Twitter Thread by Milo M.

Milo M.
@Ex67T20

https://t.co/5OmFX4bPRM

Mitch McConnell’s brother in law made a $26.8 million XPO Logistics purchase for his hedge fund—his fund’s first ever XPO purchase—after DeJoy was unanimously elected Postmaster General by a board comprised of governors Mitch McConnell confirmed.

> Remember last year, when Mitch McConnell\u2019s brother in law spent $26.8 million dollars on XPO Logistics stock for his hedge fund\u2014*after* former XPO CEO Louis DeJoy was elected Postmaster General by McConnell\u2019s USPS appointees?
>
> His fund\u2019s XPO holdings are now worth $35.4 million. https://t.co/SjRvJDi9IR
>
> — Milo M. (@Ex67T20) March 20, 2021

@jacobbogage https://t.co/RGLCRLIqJ2
In 2015, McConnell reported that his wife earned $50,001-$100,000 from her investment in said brother in law’s Caymans-registered offshore fund. I think it’s safe to say that they’re familiar with the hedge fund.

> https://t.co/n7ESSxLbvv
> On Mitch McConnell\u2019s 2015 financial disclosure, he stated that Elaine Chao earned $50,001-$100,000 from her $500,000-$1,000,000 stake in her brother in law\u2019s Caymans-registered hedge fund.
> pic.twitter.com/GIagRGgsPN
>
> — Milo M. (@Ex67T20) May 29, 2019

@jacobbogage https://t.co/6tGqGkntxC
Probably just a coincidence.

> While we wait for Trump\u2019s continued projection re: China, let\u2019s take a closer look at Mitch McConnell, Elaine Chao, Bank of China, and the appearance of systematic illegal insider trading and good old fashioned grift.
>
> (1) https://t.co/gtYX0iitUM
>
> — Milo M. (@Ex67T20) October 22, 2020