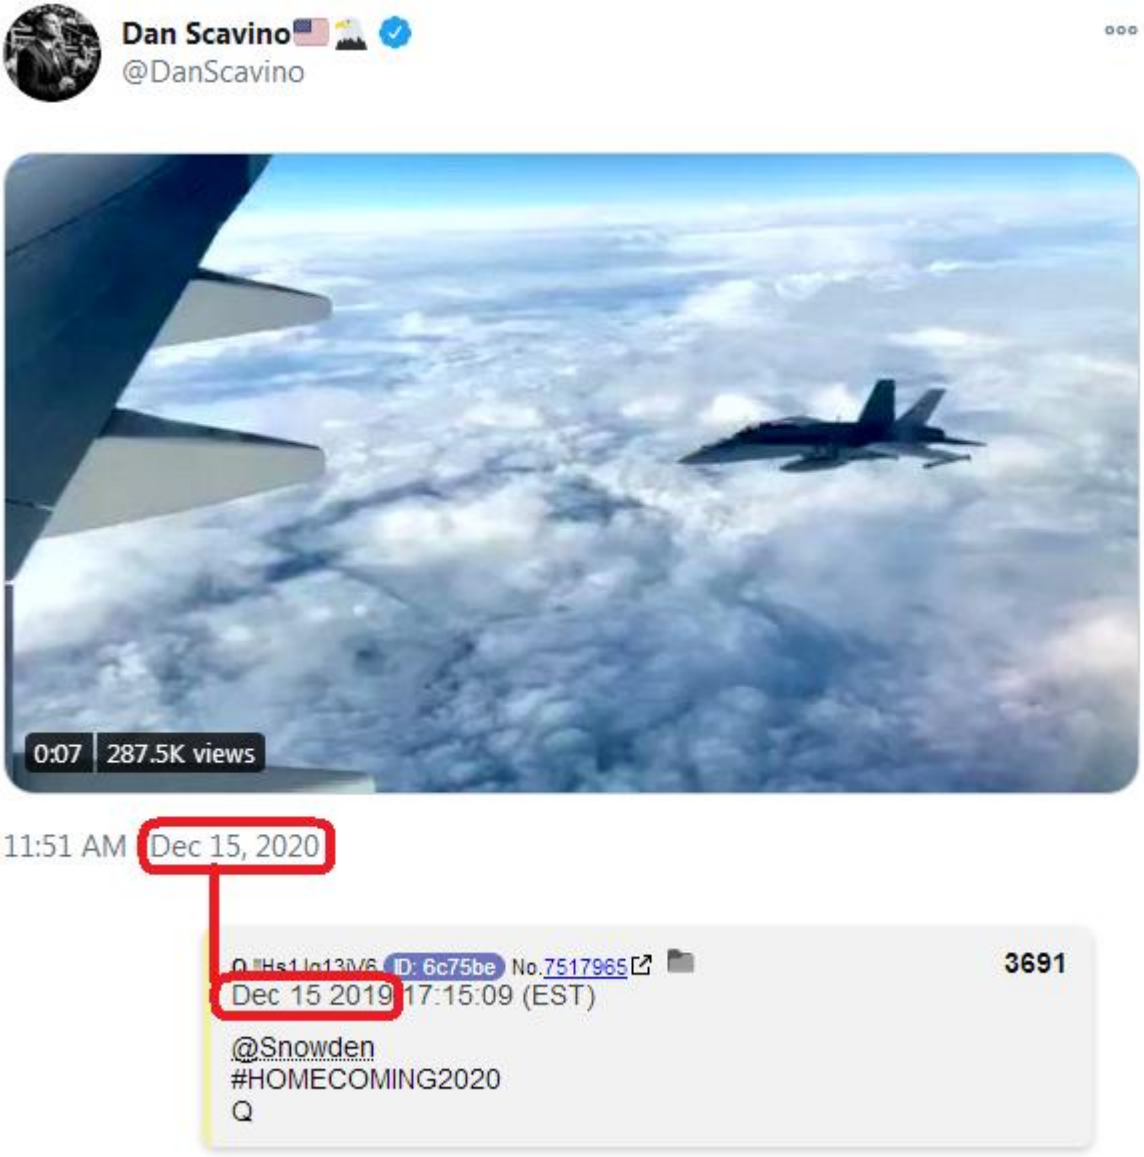
Twitter Thread by Good Dog

Good Dog
@GoodDog94619152

H O M E C O M I N G

Who can testify as to what really happened with Seth Rich? Why did Wikileaks' Julian Assange put out a $20,000 reward for apprehension of Seth Rich's killer?

Who flew from Seattle to Washington to join Seth at the Hospital? SEATTLE? Seth died shortly after?



Andrew Jackson: fought & destroyed Central Banker conspiracy in USA.

Abraham Lincoln: killed by mercenary hired by Central Banker Klan.

27 APR, 1861, Lincoln suspends writ of habeas corpus to give military authorities necessary power to silence dissenters, rebels & traitors.

They 'seem' like Republicans because they wear the "REPUBLICAN" badge on their coats.

But, they act like Traitors?

Xi - I wonder why?

https://t.co/5RyG6T87hu

Remember when the WATER MAIN LEAK in GEORGIA stopped the vote count. Big water leak? Stopped for hours?

Yeah - no work order - no invoices - no labor done. COLOR ME SURPRISED?

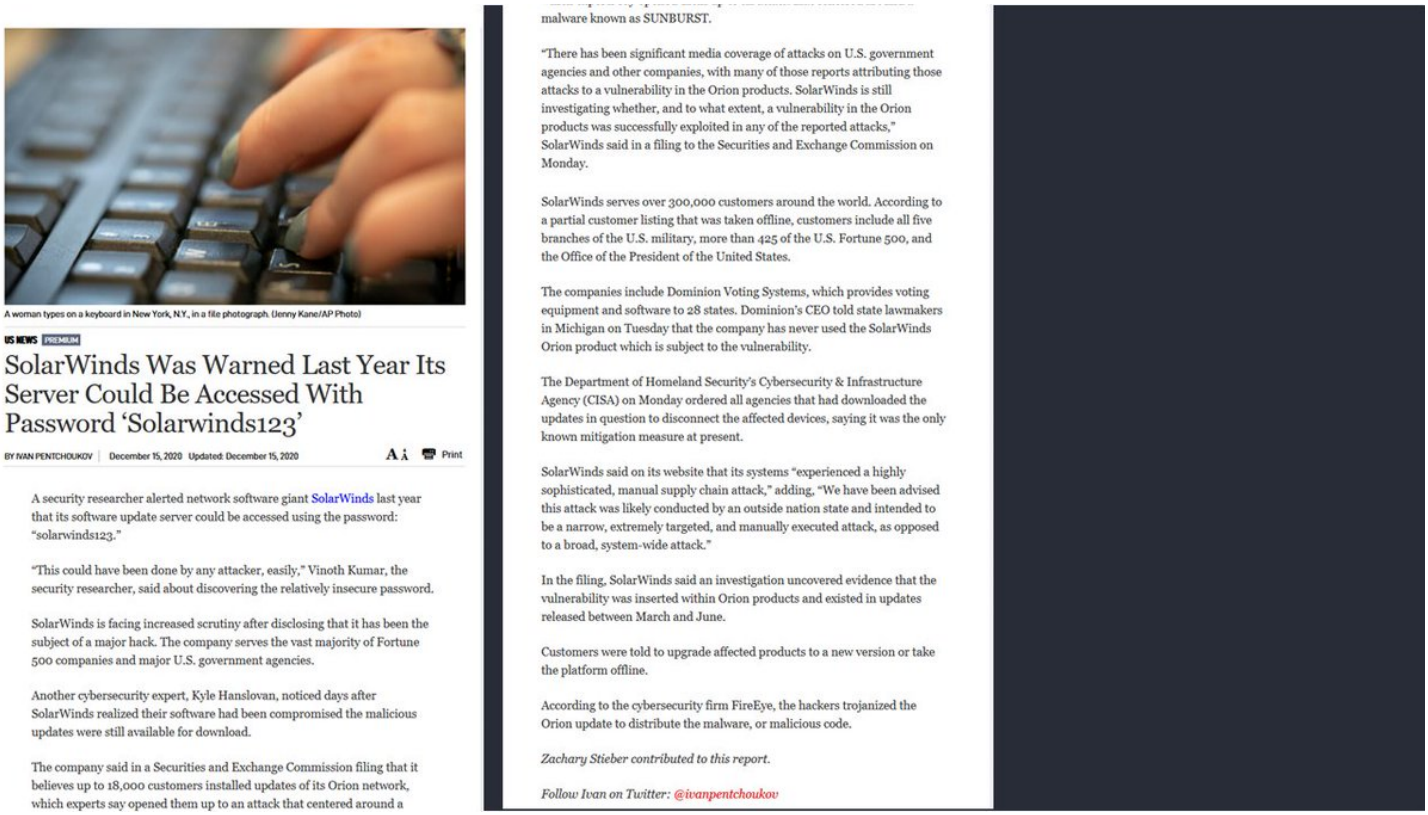
https://t.co/UgpvxgJzmn

Remember when Experian was hacked? The password was set to "ADMIN"?

Remember when Podesta's emails were hacked by Guccifer 2.0 - the password was set to "password"?

SolarWinds (CCP-PLA front company) used password "Solardwinds123"?

notice a pattern? Think planners v. agents!



A woman types on a keyboard in New York, N.Y., in a file photograph. (Jenny Kane/AP Photo)

US NEWS PREMIUM

SolarWinds Was Warned Last Year Its Server Could Be Accessed With Password 'Solarwinds123'

BY IVAN PENTCHOUKOV | December 15, 2020 Updated: December 15, 2020 Aa Print

A security researcher alerted network software giant SolarWinds last year that its software update server could be accessed using the password: "solarwinds123."

"This could have been done by any attacker, easily," Vinoth Kumar, the security researcher, said about discovering the relatively insecure password.

SolarWinds is facing increased scrutiny after disclosing that it has been the subject of a major hack. The company serves the vast majority of Fortune 500 companies and major U.S. government agencies.

Another cybersecurity expert, Kyle Hanslovan, noticed days after SolarWinds realized their software had been compromised the malicious updates were still available for download.

The company said in a Securities and Exchange Commission filing that it believes up to 18,000 customers installed updates of its Orion network, which experts say opened them up to an attack that centered around a malware known as SUNBURST.

"There has been significant media coverage of attacks on U.S. government agencies and other companies, with many of those reports attributing those attacks to a vulnerability in the Orion products. SolarWinds is still investigating whether, and to what extent, a vulnerability in the Orion products was successfully exploited in any of the reported attacks," SolarWinds said in a filing to the Securities and Exchange Commission on Monday.

SolarWinds serves over 300,000 customers around the world. According to a partial customer listing that was taken offline, customers include all five branches of the U.S. military, more than 425 of the U.S. Fortune 500, and the Office of the President of the United States.

The companies include Dominion Voting Systems, which provides voting equipment and software to 28 states. Dominion's CEO told state lawmakers in Michigan on Tuesday that the company has never used the SolarWinds Orion product which is subject to the vulnerability.

The Department of Homeland Security's Cybersecurity & Infrastructure Agency (CISA) on Monday ordered all agencies that had downloaded the updates in question to disconnect the affected devices, saying it was the only known mitigation measure at present.

SolarWinds said on its website that its systems "experienced a highly sophisticated, manual supply chain attack," adding, "We have been advised this attack was likely conducted by an outside nation state and intended to be a narrow, extremely targeted, and manually executed attack, as opposed to a broad, system-wide attack."

In the filing, SolarWinds said an investigation uncovered evidence that the vulnerability was inserted within Orion products and existed in updates released between March and June.

Customers were told to upgrade affected products to a new version or take the platform offline.

According to the cybersecurity firm FireEye, the hackers trojanized the Orion update to distribute the malware, or malicious code.

Zachary Stieber contributed to this report.

Follow Ivan on Twitter: @ivanpentchoukov

HOMECOMING?

What birds are in the air RIGHT NOW?

kek.

https://t.co/NyqDed3xbx

What would make for a PERFECT NEWS CYCLE this week?

Proof that Democrats hire murderers?
Proof that they kill their own?
Proof that they rigged the 2016?
Proof that they rigged the 2020?

Proof that the media helped them in all the above?

CO-CONSPIRATORS

HOMECOMING. JUSTICE.

PARDON ME?

kek.

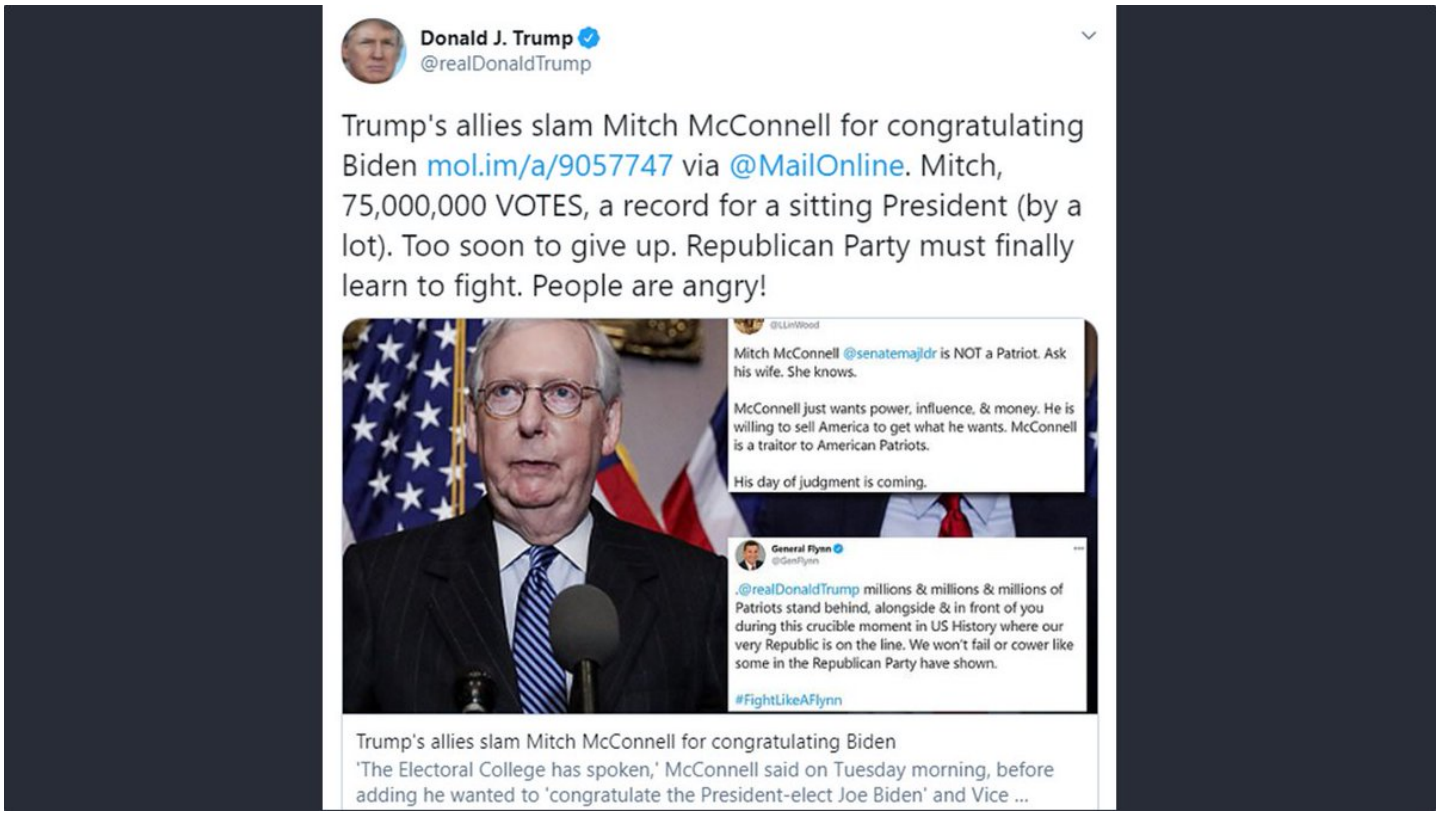
No, Hillary.

https://t.co/cOSzbcHisn

Oh, Mitch - this could have worked out so differently for you!

when is an "ALLY" not an ally? When their deeds do not match their words. When they lie. When they frustrate justice when it's needed most!

oh well - you have to break some eggs to make an omelette?



Meanwhile ... back to the water main ...

Election "turned off" to protect valuable equipment?

Why do you suppose there is so little curiosity over this story? What if those bribing MSM to misdirect "story" don't want incriminating evidence to point back at them?

Act of War?

Remember when Google had a fire (12.12.18) immediately before Sundar Pichai testified (12.18.18) Google didn't "sell" Dragonfly to Chicoms?

How about GAVE? Not a shred of evidence?

What if there were witnesses?

I AM ONE! & ready to testify!

Hi @sundarpichai @realDonaldTrump

So, Electors have cast their ballots (cast their lots - their purim) - and have committed to their treason - now's the time to spring the trap shut?

But, Mitch is compromised? The process is broken? kek.

Nope - sauce for the goose.

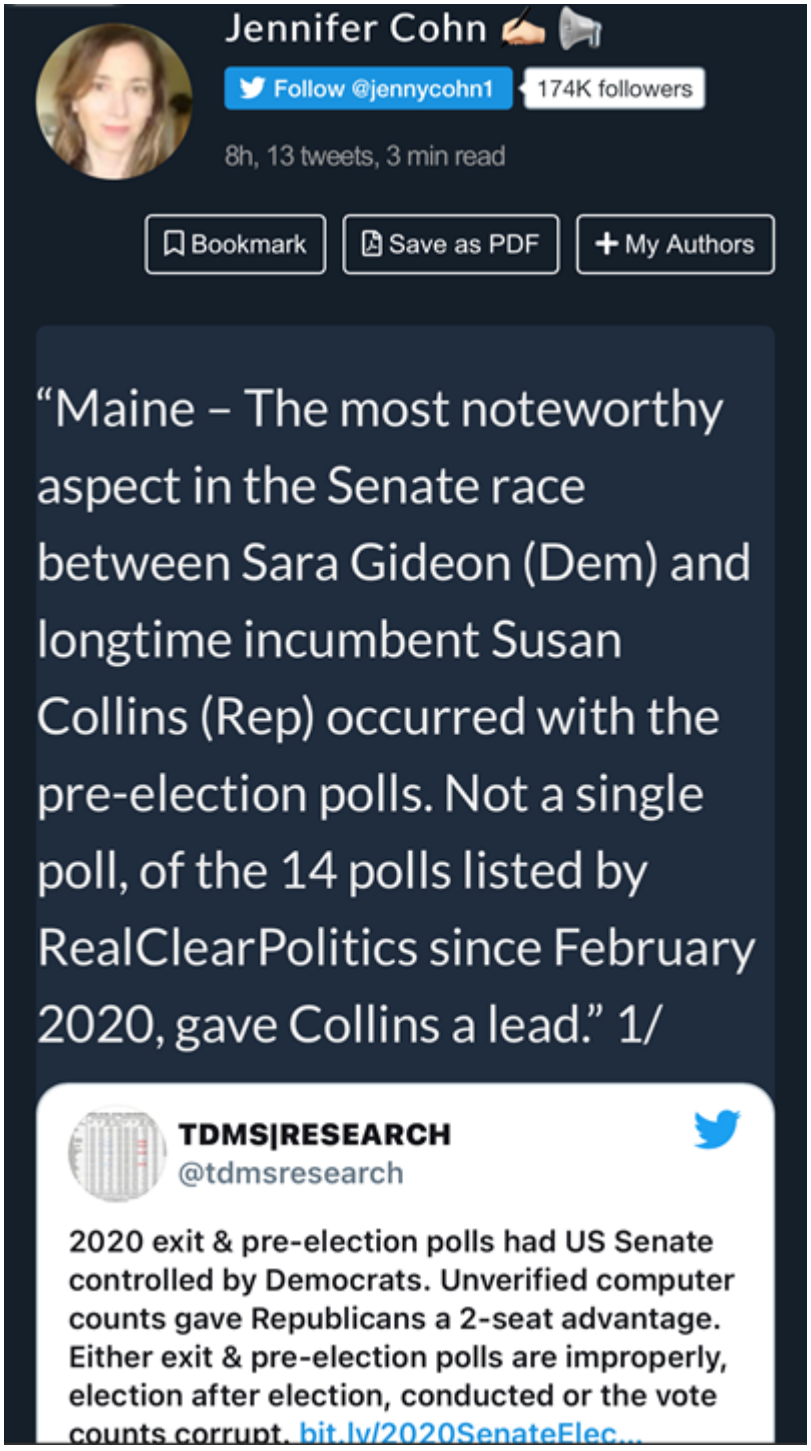
Turn those machines back on?

HOMECOMING

LEFT IS AWAKENING!!! ~ IT'S NOT JUST R v D.

IT'S LIFE v. DEATH.

It's USA v. CCP-PLA
https://t.co/x8iJBjQcYM



So, this got me to thinking ...

why would AG Barr take a few weeks off? At height of an electoral crisis? Republic at stake?

Did not "RESIGN" (which compels congressional approval for replacement)?

How do you avoid RECUSAL? "not in the slot at that time?"

kek.

4D CHESS.

Julian Assange Has Formally Requested a Pardon From President Donald Trump

By Cassandra Fairbanks
Published December 16, 2020 at 7:30am
12 Comments

Share on Facebook | Tweet | Share | Email

