

Twitter Thread by Dr Nishita Choudhary

Dr Nishita Choudhary
@NishitaChy

Schizophrenia is a serious mental disorder in which people observe reality abnormally. Schizophrenia may result in hallucinations, delusions, and extremely disordered thinking and behavior, which is a serious issue.

Schizophrenia patients needs a very long treatment.

■ Symptoms of Schizophrenia

■ Delusions

■ Hallucinations

■ Abnormal Behaviours

■ Abnormal Thinking

■ Cant function normally

■ Delusions

Delusion is a state where people get false belief which are not actual truth.

Types of delusions are:

Jealousy

Somatic

Grandiose

Erotomaniac- where people think that that important or famous person is in love with them or are crazy about them.

■ Hallucinations

In this people makes perceptions of seeing, hearing, getting touched, smelled something that doesn't exist in real life.

■ Abnormal Behaviour

In this people can start behaving abnormally making loud sound, inappropriate postures, lack of response etc.

■ Abnormal Thinking

It refers to abnormal speaking where people can answer unrelated answers, meaningless words, start talking with themselves.

Sometimes it also called word salad.

■ Abnormal Functioning

In this generally get quite, lose the emotion, speak in a low tone,

They don't make eye contact, they look somewhere else and talk.

■Symptoms in teenagers

■■Becoming introvert

■■Less Sleep or trouble in sleeping

■■Get irritated on any thing

■■Depressed mood

■■Always feeling low

■■when teenagers starts taking drug,LSD,Ganja,Charas,Cigarette,etc..

■Cause of Schizophrenia

A combination of genetics, brain chemistry and environment develop the disorder. Problems with certain naturally occurring brain chemicals, including neurotransmitters called dopamine and glutamate, may contribute to schizophrenia.

■Complications of Schizophrenia

■■Suicidal thought, Suicidal attempt

■■Social Isolation

■■Depression

■■Abuse of Drugs,Alcohol etc

■■Health and medical problems

■■Sometime aggressive behaviour

■■Unable to do daily work

Through Allopathy currently there is no cure for schizophrenia, but living with treatment can help in preventing worsening of the symptoms.

It can be prevented in its early symptoms.