Twitter Thread by RhymeNoxious

RhymeNoxious
@BlondeNoxious

It's the last day of this dumpster fire known as 2020
Let's recap some shenanigans - #Ward45 sure had plenty

In January, Jimmy called out The Crew at Copernicus
A photo bomber, a bounty, and the mayor visited us

https://t.co/YHgWKxWv8m

> Stay tuned for the #livetweet of this #45theward community meaning.
>
> Sarcasm and hyperbole probably unintentional.
>
> Please forgive typos. It's been a long day. pic.twitter.com/ZmhUWv1SNl
>
> — RhymeNoxious (@BlondeNoxious) January 28, 2020

The Point is resurrected in February - now ten storeys instead of 10
A firetruck can't make a turn and Cuyler Plaza meets its end
Jimmy shows how tough he is and takes a stand against graffiti
A vigilante video offering a hundred-dollar bounty

March first Jimmy does the polar plunge with Team Alderbear
And barely wins committeeman - his enormous signs everywhere

In April Willie Wilson donates masks, Jimmy hands out burgers Epically
He can't seem to figure out how to wear a mask properly

In May at the little free library we meet (with complements) Al Chemist
Jimmy patrols the ward from the threat of antifa activitists

It's June and Jimmy is hiding behind his office
While constituents march for racial justice
"Where's Jim Gardiner" the crowd chants

Asked if he believes Black lives matter by a Black man
Jim doesn't answer, instead just deflects
A defining cowardly moment - one we won't forget

https://t.co/KaIKfeeiAD

https://t.co/RF6hVrw7TY

> Here is the isolated video of the last minute of the conversation where he refuses to acknowledge black lives matter. #BlackLivesMatter #CPACNow #twill pic.twitter.com/Yttlp4ukIA
>
> — Indivisible Chicago Northwest Side (@indivchicagonw) June 13, 2020

July we brought our trash cans inside so garages weren't burned by fireworks
Jimmy used CFD for park clean up, and gets caught when trying to lurk
He's also mad this month about an overturned porta loo
If it can be proven - but only if - he's in favor of removing Columbus' statue

August is a memorable month – who can forget the Axident?
I mean, really, what's the big deal about few more scratches and dents?
Power outages and cleanup from the winds of the Derecho
The month ends with a "heroic" save from a predatory Lincoln Tow

https://t.co/G4BLLdx2Y2

> My favorite part of this video is the person on the left that appears to be videoing while someone else is videoing. pic.twitter.com/7XNnKlqg9r
>
> — RhymeNoxious (@BlondeNoxious) August 11, 2020

In September Jimmy backs the blue (maskless) at a Trump rally
And unveils a brand new flood-free $225,000 alley

Some romantic personal news in October that Jimmy doesn't share
A secret wedding to the mayor's Senior Advisor of Intergovernmental Affairs

Jimmy dressed up like Bernie for the Trick or treat drive through If you called the Democratic Committeeman Jim claimed he didn't know who

November - Jim's on a Zoom and keeps asking for someone to unmute
Then surprise! He and Charles are served with a lawsuit
And we can't say for certain, because we don't actually know
But it's possible he had someone throw a brick though a window

December brought the final vote to complete the SSA coup
We learned about apparent voter fraud by the guy at City News
Jim killed another development because the NIMBYs complained about density
And it turned out defendent Jim won't be represented by the City

So many things happened throughout this year
Like Copernicus trying to steal the firehouse from Lake Effect Beer

https://t.co/wQrxQaJSpC

> Listen my friends and I'll tell you a tale
> Of an abandoned firehouse and a ten dollar sale
>
> Far away in Jeff Park by Copernicus Center
> Where NIMBYs love parking and hate on the renters
>
> Stands an old firehouse full of asbestos
> Flood damage, lead paint, and probably fungus
>
> — RhymeNoxious (@BlondeNoxious) October 31, 2020

But this thread would never end if I recounted every deed of Jim and his miscreants
It’s been a hell of a year, let’s put it behind us, and hope 2021 brings some indictments

@threadreaderapp this thread is a bit out of control
Would you mind sending a link to unroll?