

Twitter Thread by FT Trading Stock Trader

FT Trading Stock Trader

@FT_Trading

Ever wonder what the best tools for trading are? ■

Here are the top tools I use as a full-time trader■

Before you read this, please RT the first tweet above this.

There's room for everyone to make 6 figures in 2022 and I want this to reach everyone that aspires to do so■

Here we go ■

1. Tradingview - @tradingview

Tradingview is the main charting platform I use.

It's very clean and easy to use.

Also free for anyone wanting a basic charting platform with all the best features■

2. Thinkorswim - @thinkorswim

Thinkorswim is an amazing charting platform similar to tradingview.

Everything is free and the possibilities are endless with this platform.

The main reason I love it?

The ability to chart individual options■

.TSLA211231C1070

31 DEC 21 1070 C 100 (Week...

31.80 18.52 (+139.46%)

Bid 31.25

Ask 31.90

Low

10.25

Theta

-2.7804

Open Int

1013

Vega

0.5465

Chart

News

Level II

Ⓣ 4Days:15m

Hi: 36.95

Watchlist

Positions

Alerts

Orders

More

3. TD Ameritrade - @TDAmeritrade

TD Ameritrade is the best overall broker in my opinion.

Customer service is great, commissions are low, and you have free access to thinkorswim.

Can't be better than that■

4. Tradersync - @tradersync

Tradersync is a platform that helps track all of your trades.

You can understand what metrics you need to work on and have access to a lot of features to measure your progress as a trader ■■

Highly Recommend, 10/10

5. Tastyworks - @tastyworks

Tastyworks is another great broker but specifically for options.

The main reason I love tastyworks is because it makes it very easy to understand complex options strategies (credit spreads, iron condors, etc.)

6. Finviz - @FINVIZ_com

Finviz is the best platform for scanning stocks.

You can have almost everything you need with the free version of the platform and it's what I use every weekend to scan for stocks that I trade■

7. Barchart - @Barchart

Barchart is another great scanning platform.

I use this for morning gap ups/downs when looking for momentum stocks in play for day trading.

Simple, easy to use, and a great platform all around.

(Also shows unusual options activity for free)

Well, I hope you enjoyed my thread!

I tweet educational content on stocks, options, and futures

Feel free to follow me if you're interested in that kind of thing■

More threads coming!■

ALSO...■

If this isn't for you, I still want to reach someone who WILL benefit from this.

Please RT + Like the original tweet so we can help someone reach success in the new year■

Everyone's winning in 2022!