyinbo's case went viral, Timi Adigun of Mine Teenage Ministry told his church members not to be talebearers or speak against a man of God.

Little did anyone know that he himself had been sexually abusing and harassing his female teenage members for years!

Timi Adigun runs a teenage ministry whose MAJOR core value is sexual purity. They run a yearly VIRGINITY day. If anyone should be caught in such a scandal, it should NOT be Timi Adigun. Not him.

"Oh, maybe it is not true".

Yes, maybe it is untrue but he and his wife suddenly shut down their church, The Ark, when news broke out. It may not be true but they cancelled all events till further notice.

May not be true but he has started another church lowkey in another name

It may not be true but comments are restricted on IG and people are getting blocked for asking questions.

May not be true but members are getting encouraged not to be "talebearers".

If you know anyone who was actively a member of the teenage ministry (whether teenagers or adults), please check in with them. I have spoken with a number of them in the last two months and those people are extremely hurt and broken. Too hurt.

The interesting thing is the members are only asking him to come out and address it. They want him to admit it, justice to be followed after and healing gotten for victims. That's what they are asking.

But he has refused to say NADA. He is even running giveaways on IG.

Oh, and his wife. The loving, meek, motherly Aunty Titi. His wife is also COMPLICIT. Knows about everything.

But well, they're talking about love on IG.

Jesus, you need to come back ASAP.

If you need more: https://t.co/FnLLUbFRtp

Ask any MINE Ministry member and they would affirm it. Including their ex-pastors. There was a form created by @theakanimoh and a team of investigative journalists to get victims to speak too. Go through that link I posted in my last thread and see former members affirming.

Interesting there are voice notes.
https://t.co/P0ANlTJQic

> No need to go too far, Orifunke. I was the head of the Ilorin arm of the ministry(you can check any MINE Magazine publication around that time for my name) in 2014 and 2015 and joined the ministry in 2011.
>
> I've listened to voice notes where he admitted all these things. https://t.co/Lq2nUR2roK
>
> — BRAVEDAVE \u270d\U0001f3fe\U0001f5e3\ufe0f (@The_bravedave) December 10, 2020