Here's A Small ■

What Is Scalping?
Is it for everyone?

■ Scalping is a trading strategy in which traders profit off small price changes for a stock or index.

■ Scalping Relies solely on price action or Technical analysis.

■ Only Intraday immediate data is of concern.

■ Scalping requires a trading personality which incorporates the ability to be highly disciplined,

Ability to take quick decisions without hesitation and not questioning their decisions once they have been made.

■ So first determine whether this style is suitable for you.

Tool 1: Intraday VWAP

Rule:

We will look for buy trades

When price is above VWAP

And look for only sell trades

When price is below VWAP

If you follow this rule,

Your 50-60% wrong trades will go away out of the window.

Tool 2: RSI

RSI shows patterns in momentum which may or may not be seen in price.

In this method

overbought,

oversold or divergence on RSI

Not needed.

Rule 2

RSI (11) should show the same congestion pattern shown by the price

Buy Setup: Looking for congestions

Price generally congests before a fast move.

Try to identify this congestion on price,

See whether the same congestion is shown by RSI

And trade the breakout.

Try to find a triangle formation.

Think of a spring getting coiled.

This pattern takes at least 10 bars to complete (1 min time frame),

The more the better.

None of the bars should close below the VWAP.

A low tag is okay.

For day trading/ Scalping

The essence of Scalping is quick in out,
Never get stuck with a trade in hope.

Have a stop loss in the system

There is nothing called a mental stop loss.

Concentrate on the indices and master only one.
