Thread on 50 GOLDEN RULES of Warren Buffett ( One Rule Per Day)

Day 1:

4 Filters Of Investing.

1. Businesses we can understand.

2. Favorable long-term prospects.

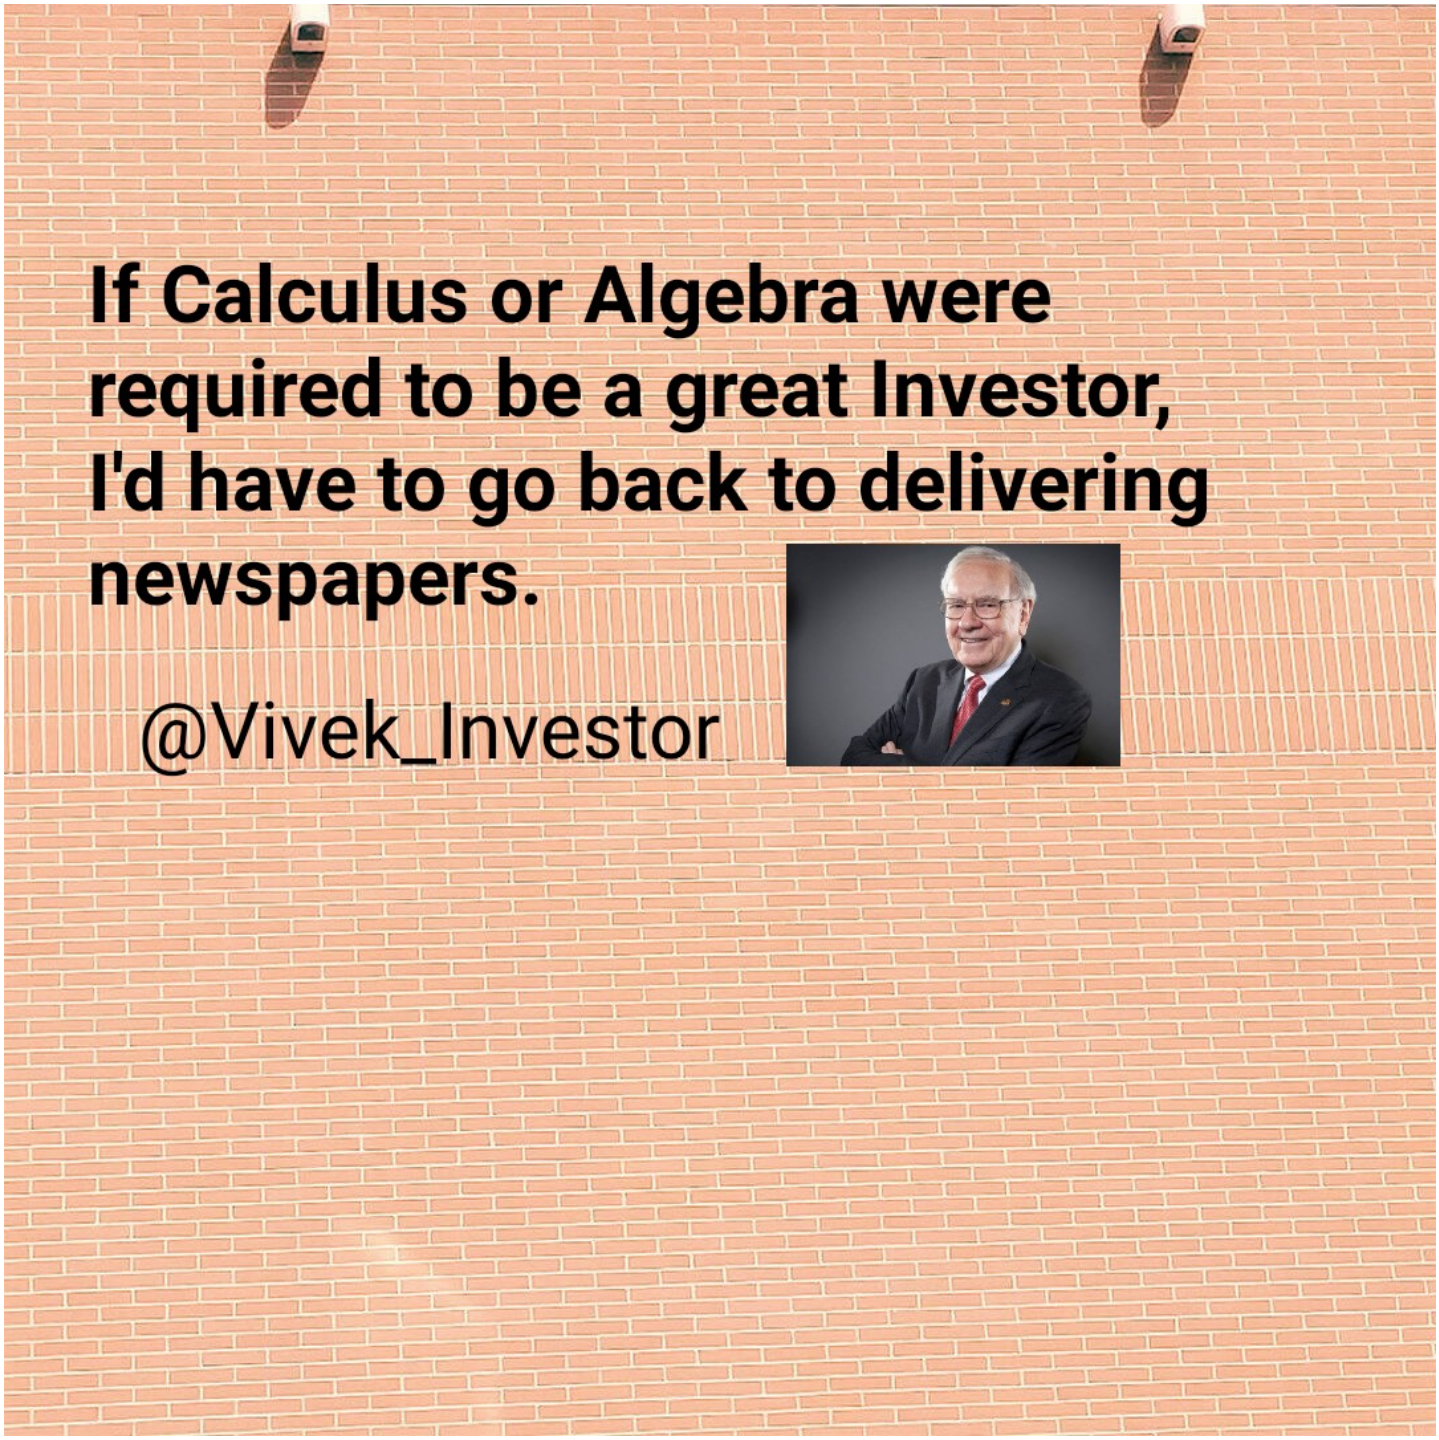

3. Able and trustworthy management.

4.Sensible price tag. @Vivek_Investor

Day 2:

To understand Investing you need not required to be a genius. Investing is not a rocket science.

Day 3 :

Personal Finance.

Don’t save what is left after spending; spend what is left after saving.

Day 5:

Management.

Three Basic Qualities Of Good Management:

✓ Integrity.

✓ Rationality.

✓ Passion towards the business.

@Vivek_Investor

Day 6:

Start Early.

I made my first investment at age eleven. I was wasting my life until then.

@Vivek_Investor

Day 7 :

Reputation is your biggest asset.

It takes 20 years to build a reputation and five minutes to ruin it. If you think about that, you'll do things differently.

@Vivek_Investor

Day 8 :

If you have time to study the businesses then go for direct equities otherwise SIP in low cost index funds.

If you like spending six to eight hours per week working on investments, do it. If you don't, then dollar-cost average into index funds.

@Vivek_Investor

Day 9 :

Risk.

Risk comes from not knowing what you're doing.

@Vivek_Investor

Day 10:

Prediction■

Forecasts may tell you a great deal about the forecaster; they tell you nothing about the future.

@Vivek_Investor

Day 11:

Investor & Market fluctuations.

Look at market fluctuations as your friend rather than your enemy; profit from folly rather than participate in it.

@Vivek_Investor

Day 12 :

Focus on Process.

We enjoy the process far more than the proceeds.

@Vivek_Investor

Day 13:

Invest in yourself.

Day 14:

Honesty.

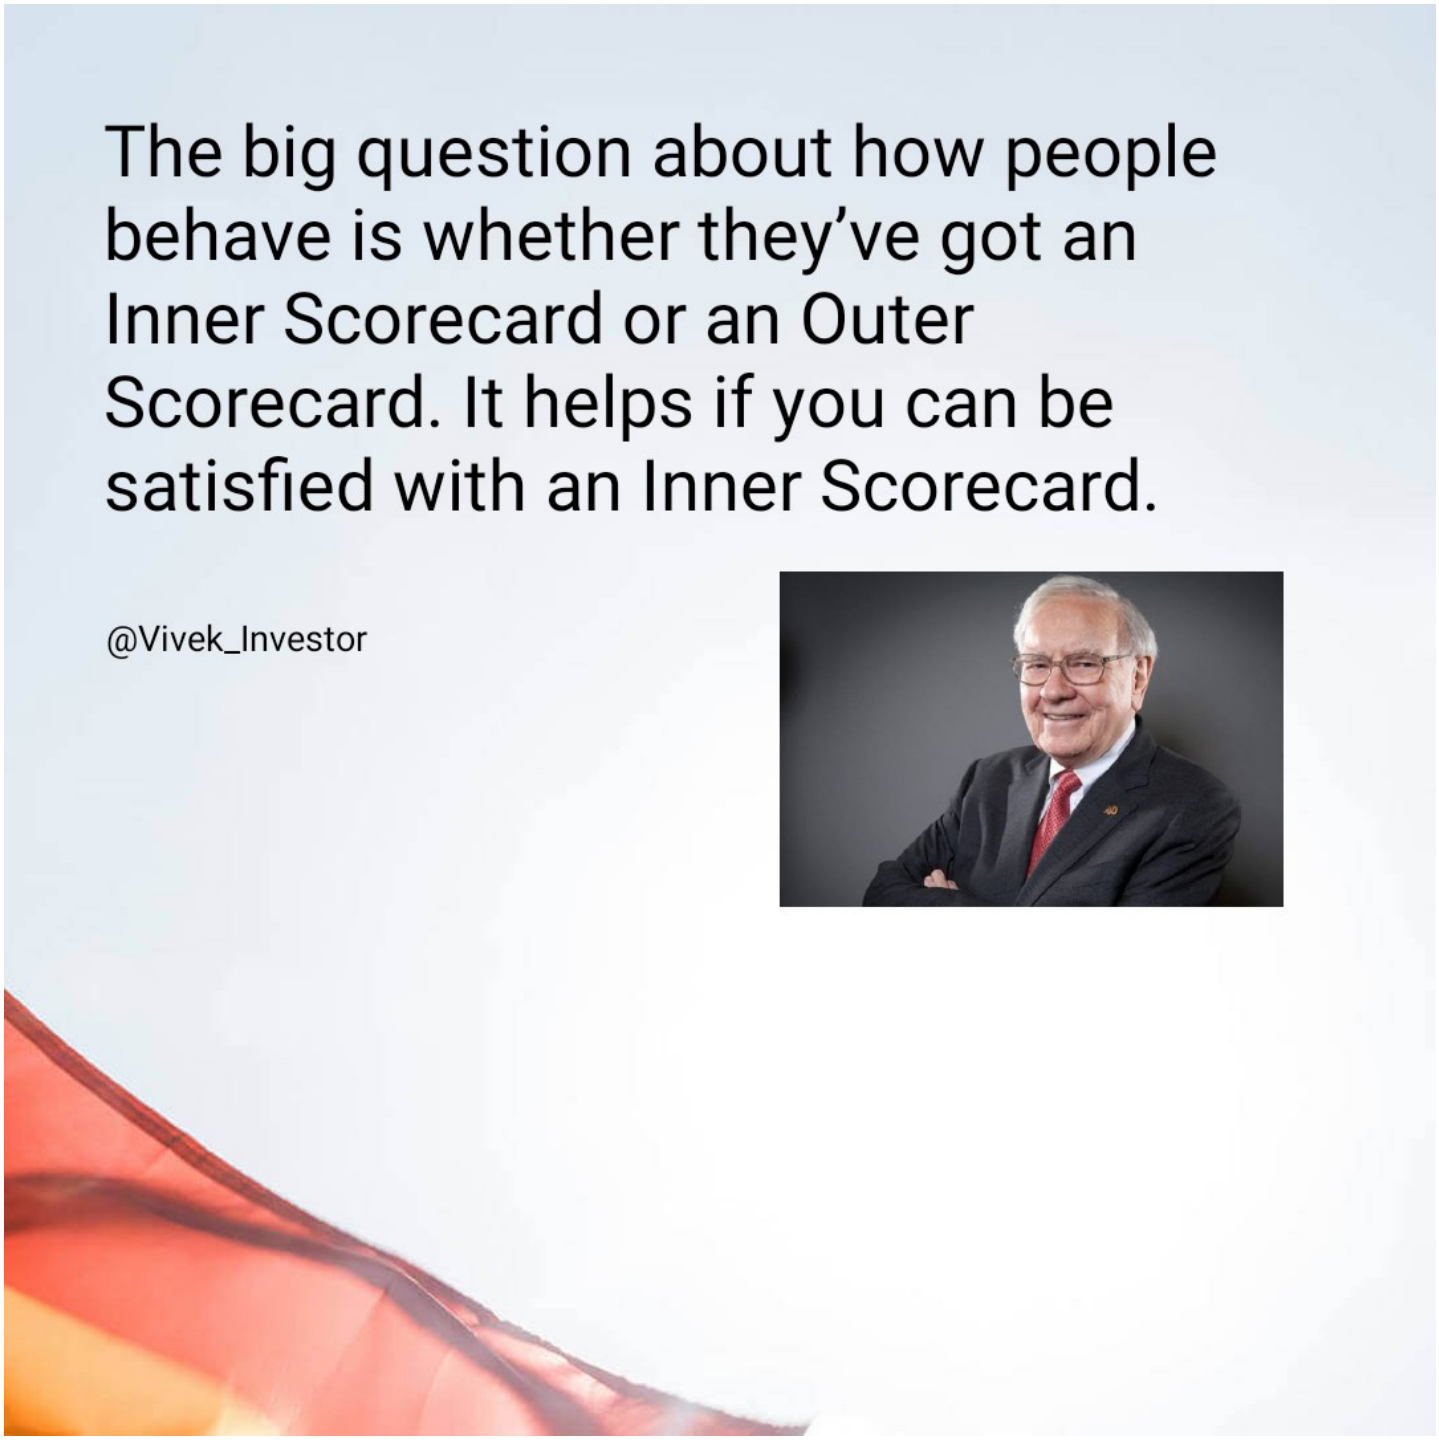

Day 15:

How about investing in turnaround stories?■ ■

Day 16:

Your inner scorecard matters.

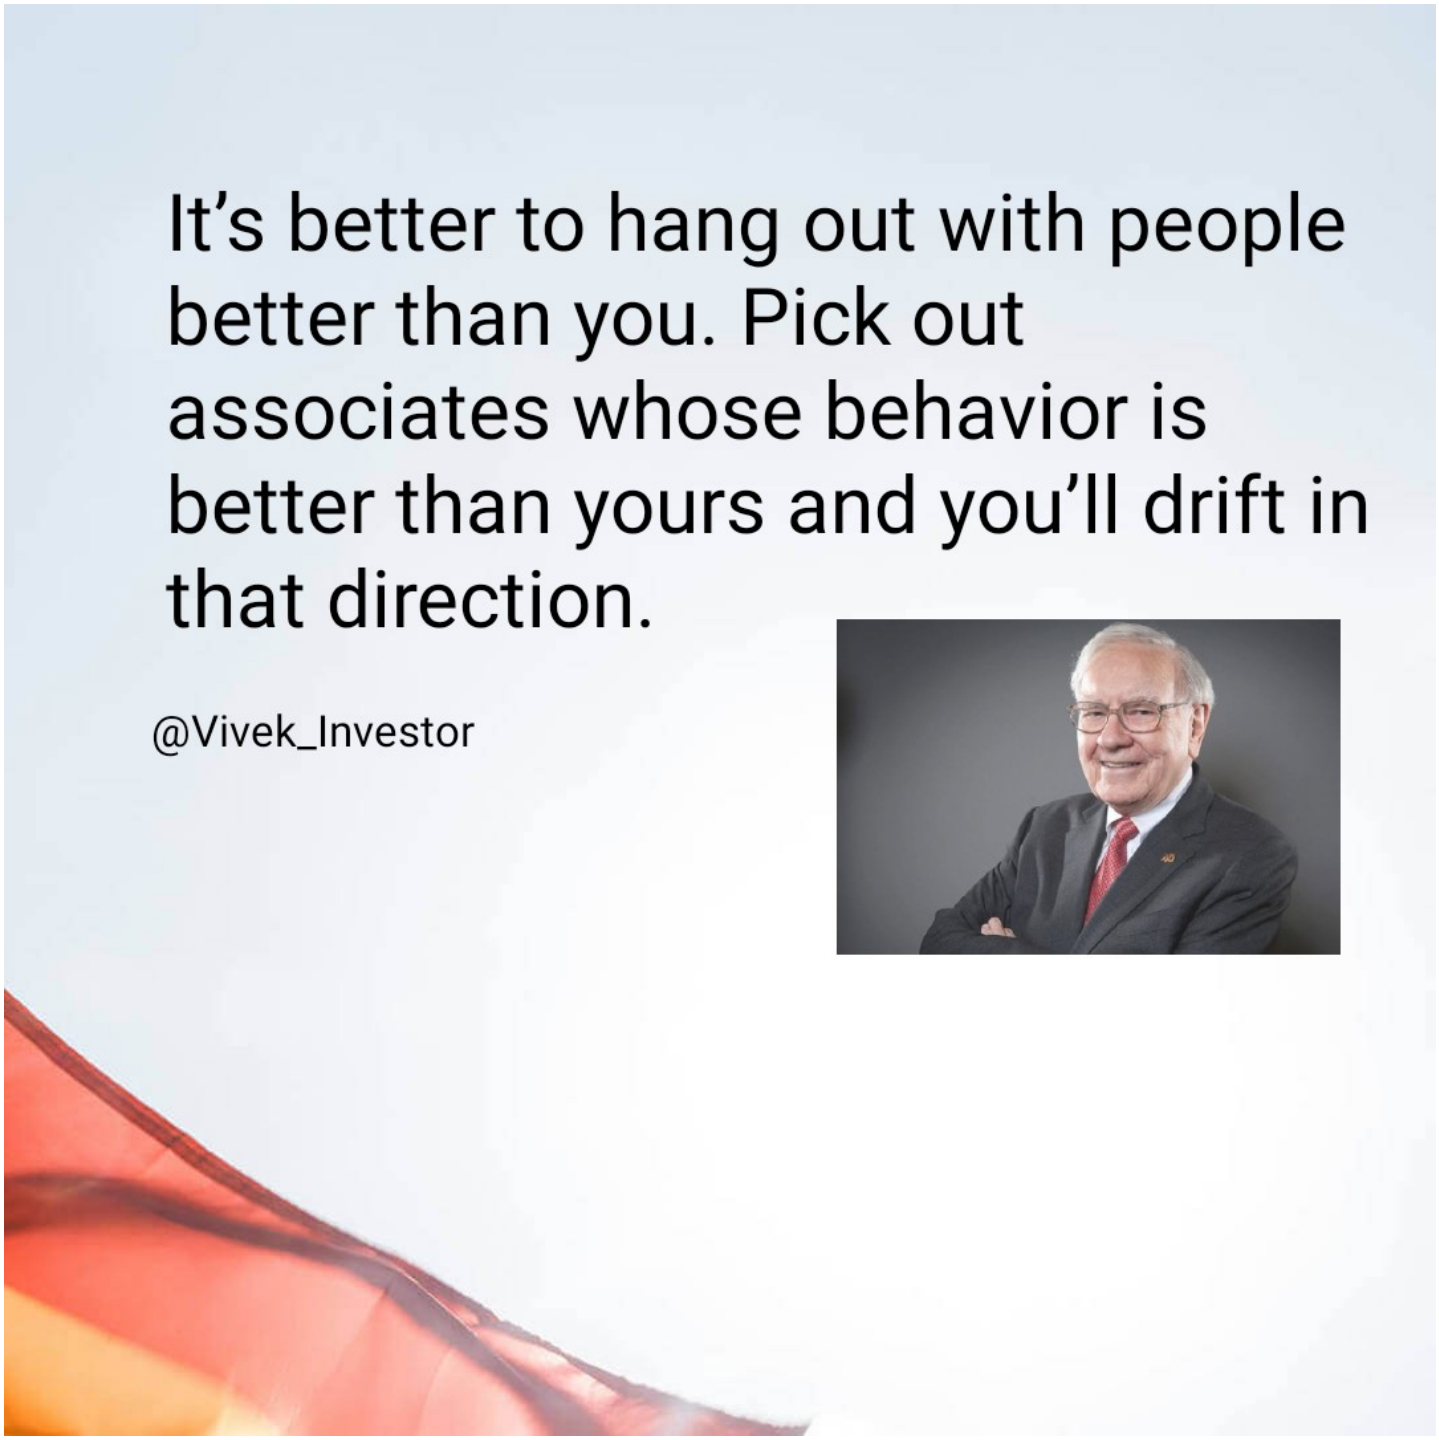

Day 17:

Handful of few good stocks are enough.

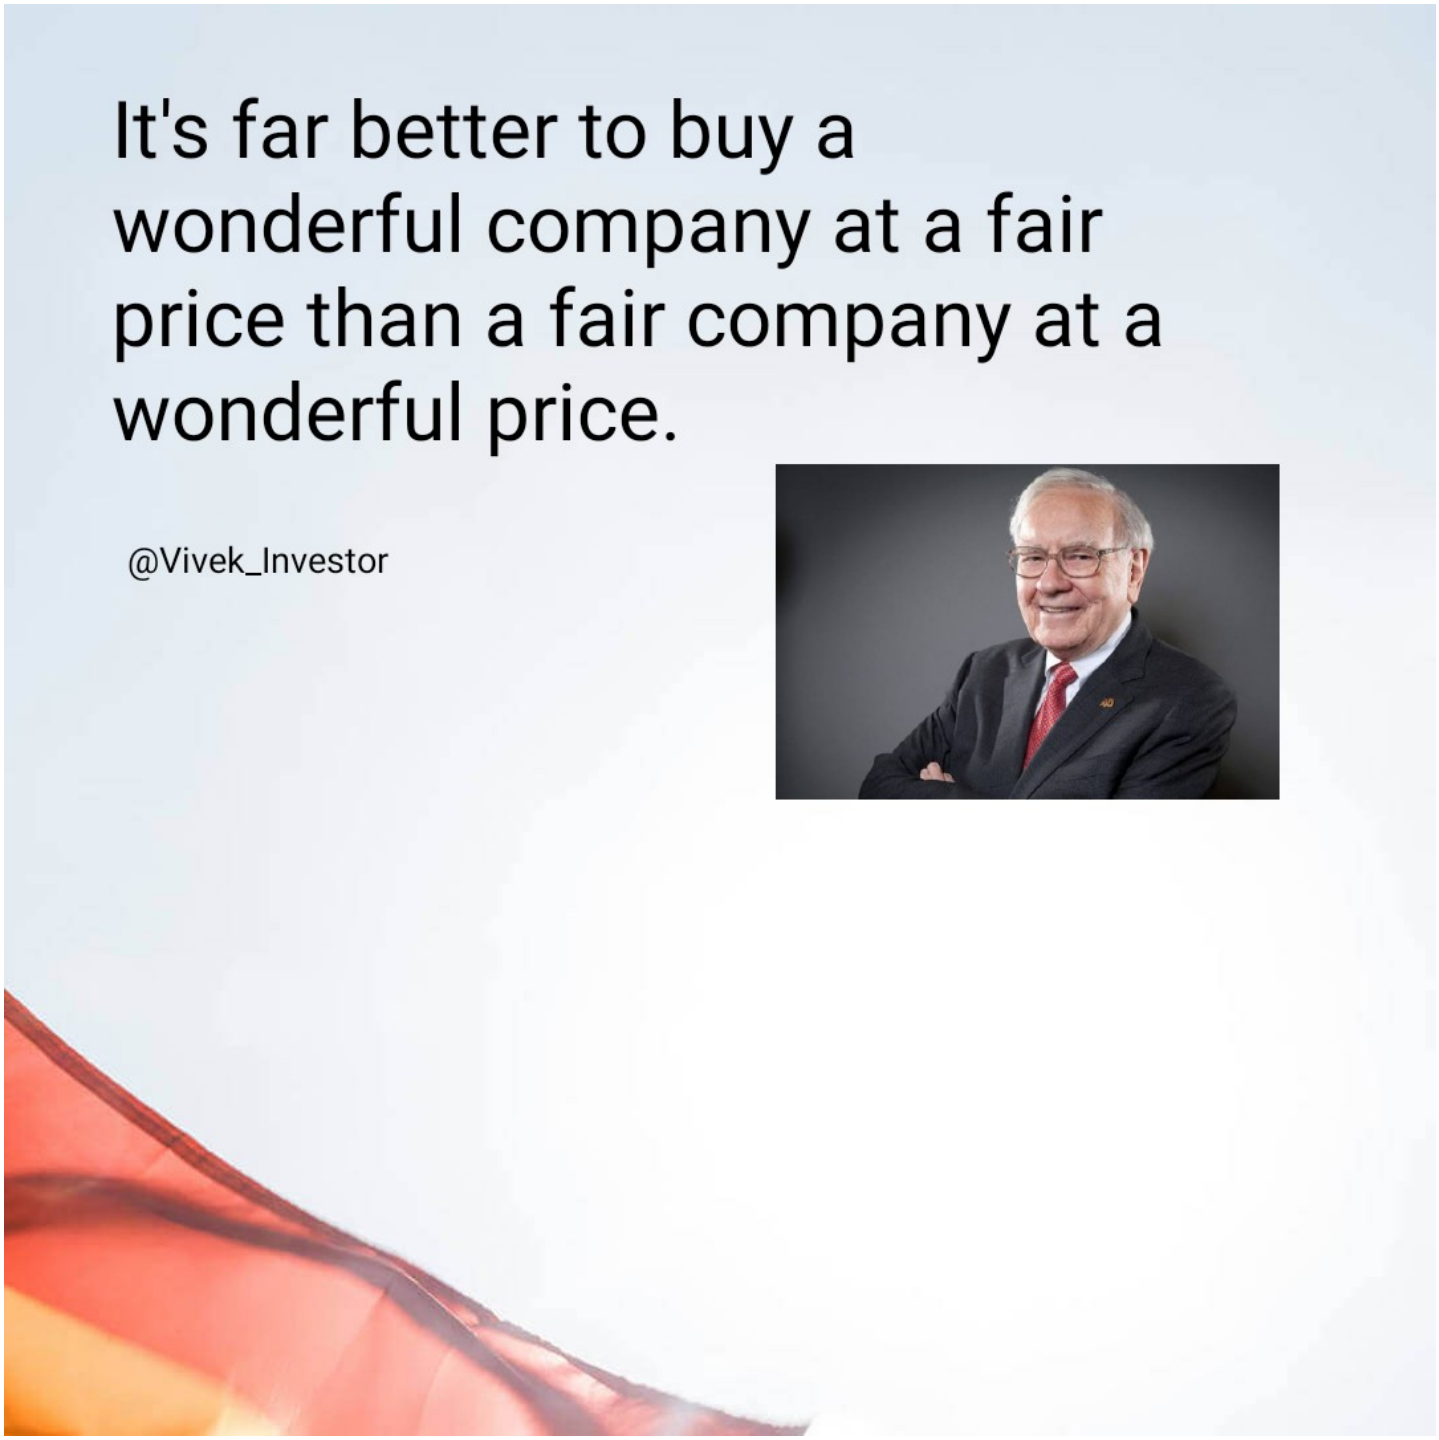

Day 18:

Associate with people better than you ■

Day 19:

Quality business @ fair price ■■

Day 20:

Speculation.

Day 21:

A clever person likes to solve the problem, whereas a smart person clearly avoid it!

Investing is not for clever people but it is for smart people. Be smart.

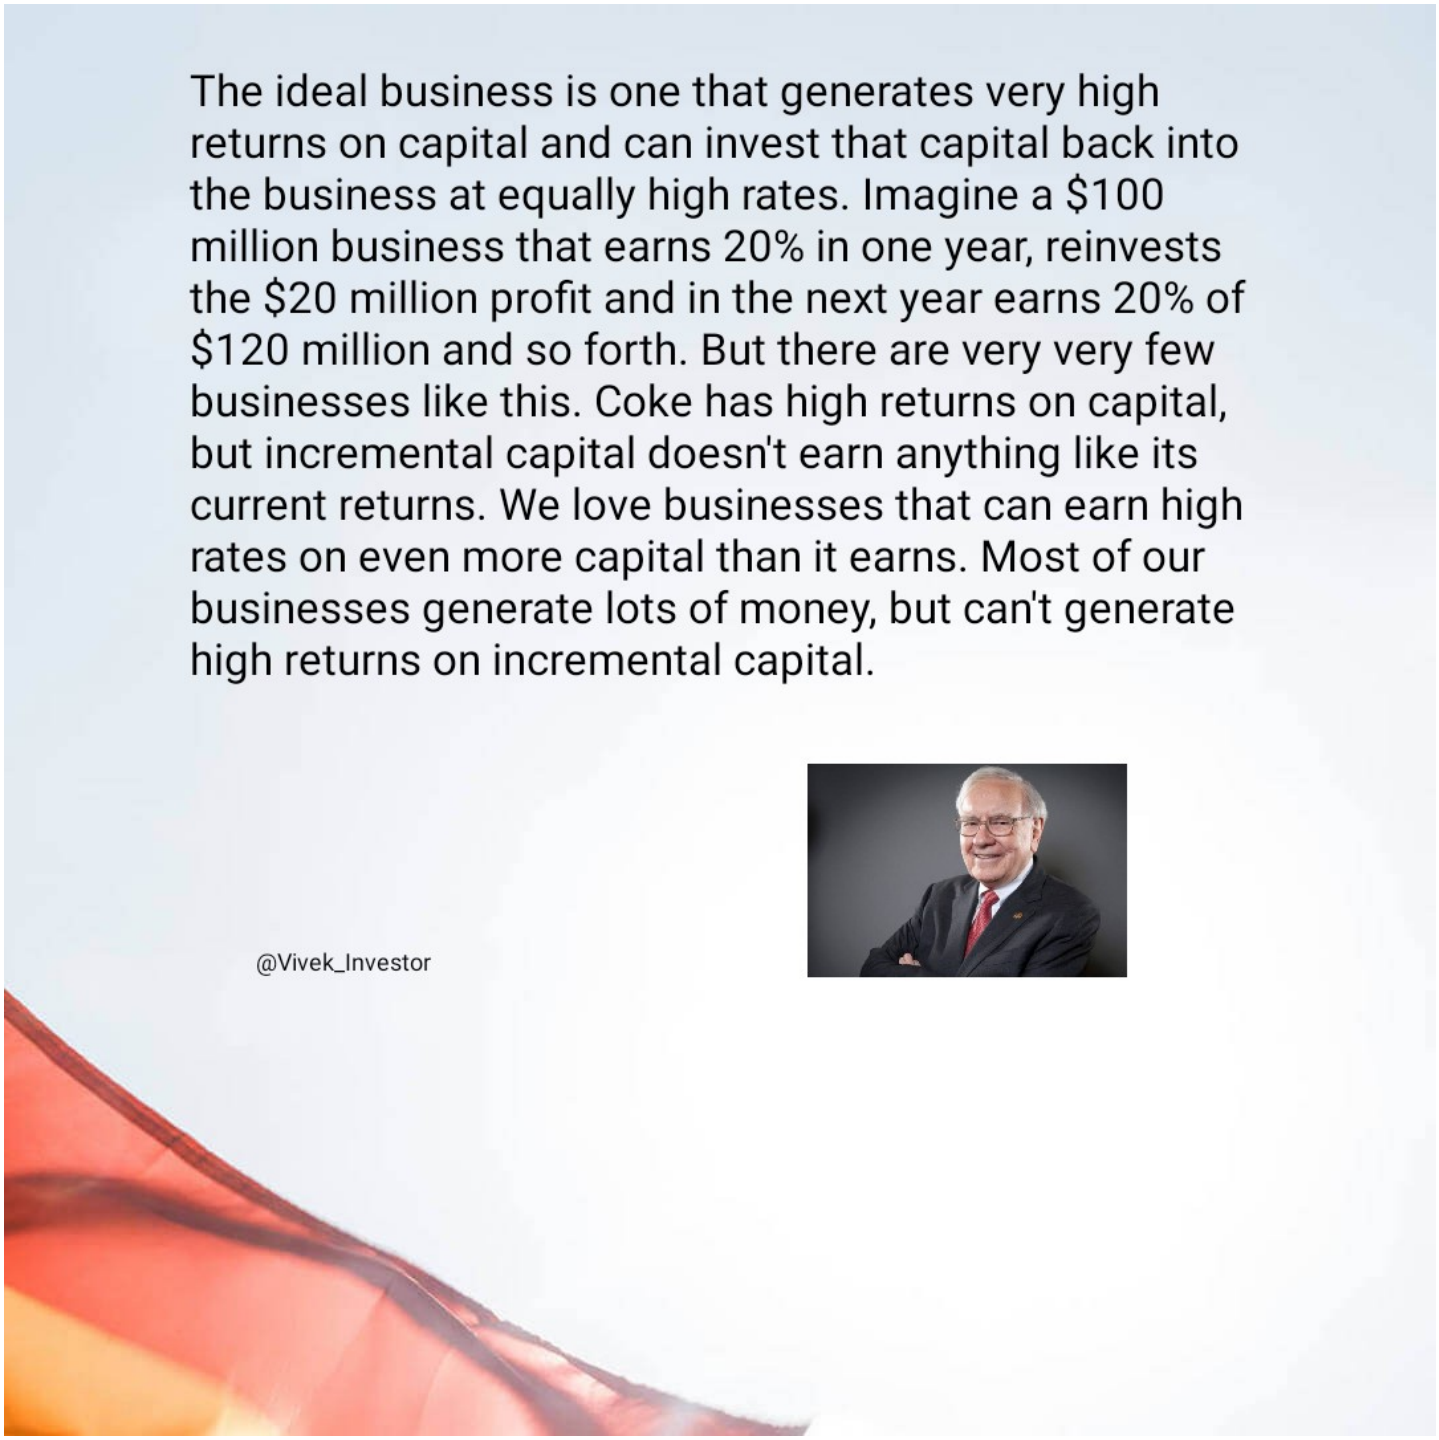

After 25 years of buying and supervising a great variety of businesses, Charlie and I have not learned how to solve difficult business problems. What we have learned is to avoid them.

@Vivek_Investor

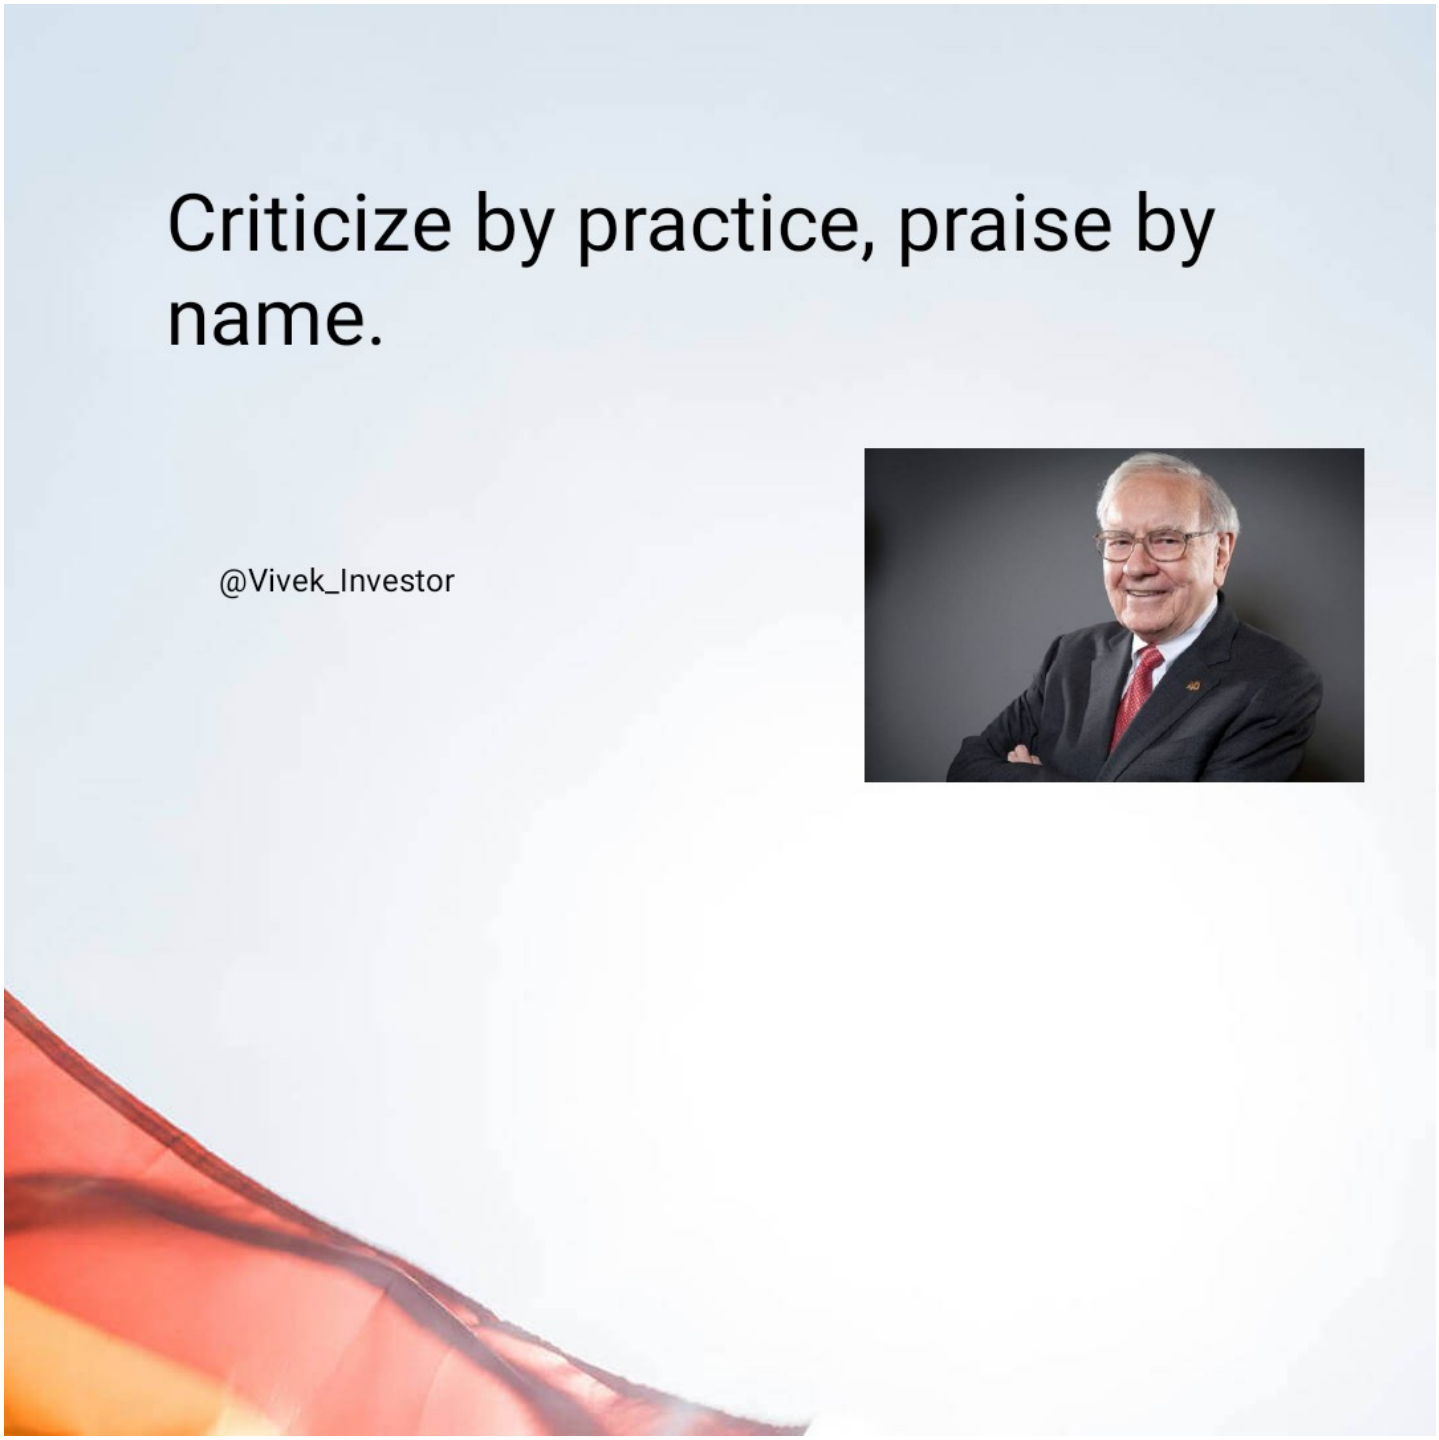

Day 22:

On ideal business.

Day 23:

Dealing with people.

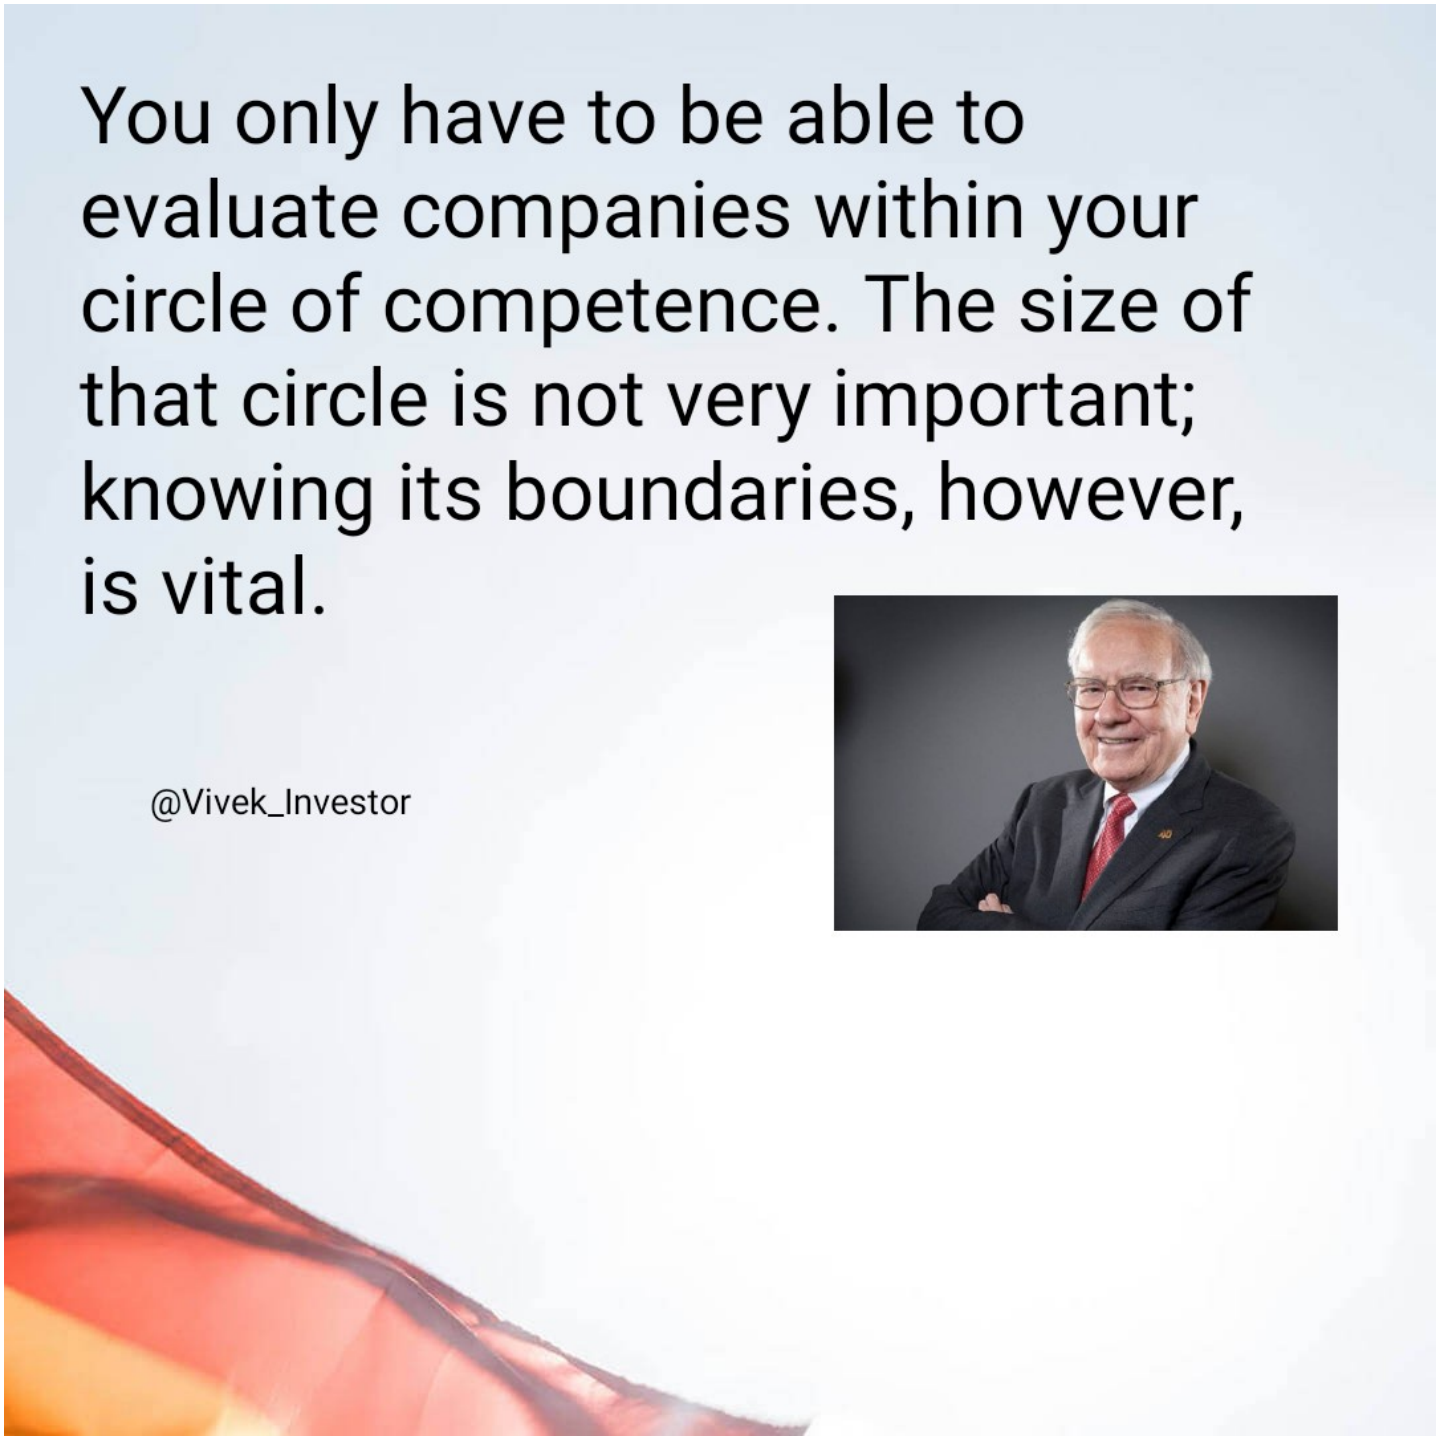

Day 24:

Invest on future growth of the business & not based on past glory.

Day 25:

On "Circle of competence" ■

Day 26:

Spend money prudently...otherwise■

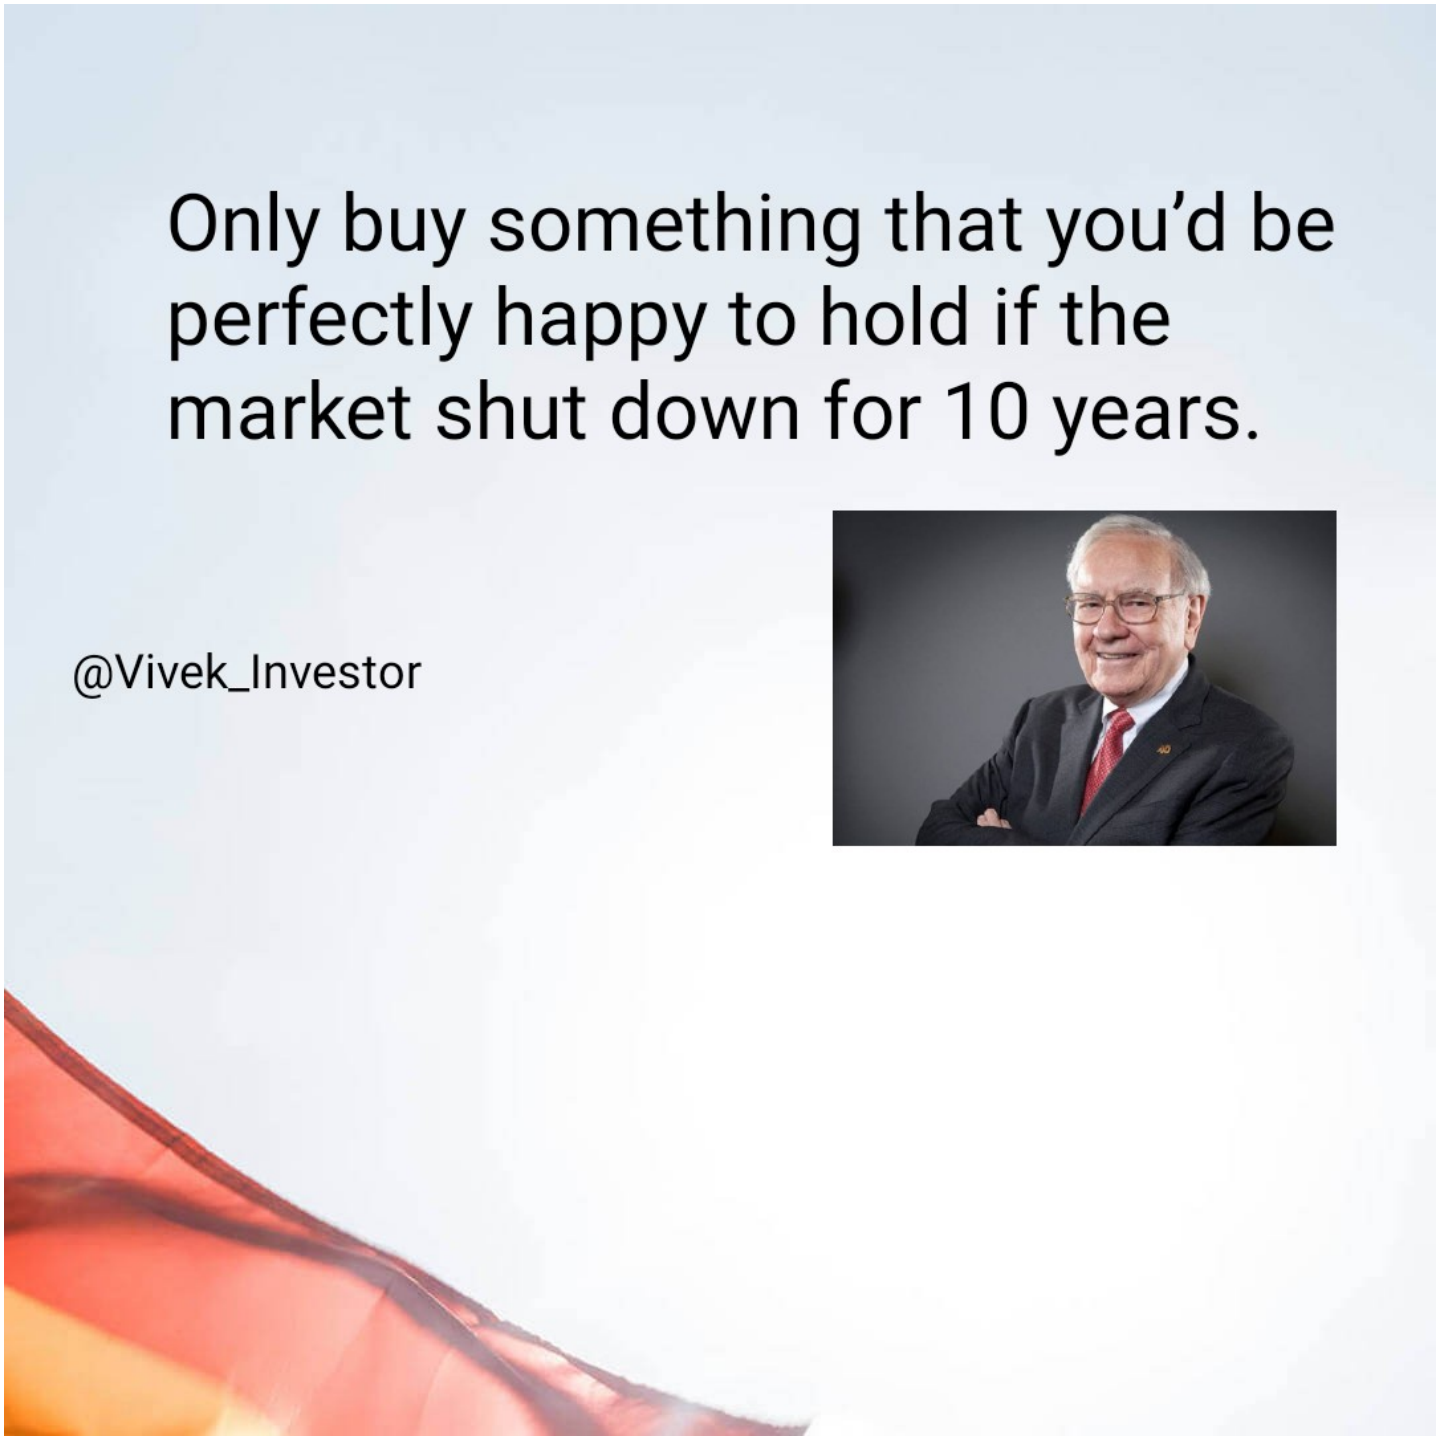

If you buy things you do not need, soon you will have to sell things you need.

@Vivek_Investor

Day 27:

Invest only in this kind of businesses with this kind of mindset.

Day 28:

Simple businesses| Higher degree of predictability| Less vulnerable to technological disruption.

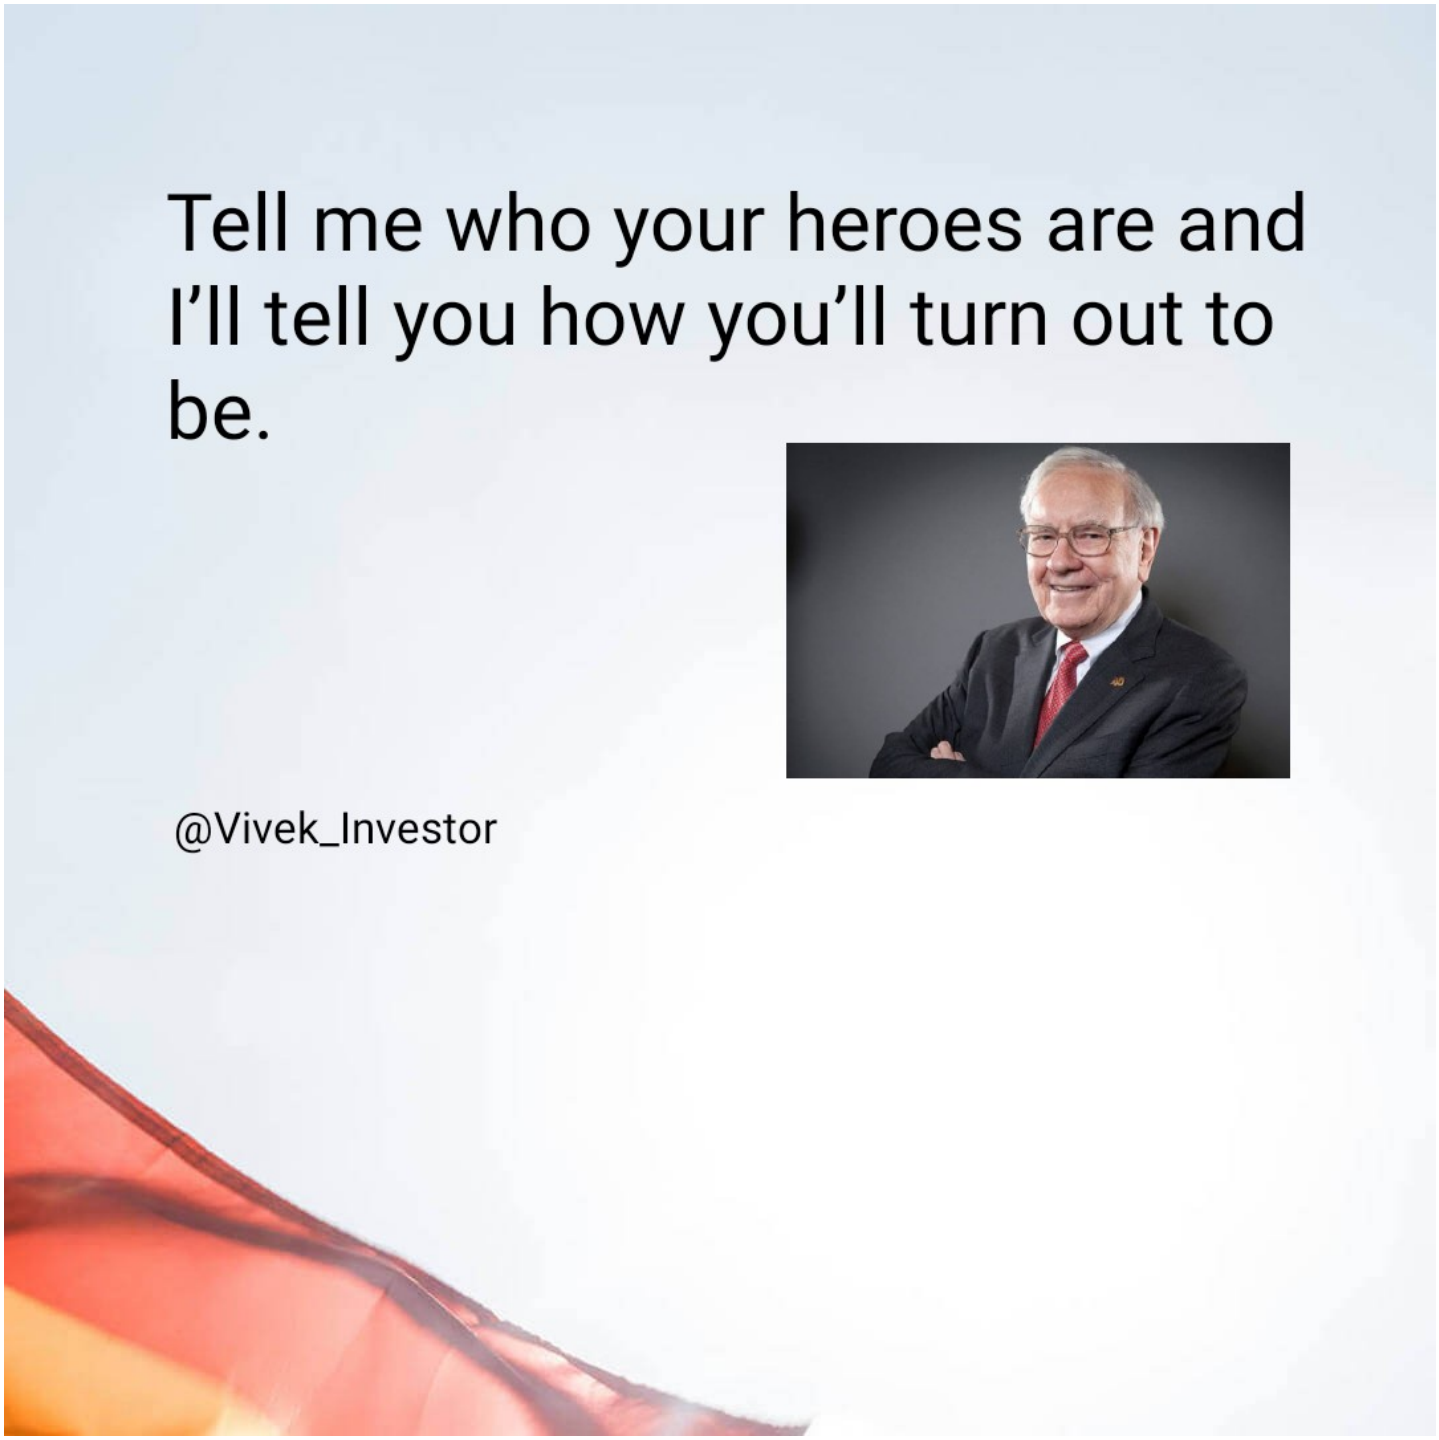

Day 29:

First focus on survival.

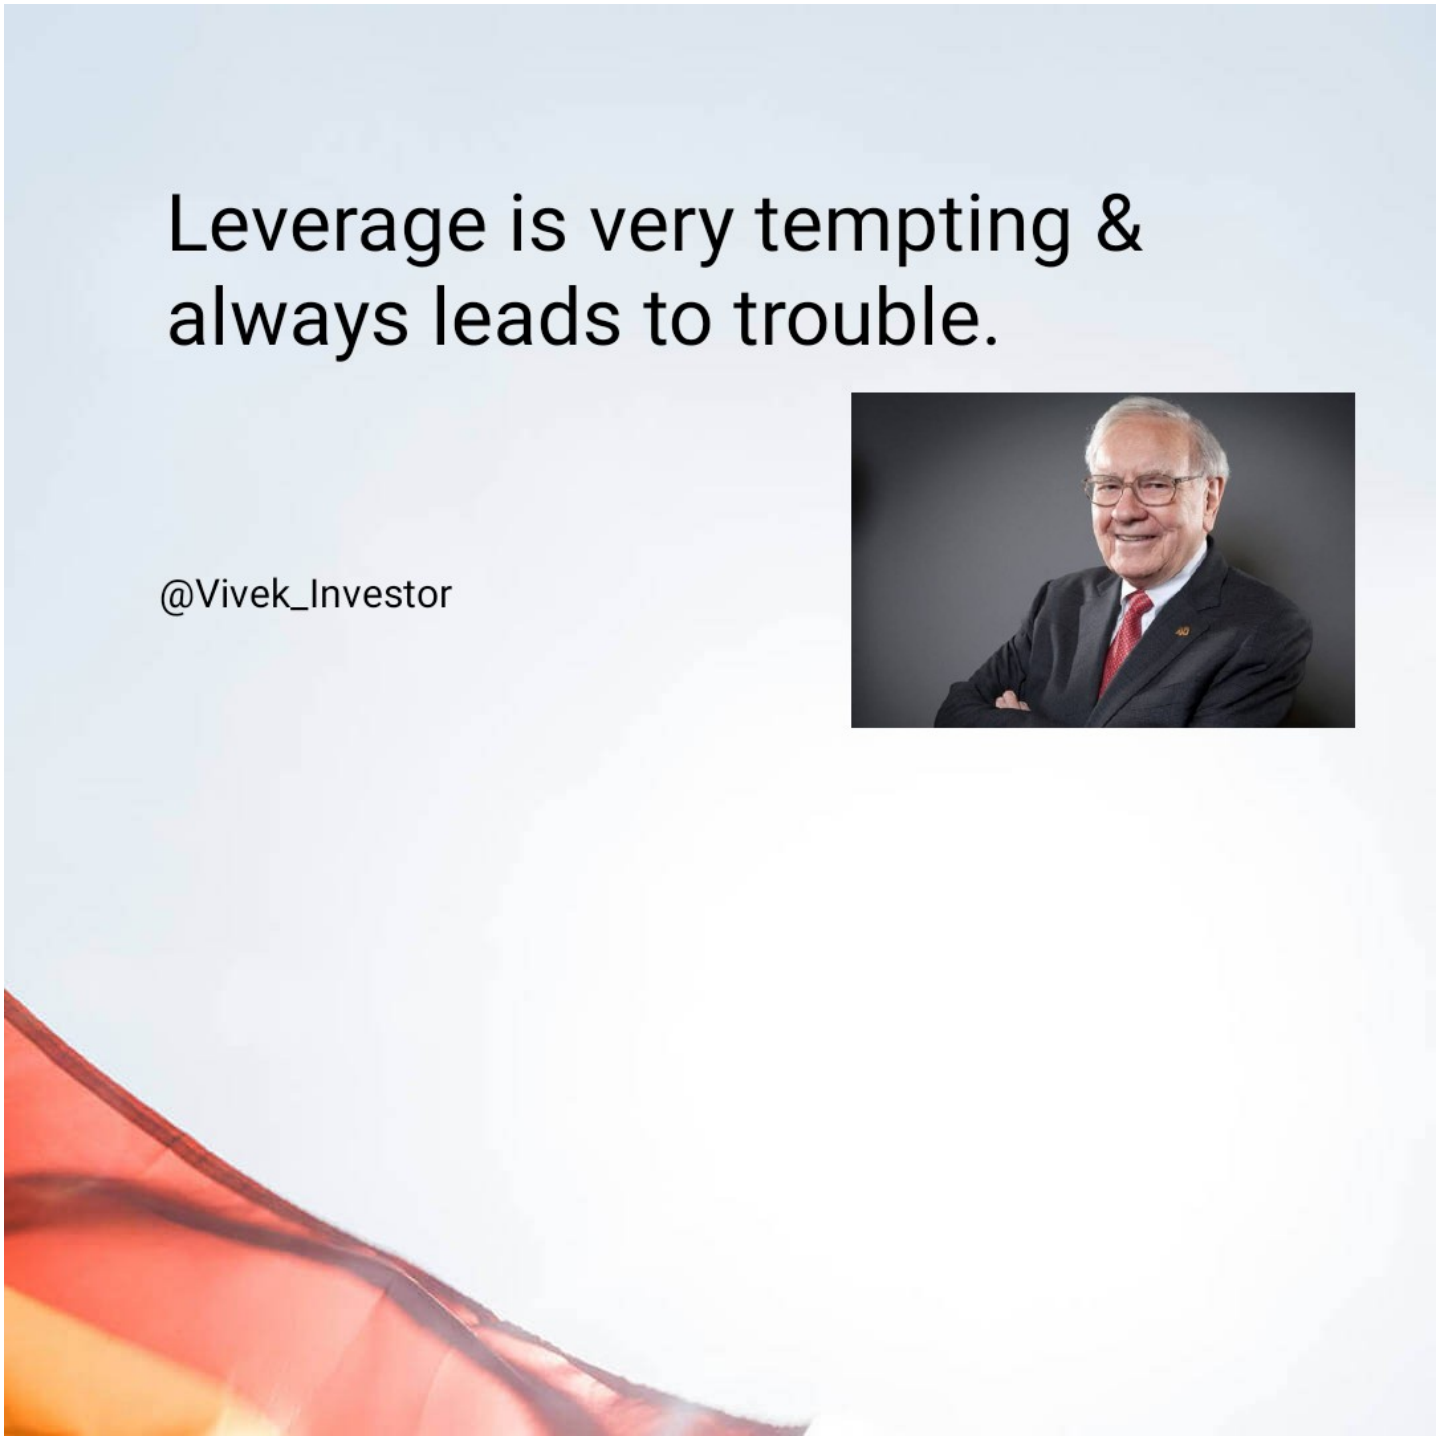

Day 30:

Choose the right "role models".

Day 31 :

On Leverage.

Day 32 :

Advice to new investors.

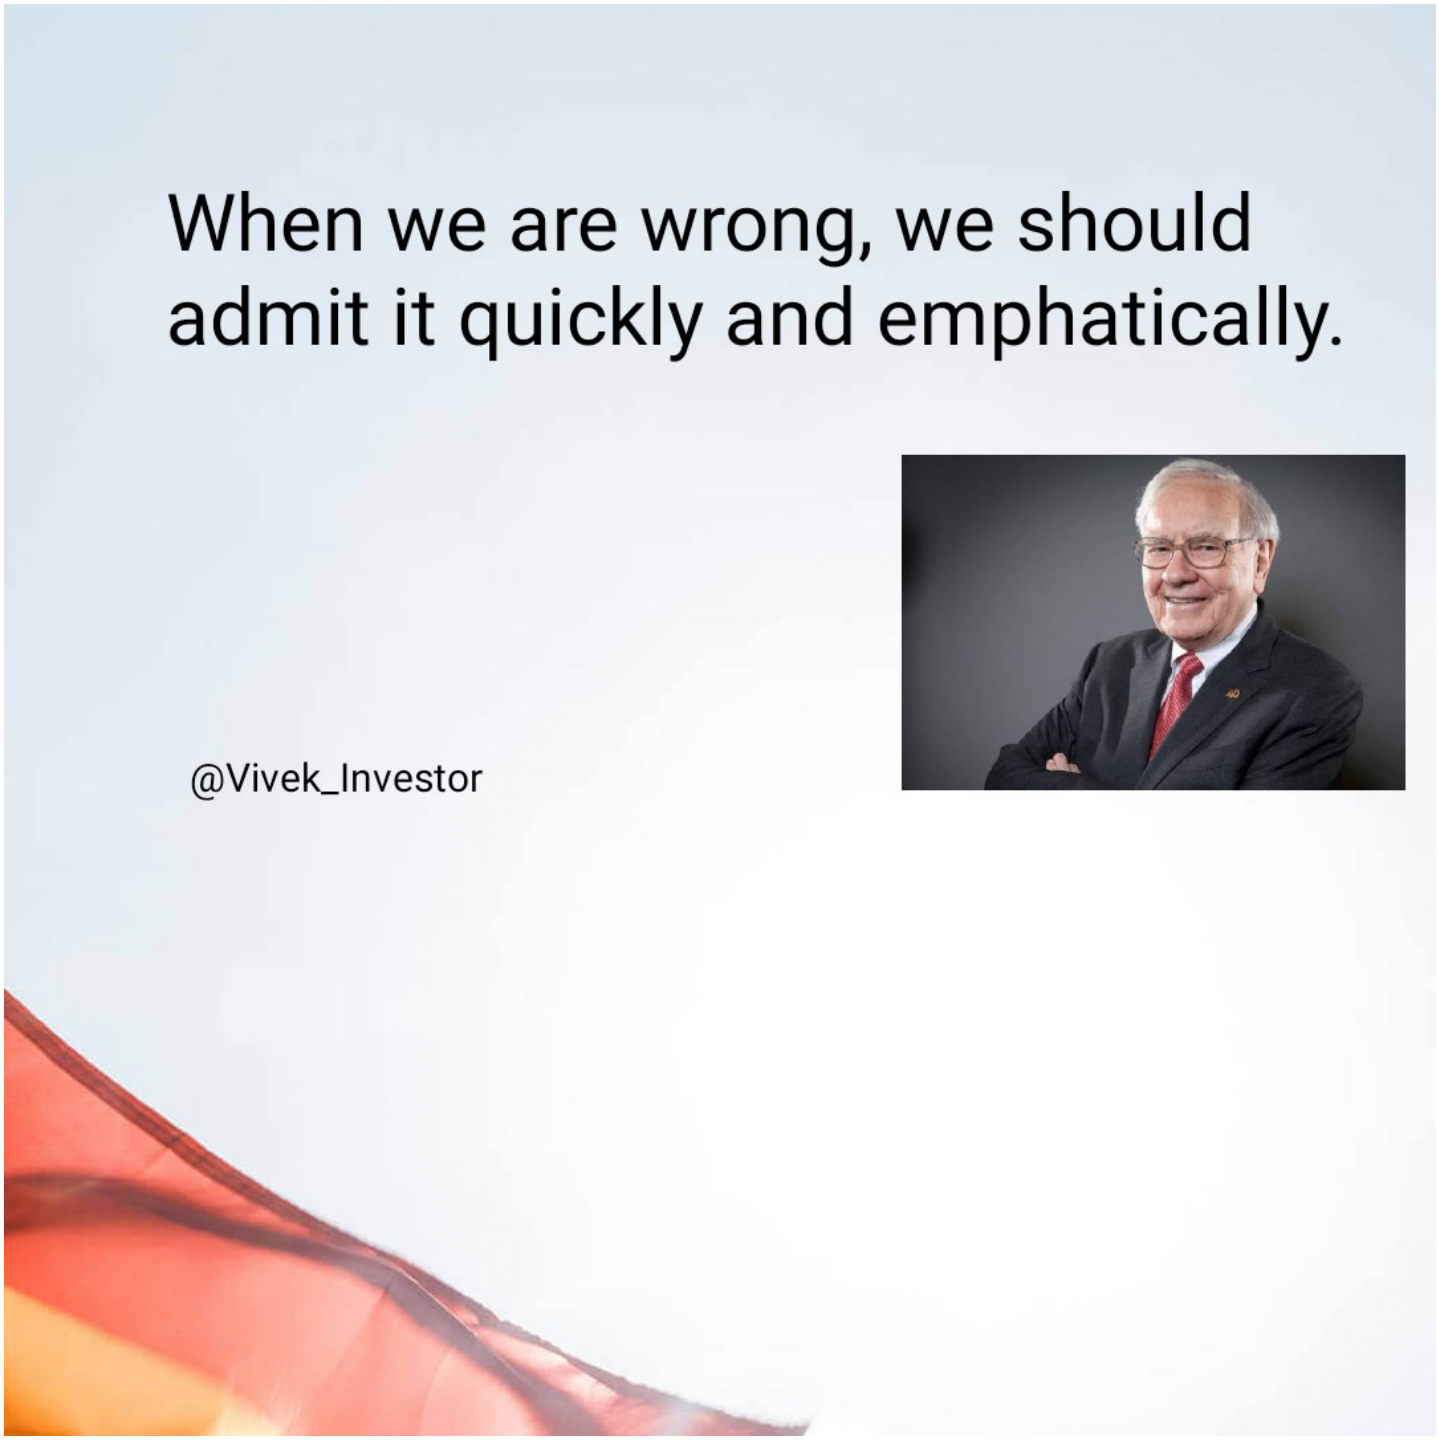

I think you should read everything you can. In my case, by the age of 10, I'd read every book in the Omaha public library about investing, some twice. You need to fill your mind with various competing thoughts and decide which make sense. Then you have to jump in the water – take a small amount of money and do it yourself.

@Vivek_Investor

Day 33 :

Admit your mistakes and move on, it is a part of the game, and better if you understand this in the early stage.

Day 34 :

How to deal with advisors.

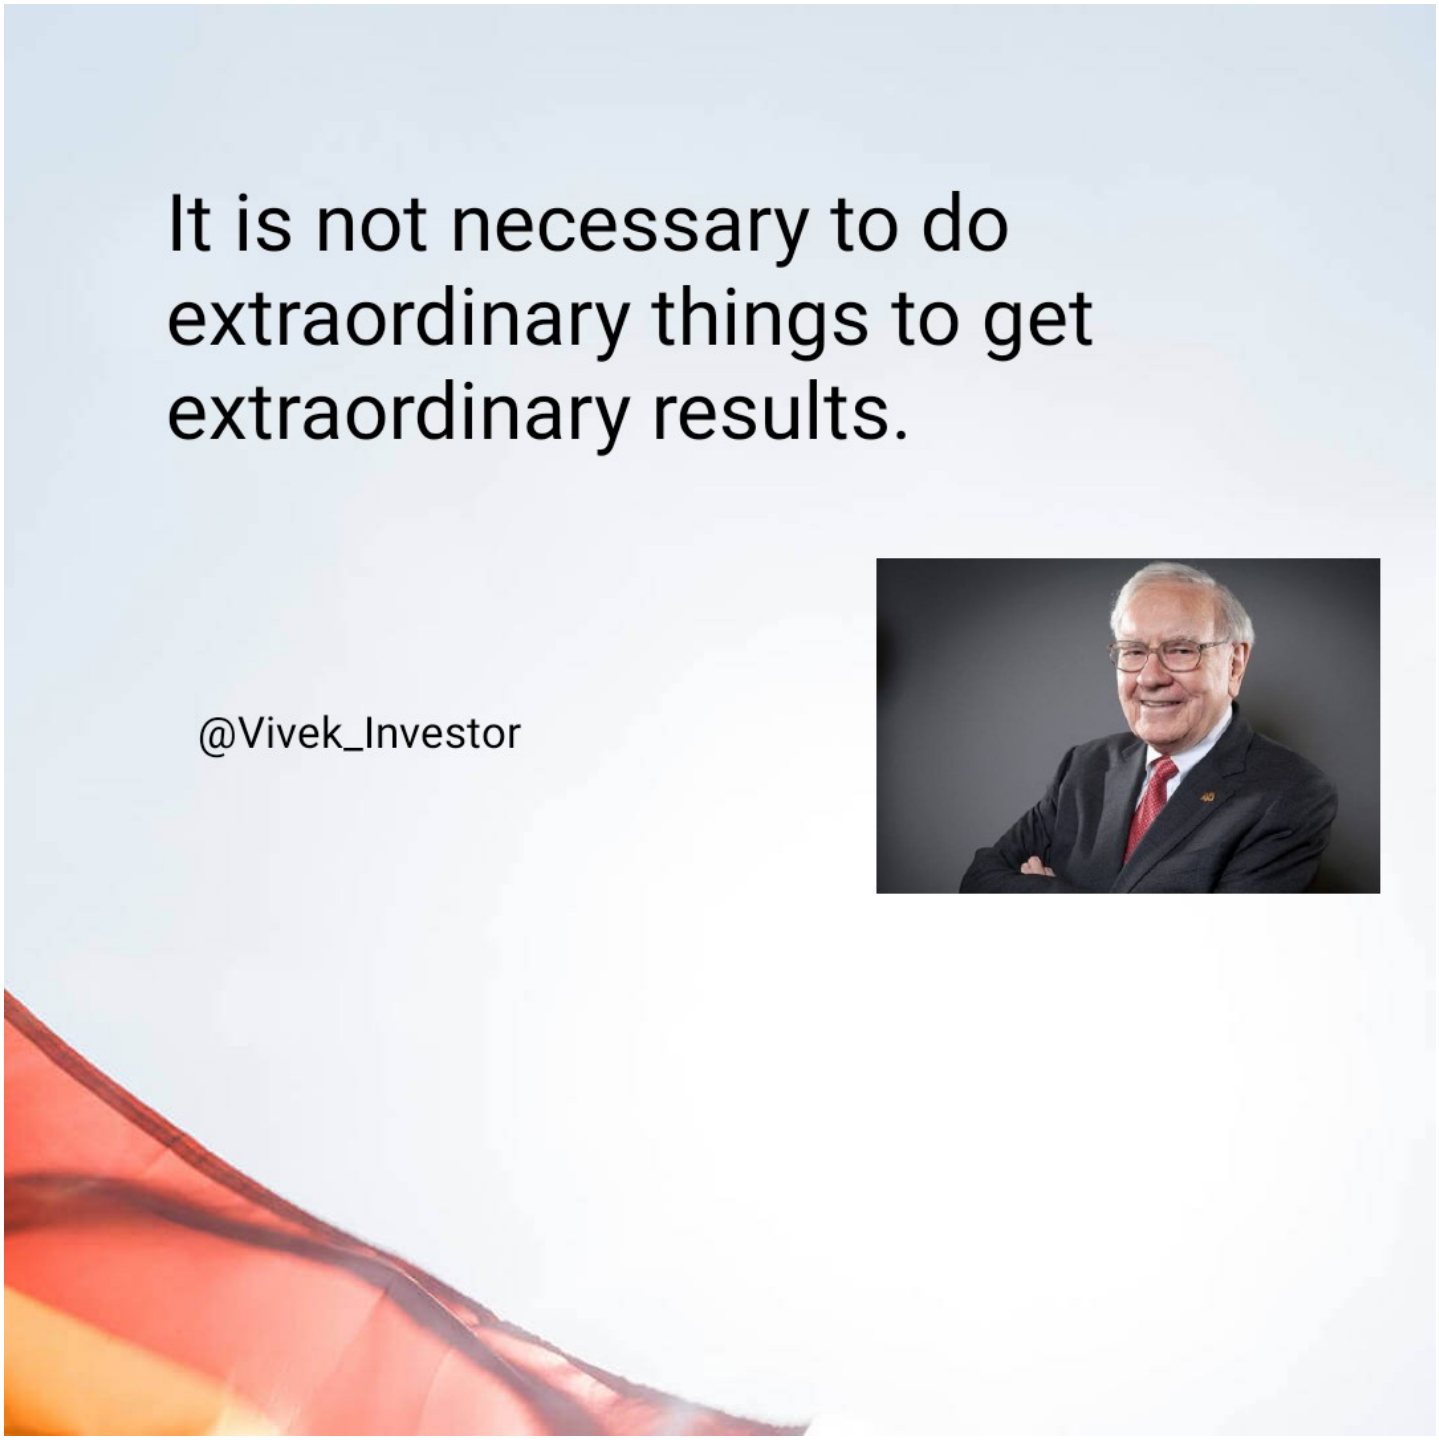

Day 35 :

Learn from everyone. But walk in your own path ■■

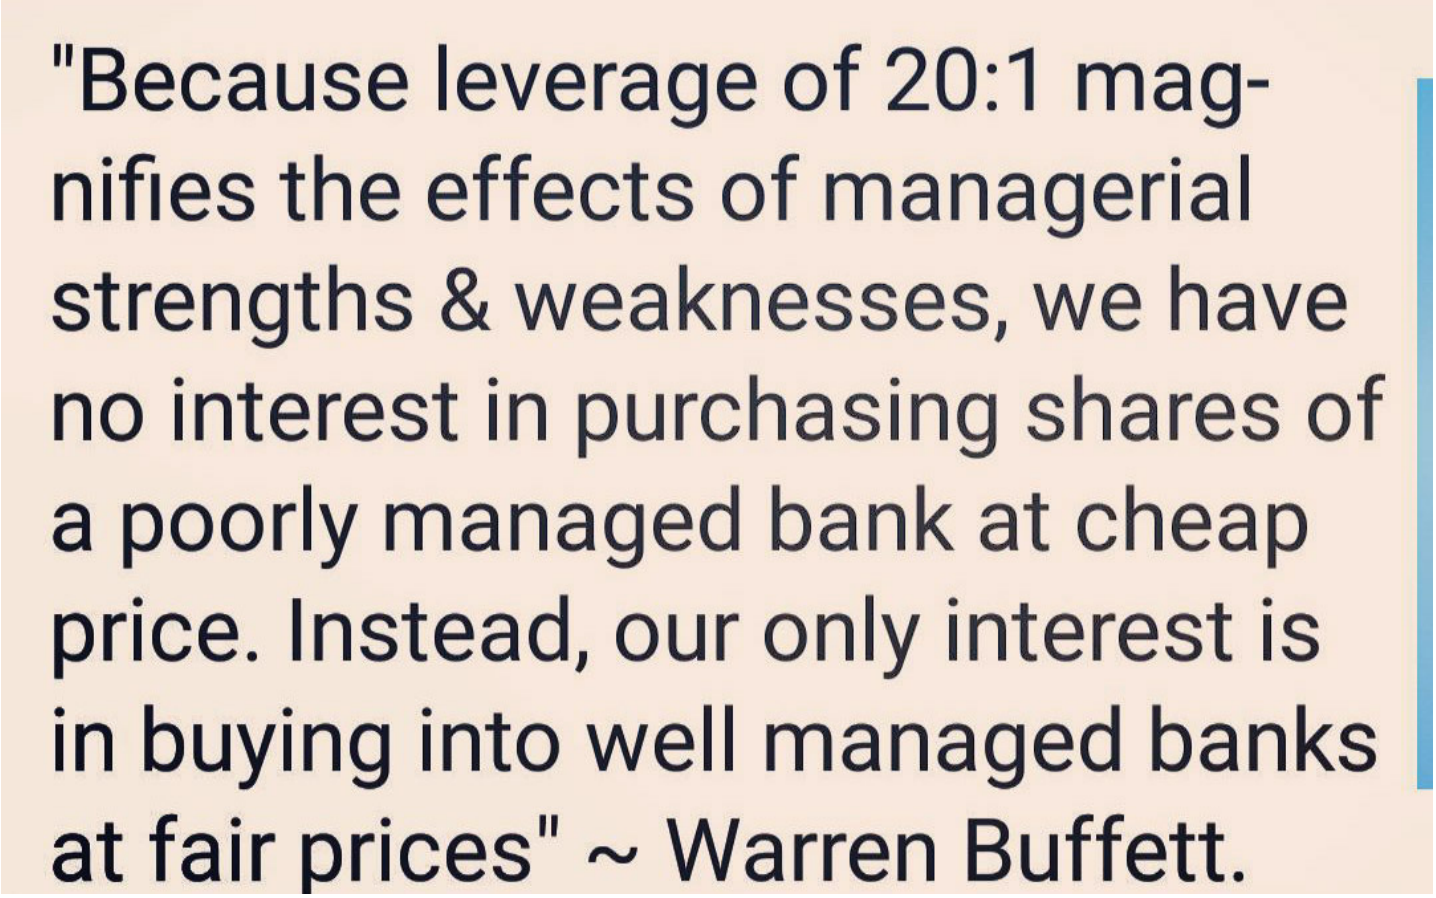

Day 36 :

Keep the things simple & be disciplined (Remember: Looks simple but not easy ■)

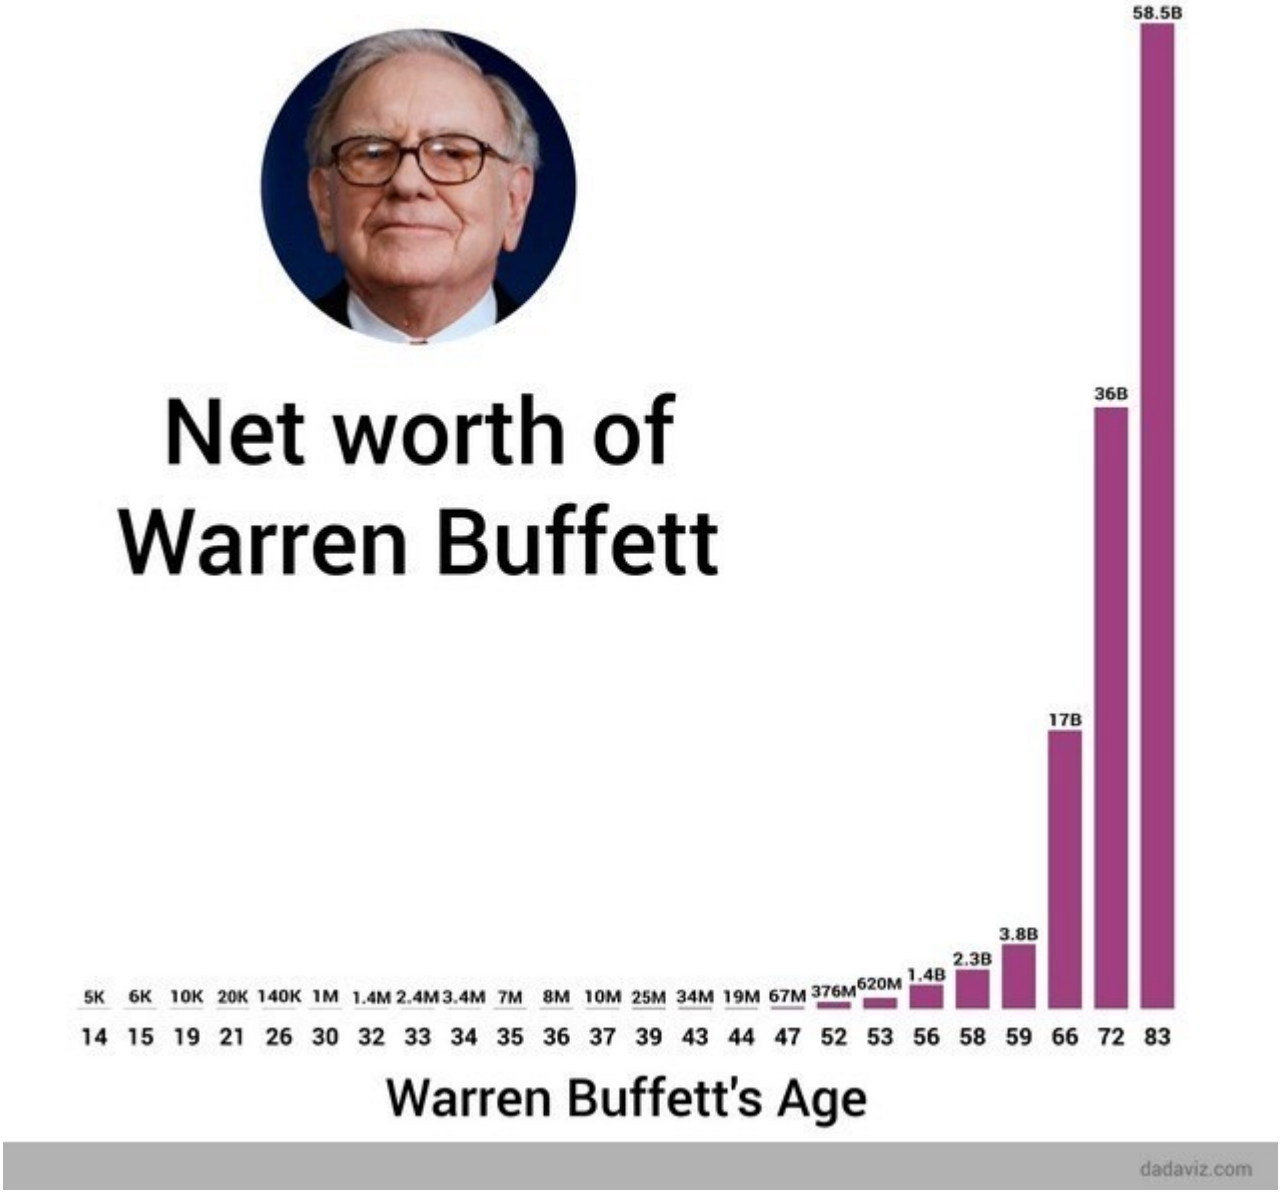

Day 37:

On Banking business.

Day 38:

Compounding is a long journey.

Day 39:

It is the path & not the speed. Be careful about the path you have chosen.

Day 40:

Sharing wealth.

My Philanthropic Pledge

Warren Buffett

In 2006, I made a commitment to gradually give all of my Berkshire Hathaway stock to philanthropic foundations. I couldn't be happier with that decision.

Now, Bill and Melinda Gates and I are asking hundreds of rich Americans to pledge at least 50% of their wealth to charity. So I think it is fitting that I reiterate my intentions and explain the thinking that lies behind them.

First, my pledge: More than 99% of my wealth will go to philanthropy during my lifetime or at death. Measured by dollars, this commitment is large. In a comparative sense, though, many individuals give more to others every day.

Millions of people who regularly contribute to churches, schools, and other organizations thereby relinquish the use of funds that would otherwise benefit their own families. The dollars these people drop into a collection plate or give to United Way mean forgone movies, dinners out, or other personal pleasures. In contrast, my family and I will give up nothing we need or want by fulfilling this 99% pledge.

Moreover, this pledge does not leave me contributing the most precious asset, which is time. Many people, including -- I'm proud to say -- my three children, give extensively of their own time and talents to help others. Gifts of this kind often prove far more valuable than money. A struggling child, befriended and nurtured by a caring mentor, receives a gift whose value far exceeds what can be bestowed by a check. My sister, Doris, extends significant person- to-person help daily. I've done little of this.

What I can do, however, is to take a pile of Berkshire Hathaway stock certificates --"claim checks" that when converted to cash can command far-ranging resources -- and commit them to benefit others who, through the luck of the draw, have received the short straws in life. To date about 20% of my shares have been distributed (including shares given by my late wife, Susan Buffett). I will continue to annually distribute about 4% of the shares I retain. At the latest, the proceeds from all of my Berkshire shares will be expended for philanthropic purposes by 10 years after my estate is settled. Nothing will go to endowments; I want the money spent on current needs.

This pledge will leave my lifestyle untouched and that of my children as well. They have already received significant sums for their personal use and will receive more in the future. They live comfortable and productive lives. And I will continue to live in a manner that gives me everything that I could possibly want in life.

Day 41:

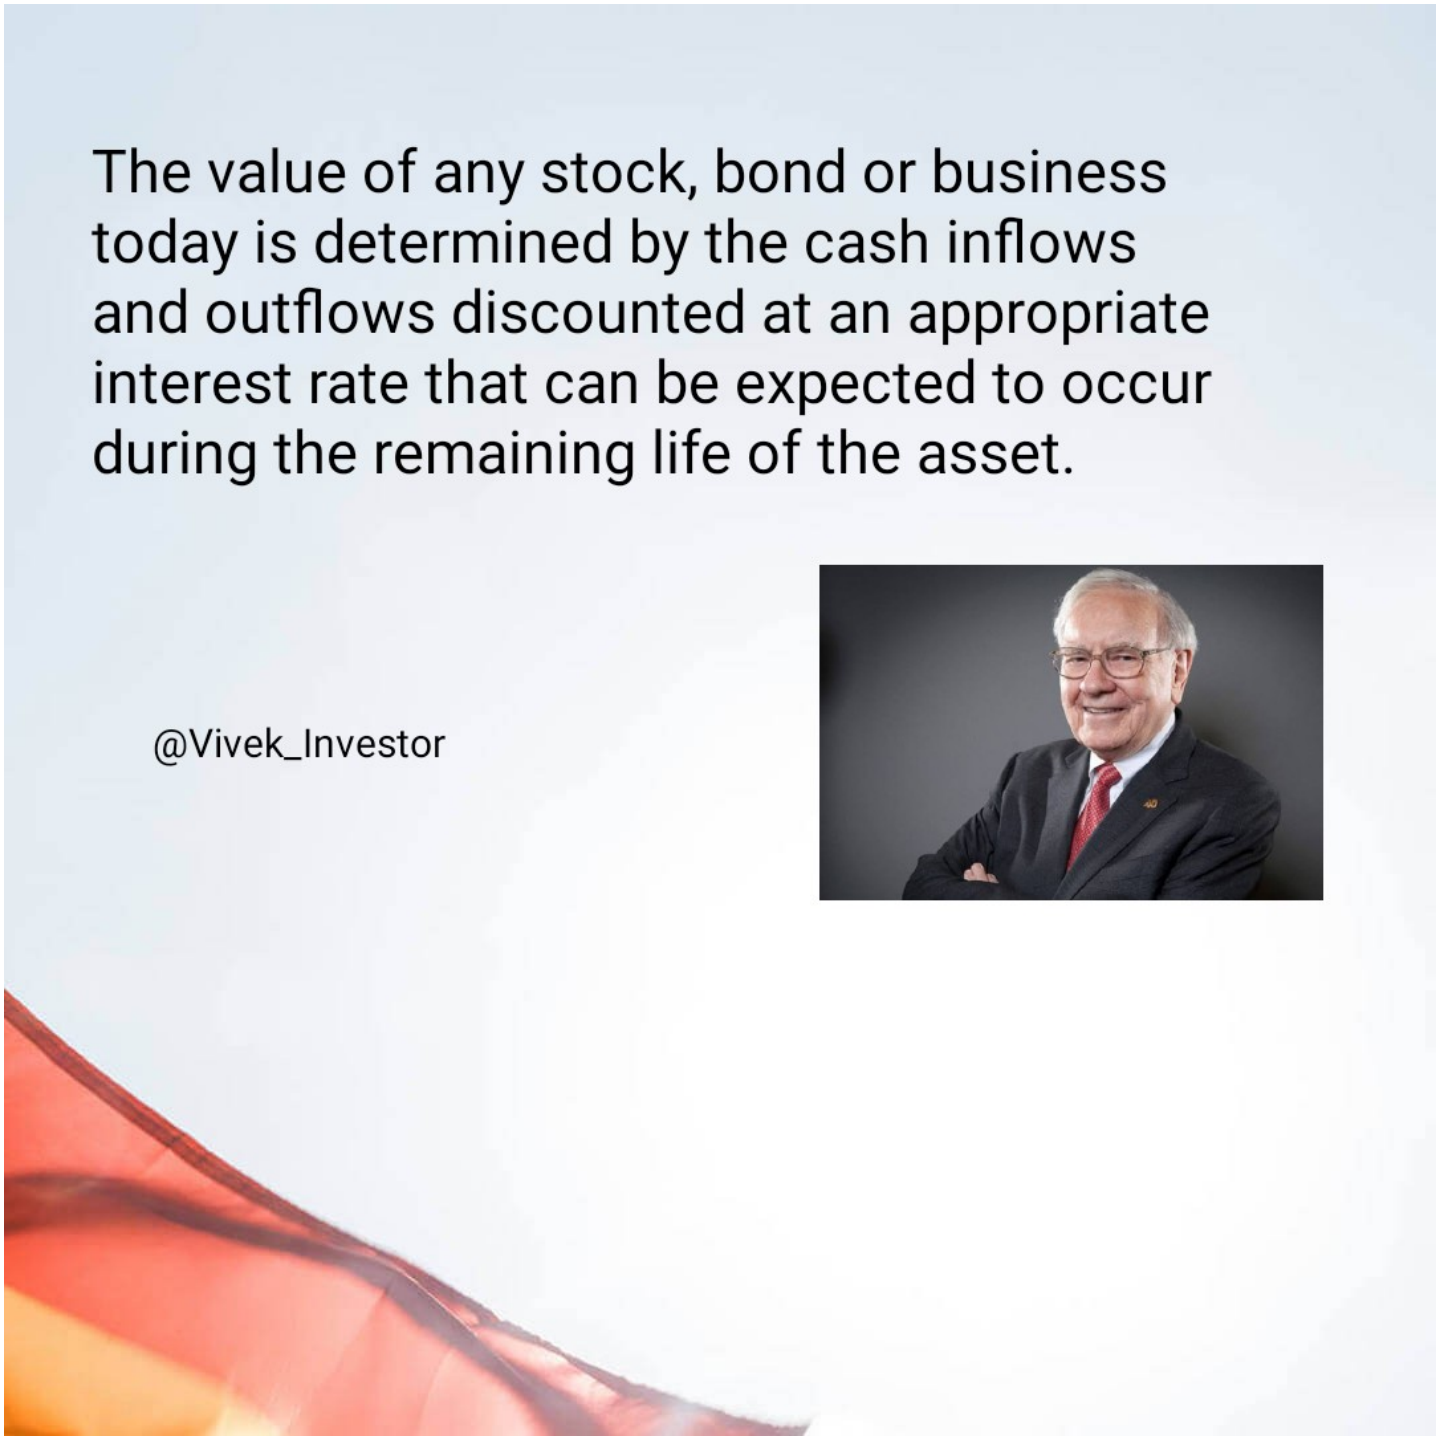

WB investing approach in a nutshell.

Your goal as an investor should simply be to purchase, at a rational price, a part interest in an easily understandable business whose earnings are virtually certain to be materially higher five, ten and twenty years from now. Over time, you will find only a few companies that meet these standards-so when you see one that qualifies, you should buy a meaningful amount of stock. You must also resist the temptation to stray from your guidelines: If you aren't willing to own a stock for ten years, don't even think about owning it for ten minutes. Put together a portfolio of companies whose aggregate earnings march upward over the years, and so also will the portfolio's market value.

Day 42:

On valuations.

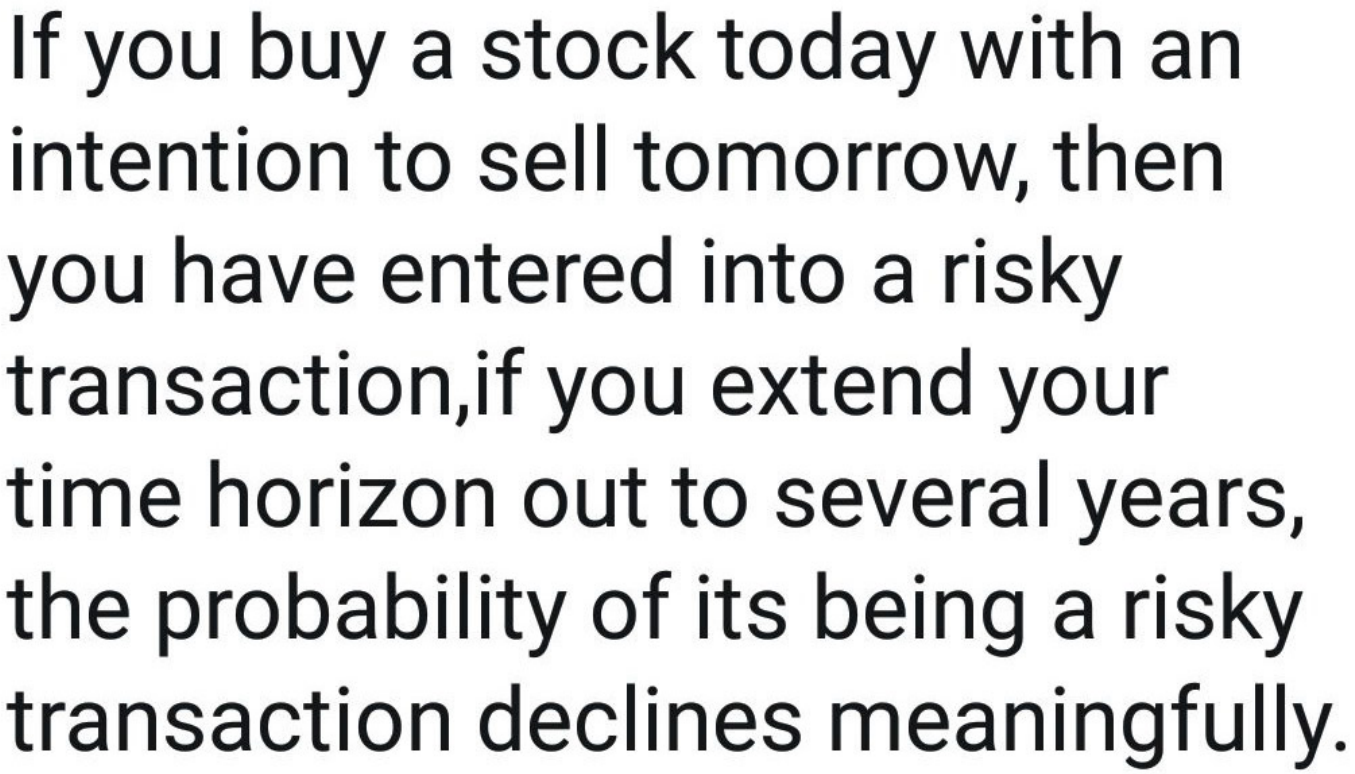

Day 43:

Whatever the rally... be it IT rally in the 2000s, Infra rally in 2007-08 & recent Graphite electrode rally....wise people made money but most of the retail investors entered in later stage & trapped.

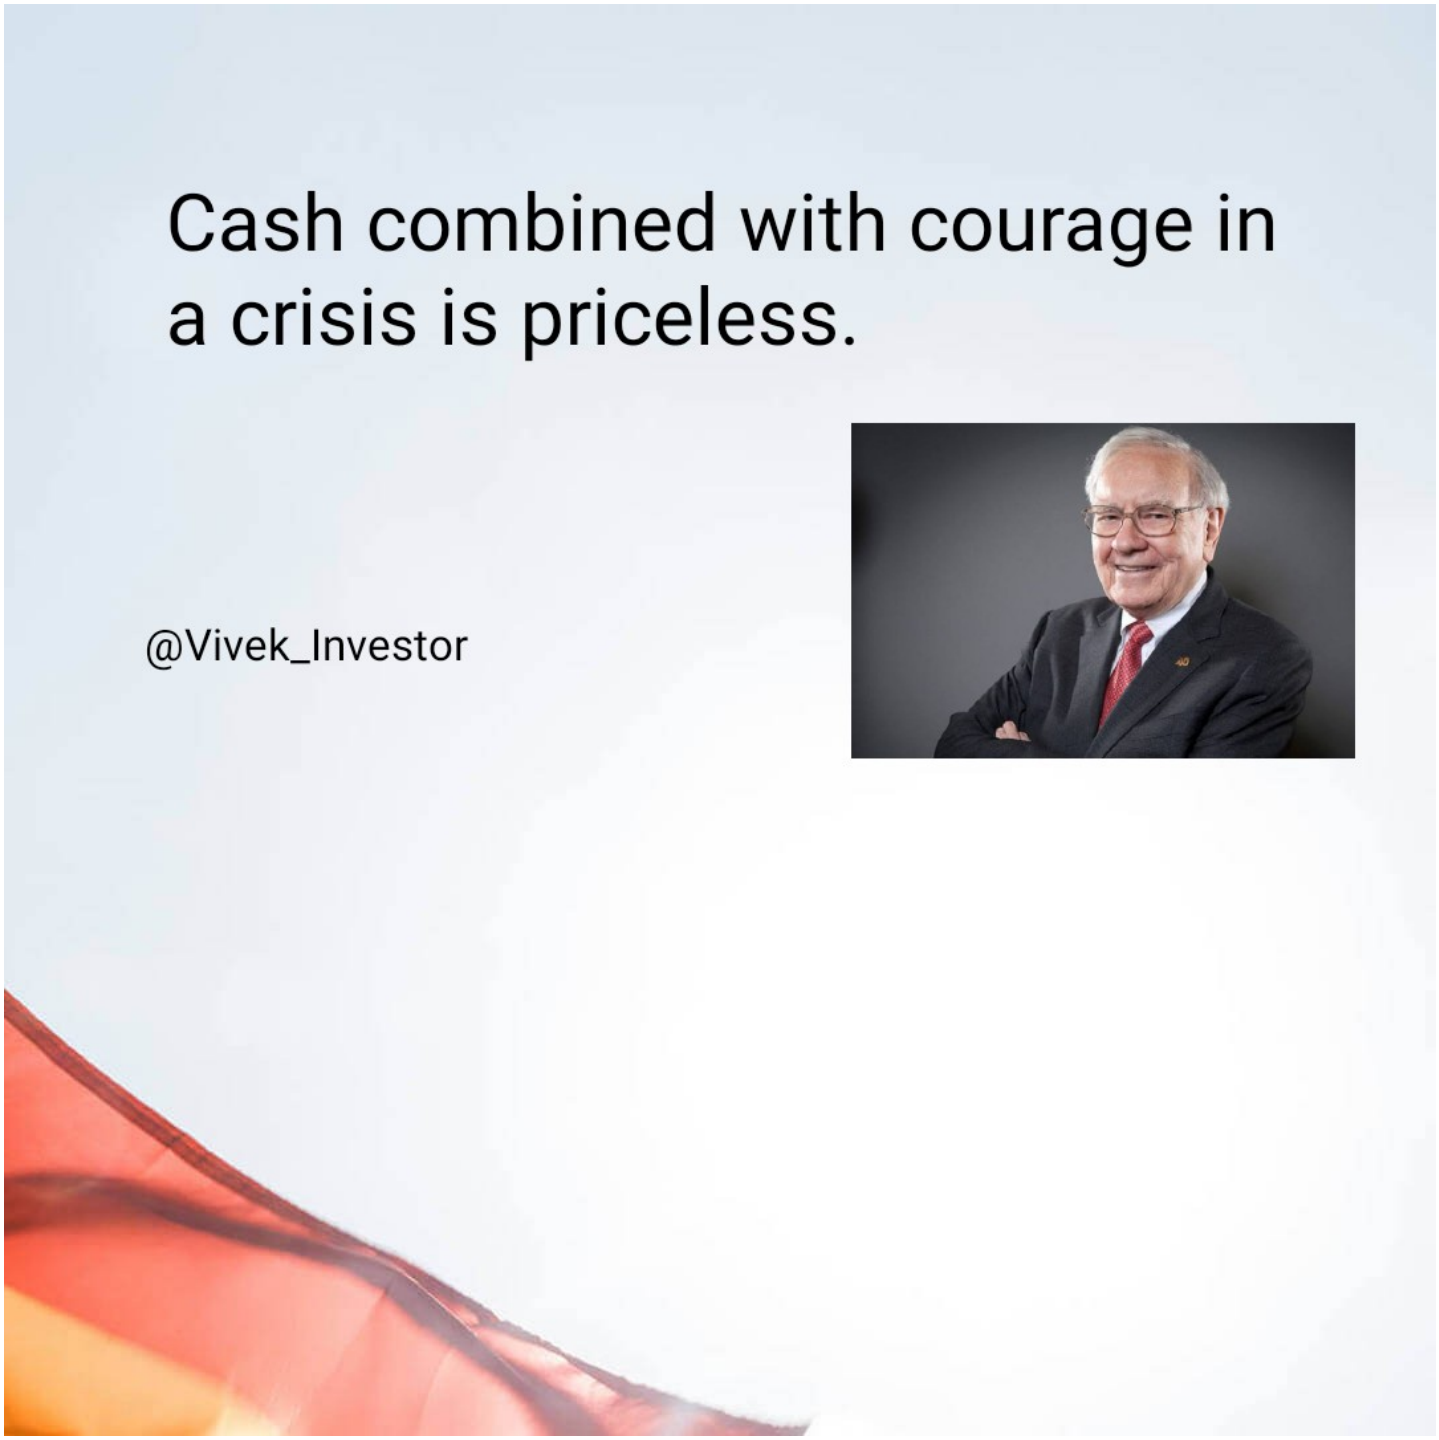

Day 44:

Longer the holding period = Risk ■

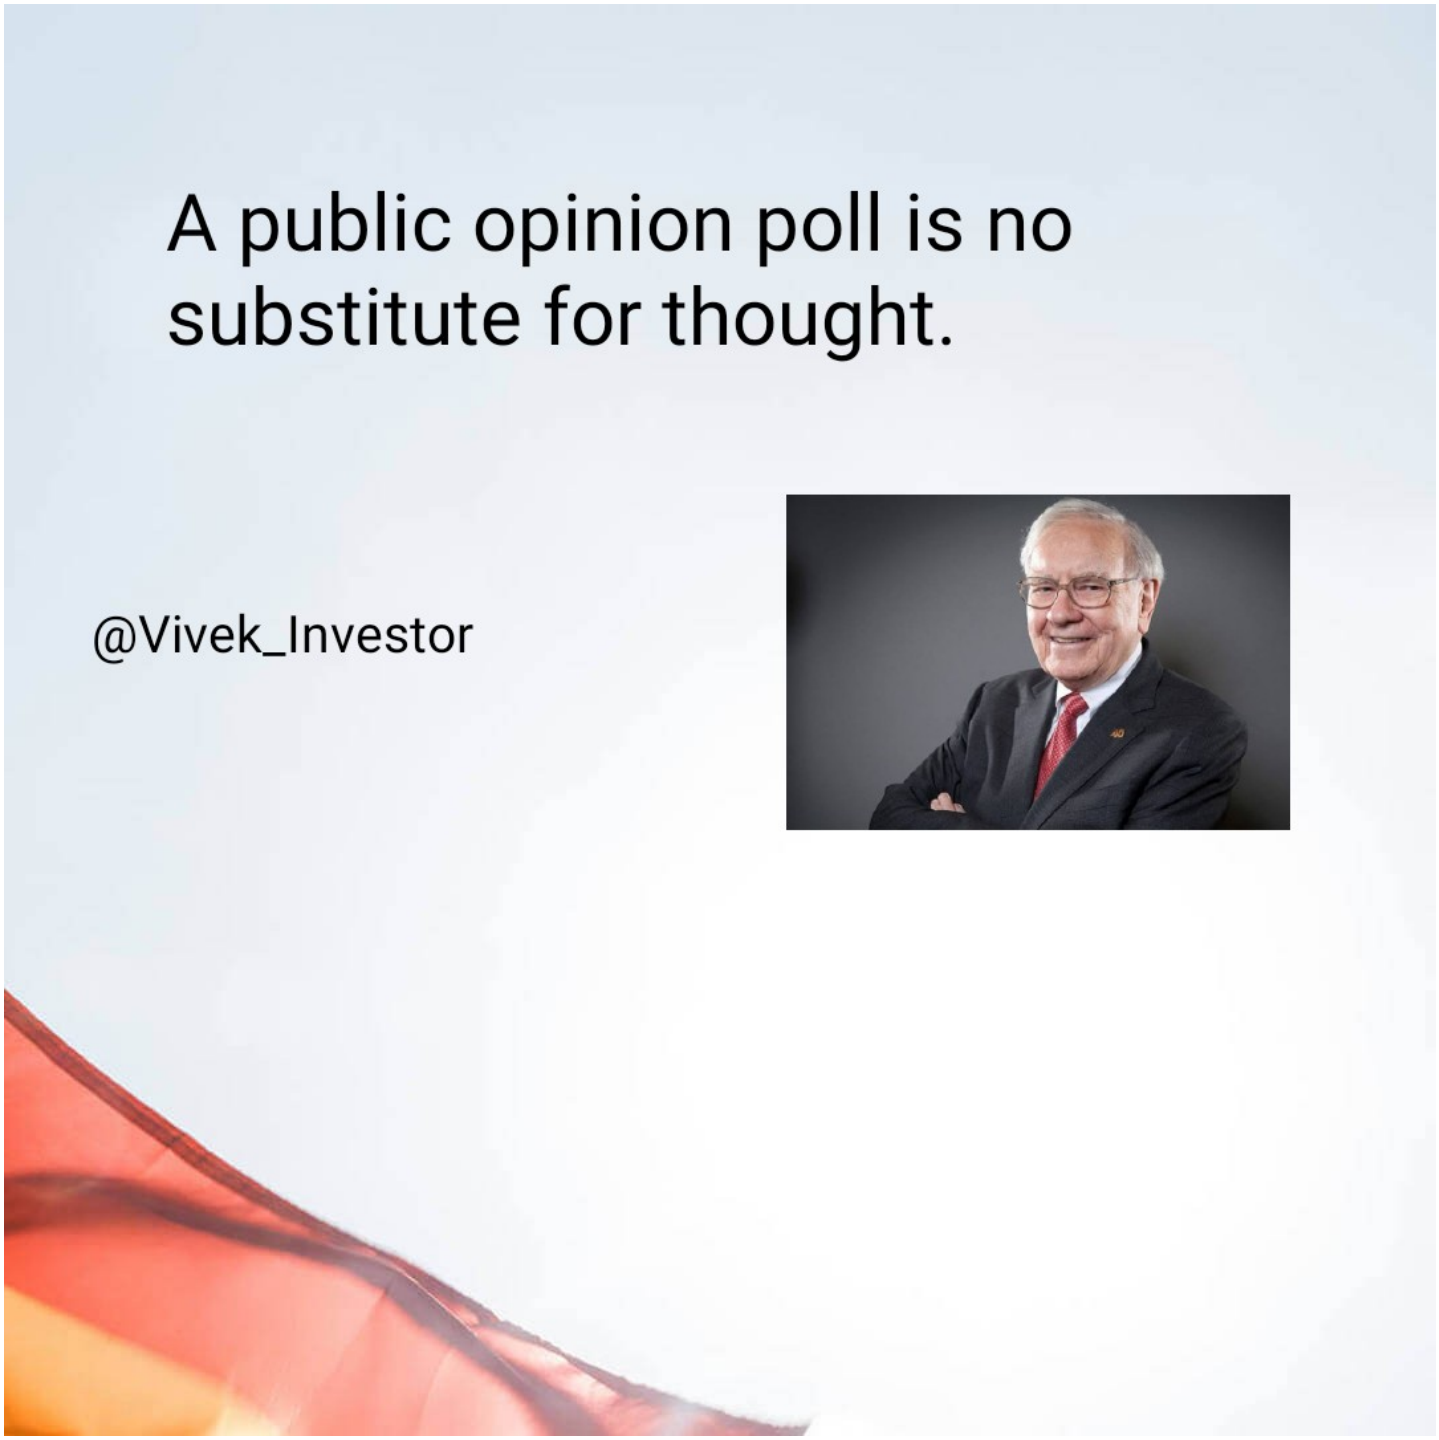

Day 45:

During crisis = Cash is king, at the same time your courage is also important.

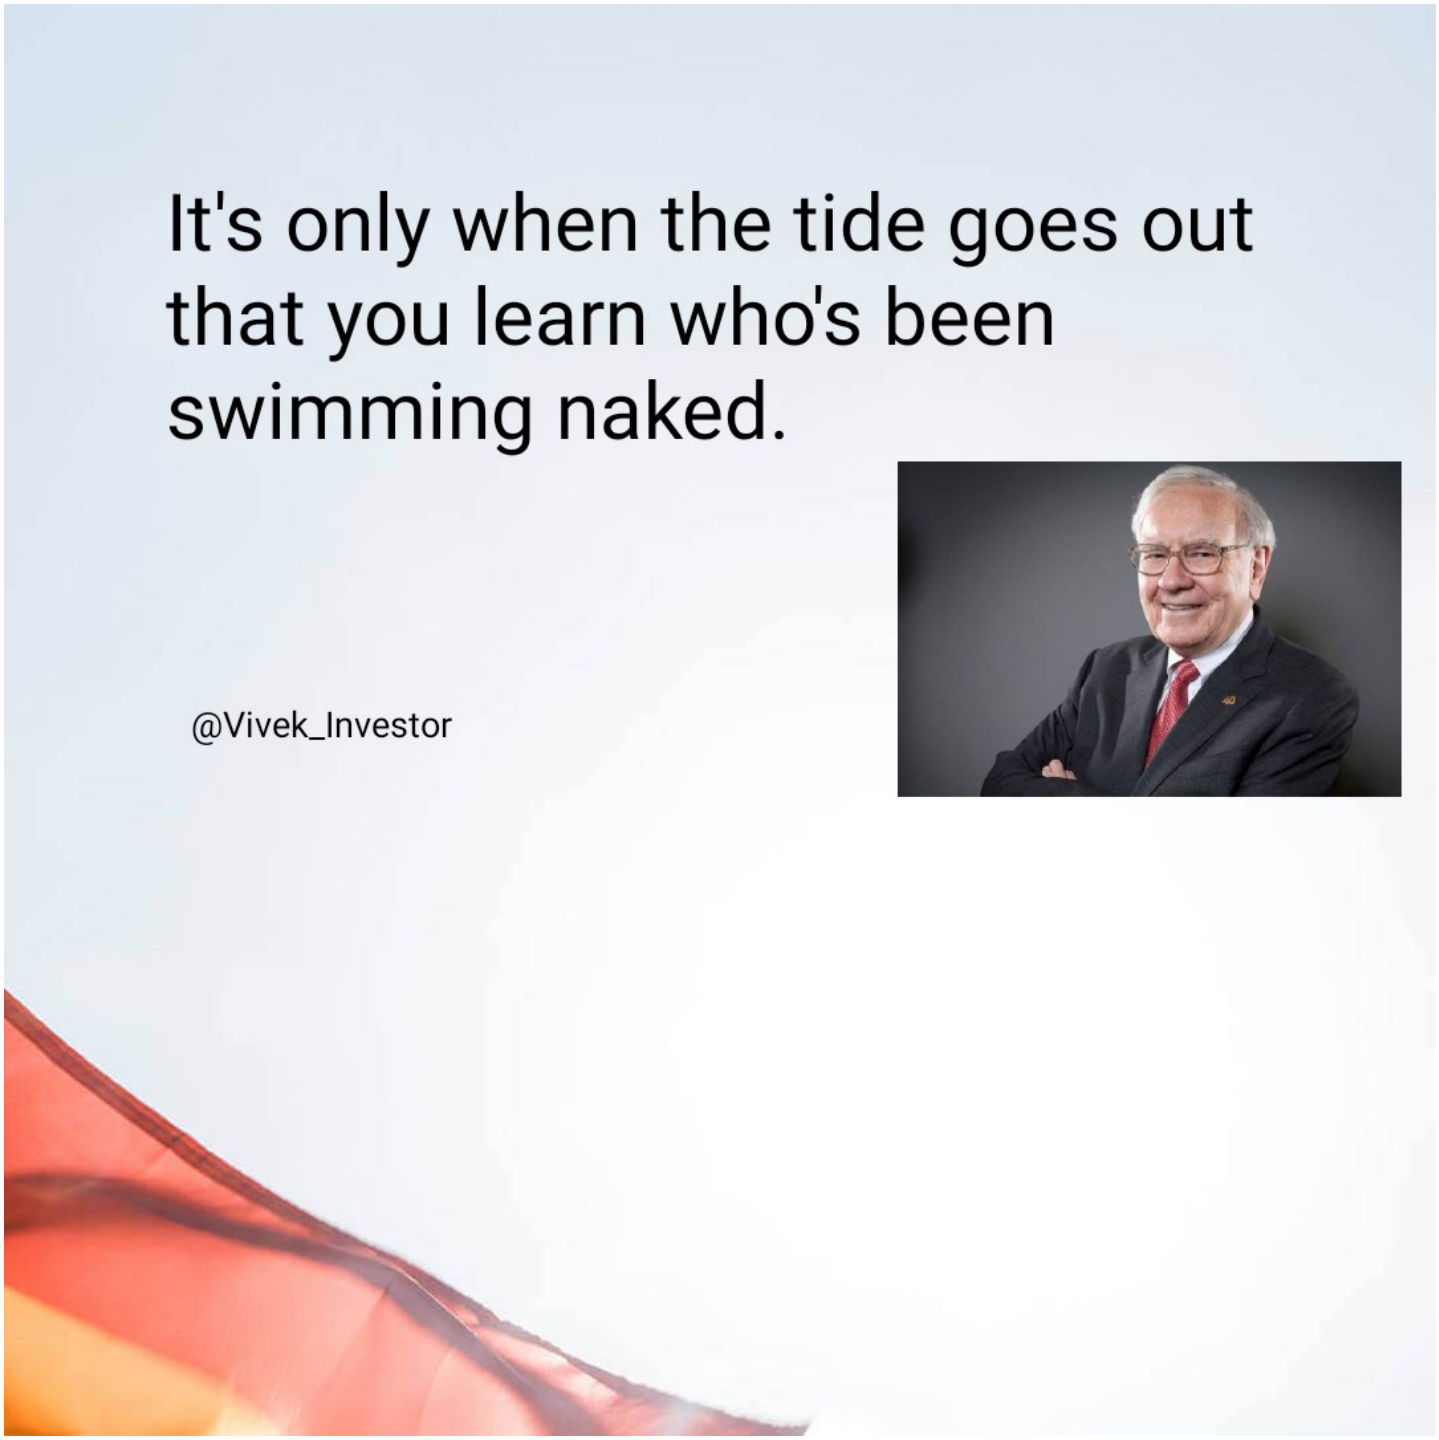

Day 46:

Think about this ■

Day 47:
In a good time, even a mediocre business looks amazing.

Remember almost all IT companies trading at a ridiculous valuations b/w the late 90s to early 2000s & most of them now either disappeared or turned out to be a penny stock.

Day 48:

Don't break the rules. Don't look for shortcuts.

Day 49:

Before buying any stock don't look for "how much I make". Look downside protection ( both in terms of price & quality)

Day 50:

Never forget this ■

Someone is sitting in the shade today because someone planted a tree a long time ago.
