1. "Everything starts here, everything disappears from here, & the South China Seafood Market will become clean!"

Interesting Chinese report about the South China Seafood Market & WCDC's pathogen Lab at 288 Machang Road which makes many insinuations yet has not been censored

yet

2. "I'm here for the second time to take samples!" Shi Zhengli, a researcher at the Wuhan Institute of Virology, Chinese Academy of Sciences, appeared at the South China Seafood Market at 17:00 on March 3. On the same day, she and her team took two boxes of samples.

3. Shi Zhengli collects samples from the market to study environmental survival of the coronavirus
"It's not easy to come once" ;)
"Compared with CCDC we have taken much fewer samples, & findings are the same as their results
"They found more than we found, & we found nothing"

△ On March 3, Shi Zhengli's team will take samples.

Shi Zhengli confirmed that this is her second visit to the South China Seafood Market, that is, to collect samples from the market to study the environmental survival of the new coronavirus. "It's not easy to come once."

"Compared with the Institute of Virology of the Chinese Center for Disease Control and Prevention, we have taken much fewer samples, and the current findings are the same as the results of China's disease control." Shi Zhengli said, "They found more than we found, and we found nothing."

4. March the 3rd - 5th - The WDCDC "Killing Teams" Arrive

△ The hoarded goods cleared from the market will be removed.

On March 3, the Wuhan Disease Control and Prevention Department organized multiple killing teams to start a comprehensive disinfection operation in the market. On March 5th, the disinfection ended and the stocked goods in the market were also emptied.

5. "The Thin Lady"

Faced with doubts, on Feb 2, Shi Zhengli declared:

"I, Shi Zhengli, bet my life, it has nothing to do with our laboratory."

Her "statement" was widely questioned.

As of March 3, doubts were still flying, & Zhengli's appearance at the Market was eye-catching.

Shi Zhengli appeared in the market

At about 17:00 on March 3, the killers organized by the Wuhan disease control department entered the market and began to thoroughly disinfect the South China Seafood Market.

A group of people surrounded a sedan on the highway outside the West End. Two of them used watering cans filled with alcohol to carefully spray two foam preservation boxes, which were stuffed into the trunk of the car.

It was confirmed that the foam fresh-keeping box contained samples just taken out of the market. Among the crowd, a thin lady was Shi Zhengli, a researcher at the Wuhan Institute of Virology, Chinese Academy of Sciences.

6. Meanwhile...

"I've been here all the time. I stayed at the market, I wasn't infected. Do I deserve to be infected?"

At 16:00 on March 1, a cheeky left-behind worker in the market was lying on his back on the sofa chain smoking, and seemed a little bit upset.

of Yuxinhua Road, Development Avenue. At about 16:00 on March 1, entering from the gate, two young men were sitting on the sofa in the hall, one lying reclining and the other sitting upright.

The two confirmed that they were internal security personnel left behind by the company. "I am worried about accidents in the market. I often enter the market." The person sitting in the front said that no one else in the company works except them, and he cannot provide any information about the company's management. However, one thing he can be sure of is that as of now, all personnel in the company have zero infections. "I wore a mask when I went inside." The person lying on the couch said a little upset, "I am not infected. Do I deserve to be infected?" After speaking, he lit a cigarette, took a puff, Looking outside the house. At this time, the market wound was drifting lightly.

8. "Slipper Brother"

"A family of 4 in Wuhan lived in the South China Seafood Market for 43 days without wearing protective clothing but were not infected"

60-year-old Gu & family didn't leave after it was closed on Jan 1

Slipper Brother's Haunting Video:

<https://t.co/fmaTB0y35r>

While the security guard was talking, a man wearing slippers walked straight from the entrance of the West End to the market and it was confirmed that this man was a left-behind worker at the South China Seafood Market. Later, on March 1, in the lobby of the South China Group's office area, this "slipper brother" was the "Ge Youli" on the sofa.

"Zero infection" for all personnel of Huanan Seafood Market Company?

On March 5, the cover news reporter asked the company's human resources department to verify. A woman surnamed Tao said that before the outbreak, she took maternity leave. However, as far as she understands, "the colleagues in the company are fine, everyone is fine."

9. The Fate of the South China Seafood Market?

Earlier, there was news that "the South China market will completely disappear." The staff member responded, "The hoarded items on the site will be disposed of. Of course, the main building will not be demolished."

10. The Killing Teams ;)

A killer who wished to remain anonymous revealed that there had been several disinfections. Some shops have small attics & killers need to climb up ladders before killing them.

"It's slippery so you need to be very careful when you go up & down the ladder"

11. The Responsibility of a Killer

"The killer said that according to the killing plan formulated on Feb 25, when the market materials are cleared out, all the killing teams are also responsible for the complete disinfection of the materials"

The killer said that according to the killing plan formulated on February 25, when the market materials are cleared out of the market, all the killing teams are also responsible for the complete disinfection of the materials. After all the substances are cleared and shipped, the market will also conduct a final elimination operation, and then conduct on-site sample collection and inspection.

Disease control and killing personnel are disinfected in the market.

12. What we already know or at least what we have been told

On January 26, according to CCTV, the Institute for Viral Diseases of the China Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, for the first time, detected 33 samples of 585 environmental samples from the South China Seafood Market that contained the new coronavirus nucleic acid, and successfully isolated the virus from the positive environmental samples. The virus originated from wild animals sold in the South China Seafood Market. The positive samples were distributed in 22 stalls and 1 garbage truck in the market, of which 31 were positive samples distributed in the western part of the South China Seafood Market, accounting for 93.9% of all positive samples.
