

Twitter Thread by Anu Satheesh ■■

Anu Satheesh ■■

@AnuSatheesh5

Some talks about Sanskrit, made me write about the Beautiful Story of Bhoja Raja, which was there in my Sanskrit lessons. This is a moral for many of us to follow. Hope everyone will gets its meaning.

Raja Bhoj:-

Bhoja Raja was an honest king. He was well versed in Sanskrit■

He has honoured many Scholars in his court.

One day Queen was talking with a Pandit's wife in her room. Bhoja Raja was in a hurry and he entered the room to ask Queen something(that does not matter here). Queen stopped talking and called King "MOORKHA" which means fool.

King was totally surprised by this. He didn't get angry to the Queen nor he asked the reason to her. But he was very much disturbed and wanted to know the reason

Rajasabha began and many Pandit's were in the Sabha. King thought of a plan and he called all the Pandit's "MOORKHA"■

So that he can get his answer without telling.

Everyone were taken aback by this attitude of King. Many went away from the sabha feeling insulted. At that time a great Pandit came and King repeated the same words. Pandit replied to the king

■■ ■■■■

■■■■■ ■■■■■ ■■■■■ ■■■■

■■■ ■ ■■■■■ ■■■■ ■ ■■■■■

■■■■■■■■■■ ■■■■■■ ■ ■■■■■ ■■■■

■■■ ■■■■■■ ■■■ ■■■■■ ■■■■■■:

Meaning

I did not speak while having food, neither laugh or make fun of others. I did not worry about the past, I did not interfere as a third person when two people■ are talking, then what is the reason O King you called me a fool.

Bhoja Raja realized his mistake of interfering when queen was talking with someone. He rewarded the Pandit well.
This story can be linked well to today's situation, only if one understands.

