Meet @Mollyycolllinss, @SteveeRogerr, @ThomassRichards, a trio of accounts created in December 2020/January 2021 with unnecessary extra letters in their names that appear to be exploiting @buzz_chronicle to harvest the content of thousands of Twitter threads.

First, what is @buzz_chronicles? @buzz_chronicles is an account created in 2011 that saves copies of Twitter threads on an external website (buzzchronicles(dot)com). One triggers it by tagging it in a reply to the thread one wants to archive. (Similar to @threadreaderapp.)
