1. Why are FIIs selling Indian stocks so vigorously?

Well, a number of factors. It's actually a domino effect.

And it all begins with the same story\u2026

What moves the #Gold price? \U0001f9f5

It is said that gold is an Inflation hedge. But if you look at the historical data points, Gold has not really been able to live upto the expectations, lets discuss.

Topic: Learn to have a long-term perspective.

(@ChanderBhatia01)

<https://t.co/V9gYkGcl8Y>

Three big mistakes, taught me long term perspective.

1) Bought Infosys in 1995-96, sold with some profit in 1996. It is 1500X.

2) Bought Shree Cement in 2000, sold after two years with no profits. It is 600X.

3) Bought Aarti ind. in 2008, sold in 2013 with 2-3X. It is 80X.

Getting asked often "What strategy do you suggest for traders with 1-2lakh capital "

My suggestion would be to do something else like a job or run a shop till one is able to accumulate a minimum of 10 lakhs, regardless of being an option buyer or seller
