SRI YANTRA & ITS SIGNIFICANCE

According to ancient Hindu Scriptures,the Sri Yantra is the symbol of Hindu Tantra,which is based on Hindu philosophy of Kashmir Shaivism.Sri Yantra is the object of devotion in Sri Vidya.

Few of the important Yantras r Ganesh,Meru,Saraswati Yantra.

A Yantra in the Hindu tradition is, literally a device for spiritual advancement. The Sri Yantra is, in fact, the central object of worship in at least one important Hindu cult, but beyond its specific context, the Sri Yantra embodies profound philosophical understandings.

Supercharges your self-awareness & illuminates a clear path to your inner self.

Empowers your inner self with the clarity to understand, explore, and spark massive change in the outside world.

Switches on your dormant "super powers" to turn your deepest, most ambitious desires into reality.

Opens your eyes (and heart) to the people and wisdom that will rocket you towards your desires.

Turns you into an unstoppable magnet for attracting those people and wisdom into your reality.

LEVEL 1:

LEVEL 2:
FULFILL

LEVEL 3: ACTIVATE

LEVEL 4:
ACCESS

LEVEL 5:
IMPLEMENT

LEVEL 6: PROTECT

LEVEL 7: CLEANSE

LEVEL 8:
ACCOMPLISH

LEVEL 9:
CREATE

Renders you invincible against internal and external setbacks holding you back from your destiny.

Flushes out the negative energy and blocks that silently sabotage your every step.

Unshackles you from the confines of your current reality, so you are free to begin accomplishing the "impossible".

Nourishes you with the clarity, knowledge & joy to create anything you want, whenever you want - thus completing your transformation into an unstoppable Reality Hacker.

That makes it a powerful source of inspiration. Each design element of the Sri Yantra has special philosophical significance. The dot in the very center is representative of the Source of the universe; this dot, or bindu, is the "singularity" from which all manifest reality emerges.

A comparison of the similarities between the Sri Yantra Mandala and a Tonoscope picture of the sound OM. The Sri Yantra mandala is thousands of years old

From one point of view, the design is representative of the evolution of the universe itself from its mysterious beginnings, charting its many levels.

The Sri Yantra in its central portion contains nine triangles.

बिन्दु-त्रिकोण-वसुकोण-दशायुग्म-
मन्वश्च-नागदल-संयुत-षोडशारम् ।
वृत्तत्रयं च धरणीसदनत्रयं च

manvaśra-nāgadala-saṃyuta-ṣoḍaśāram vṛttatrayaṃ ca dharaṇīśadanatrayaṃ ca śrīcakrametaduditam paradevatāyāḥ

From the single point, three angles, and eight other triangles, followed by ten triangles within and without, then fourteen angles; there are eight petals of a lotus, again followed by sixteen. These support three circles, three demarkations of existence, with four doors (bhūpara). This is known as the Śrī Cakra, the expression of the highest divinity.

Four of them point upward & represent unmanifest power of the universe; all that is beyond our sense perceptions. They are thought of as being masculine & represent masculine aspect of divinity. Five downward-pointing triangles represent divine feminine & manifest aspects of the world.

Prof: UFOs carved desert icon

Iowa artists lied, Oregon man says

Associated Press

BEND, Ore. — The elaborate Hindu meditation symbol carved in a southeastern Oregon desert last summer probably was made by UFOs and not a band of Iowa artists, a science professor claims.

James Deardorff, a research professor emeritus at Oregon State University, alleged the government concocted a "cover story" with Iowa artist Bill Witherspoon and five others to explain the quarter-mile-wide symbol.

"Their story doesn't make any sense. I wonder if the government took them out and told them what to say, where they camped and how they did it," Deardorff said this week.

Deardorff retired four years ago from teaching in the university's Department of Atmospheric Sciences. He said he now looks into the "UFO phenomenon" full time.

Witherspoon said in a telephone interview there is nothing mysterious about the huge shri yantra symbol he and others dug in a dry lake bed north of the Alvord Desert.

"No, it wasn't aliens. It was just some guys," the Fairfield, Iowa artist said.

Witherspoon said he and five companions laid out the intricate design using an old garden cultivator, 12 miles of twine, survey stakes, a tape measure, a pair of binoculars and a blueprint.

The design was discovered by an Idaho Air National Guard pilot during a training flight Aug. 10.

Witherspoon later came forward to claim the work. The BLM fined him and his group $100 for defacing public land.

Deardorff said he wasn't convinced after studying a videotape of the symbol and studying Witherspoon's account.

Deardorff was suspicious about a number of elements in Witherspoon's story, including the fact that the drawing supposedly was discovered just a day after it was completed but wasn't reported until about 40 days later.

"Why that big delay?" he asked. "The time was there for them to build up a cover story."

He also didn't believe that the artists could have drawn such a perfect symbol, with its neat, uniform furrows, with an old cultivator. And he questioned whether the artists could have worked in the 90-degree desert heat for 10 days without running short of water.

It should be mentioned that from the other point of view the Sri Yantra is understood to be the Mother of the Universe herself, the incarnate Goddess who both embodies and transcends time.

In a world where the male divinity and all that is male has had primacy for a very long time, this design can be seen as the very embodiment of a challenge to patriarchy and to the masculinist world we live in.
