A scholar of Ayurveda in 600BC, identified 5 mosquito species as source of a "King of Diseases" causing chills & fevers.

For next 2500 yrs ur "Allopathy" & whole world thought, it causes due to Bad Air & named it MALARIA : Mal = Bad, Aria = Air.

This is the legacy of #Ayurveda <https://t.co/M440lfZKWR> eventually engulf the United States in the momentous issues of slavery and civil war.

Indian medical texts also mention the differing malarial fevers by 1500 BCE. The "king of diseases" was personified by the fiery fever demon Takman, who arises from lightning during the rainy season. Not only did Indians recognize that water was somehow affiliated with mosquitoes, they also seem to have been the first to identify mosquitoes as the source of malaria. In his detailed sixth-century BCE compendium on medicine, Indian physician Sushruta singled out five mosquito species of the northern Indus River Valley: "Their bite is as painful as that of a serpent, and causes diseases . . . accompanied by fever, pain of limbs, hair standing on end, pain, vomiting, diarrhea, thirst, heat, giddiness, yawning, shivering, hiccups, burning sensations, intense cold." He also alludes to an enlarged spleen, "which distends the left side, is as hard as stone, and is arched like the back of a turtle." While he suspected the mosquito as a vector for disease, medical practitioners, scientists, and the casual observer lacked scientific evidence until recently, so the theory remained just that, a theory. Dr. Sushruta's astute reasoning and keen observations went unheeded for millennia.

The mosquito's influence and impact travel unregulated and unfettered across the historical space-time continuum. The mosquito is

O dude. I pity your lack of common sense. I am asking if ayurveda is so effective, please reduce our patient load and let ayurved acharyas and hospitals treat the patients. I would like to go home. Instead of sitting in your room huffing roots, come and help out

A British scientist named Joseph Constantine Carpue wrongfully accessed details of traditional Indian surgery (Ayurvedic) & Using these techniques, he performed world's first "modern Rhinoplasty" 20 yrs later.

This is Your loved #Allopathy

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA SPENDING MILLIONS OF DOLLARS & THEIR TIME ON ITS RESEARCH.

And some over educated doctors makes fun of Ayurveda.

Dr.Anomitra, Gaumutra indeed has medicinal values. Its medicinal properties are mentioned in various ancient Ayurvedic texts. It is said to treat Kushta, Kandu, Udar rog, colic etc. It is rich in minerals & vitamins.

Urine therapy has been a part of...

You know nothing about research either. Kabhi dimaag se gomutra nikla to aana methodology sikha dunga

Chinese, Aztec, Egyptian, Indian traditional medicine. Ayurved says that urine from 8 specific animals can cure certain diseases.

I am in no way being offended, I just request anyone who doubts, to read this or at least be open to Ayurvedic medication.

Dr. Overconfidence, It was baba Ramdev ji who had told papita juice beneficial in Dengue.

After that allopathy came up with Caripill and selling 15 capsule for 520 rs

That's why problems with Ramdev ji..!

Bhai wo Dhongi Baba hai. Don't disgrace my Hindu ancestors by calling him a Baba. You are either brainwashed or some stupid IT cell propagator. We're done. \U0001f602

At last it's a humble request @TheSkepticalMRI,

Do not feel disgusted by your culture. Since time immemorial Gaumutra has been used for its medicinal values so much that vaidya compared it to Sanjeevani and Amrut.
