I've a funny feeling that AIADMK (in its wisdom!!! - whatever that means,) are quite to protect their hard earned property plus. DMK is capable of venom and let's be honest MKS is no match to late MK. Similar hassles within the family , infact, peeked when he was around - however he never allowed bureaucrats to be minions in public. He was a cunning and shrewd operator,indeed. He had control over issues , this was a period when SM never existed. Getting back to AIADMK, they're aware that now BJP has found its teeth and must be praying for a pitfall. It may not happen from the top; the 2nd and 3rd rung of the supporters need to watch their tweets/what may be attributed or interpreted. That could cause the cycle of legal formalities a headache , as the existing team is small and need to find their feet in courtrooms , especially in the districts - DMK has never been bothered who they smother ,if it suits them - whether it's the judges and magistrates / law enforcement officers and bureaucracy. They are past masters at that.. I don't think that @annamalai_k would've taken on the DGP of TN, head-on, if he did not have inputs of frustration among the ranked officers. Now that they've clamped a 2nd case against @MaridhasAnswers , personally I feel it's time that Paul Kanaka Raj gets into the picture directly (hoping he's still with BJP TN); he has a bright team and they're well spread across TN. Talking of Cr . P. C., I feel the state head is serious about it and it may well be possible that states like Goa, Chattisgarh, may get into the picture (this is my surmise),as a police officer who resigned , the old boys network among bureaucracy is very strong in India. If my reading is right ,they've roped in a senior police officer, retired , who hates the family. However by Monday , we can possibly expect more fireworks. Greatest folly in the present scenario is the arrest of the young ,inexperienced but gutsy youngster. It needs that all FIR be quashed as otherwise it'll affect the career path of youngsters. Let's wait and watch @jananisampath @rspchary @ProfMKay @iyer_prasanna @skdskn and all others . #JaiHind (more to come later) @NarayananPalakd
