Master storytelling and you can print money at will.

Sadly, most people don't know how or where to start.

Here are 5 storytelling frameworks to get you started:

1/ The Pixar Framework

Once upon a time → The story world

Every day → Main character's routine

Then one day → The routine is broken

Because of that → The consequences

Because of that → The journey

Until finally → Main character succeeds or fails

Once upon a time, there were two fishes: Marlin and his son Nemo.
Every day Marlin warned Nemo about the dangers of the ocean.
Then one day, Nemo ignored the warnings and swam into the sea.
Because of that, he was captured by a diver and ended up in a fish tank.
Because of that, Marlin embarked on a journey to find Nemo.
Until finally, Marlin found Nemo and realized that love depends on trust.

2/ The "What The Hell" Framework

Start in the heat of the action.

Then go back to the beginning.

Breaking Bad does it brilliantly:

It starts with a white, middle-aged man, speeding through the desert in a Winnebago while wearing nothing but his underwear and a gas mask.

3/ The StoryBrand Framework

A Character → Your customer

With a Problem → They need to solve

Meets a Guide → You

Who Gives Them a Plan → Your solution

Calls Them to Action → Use solution

That Ends in Success → Get results

4/ The Innovation Framework

The stage → Current reality

The problem → Outdated solutions

The solution → New product

The proof → Objections tackling

The new world → Life with new product

Here's how Jobs used this framework to introduce the iPhone:

Apple built a $165B brand through visual storytelling.

Here's the visual framework Steve Jobs used (that you can too):

5/ The Underdog Framework

The disadvantage → Hero is in a rough situation

The strength → Hero accepts the challenge

The challenges → Hero struggles

The turning point → Hero overcomes challenges

The darkest moment → Hero almost goes down

The triumph → Hero wins

ROCKY

The disadvantage: Rocky, a club boxer, is invited to fight a world champion - Apollo.

The strength: Rocky hesitates at first, but ends up accepting the challenge.

The challenges: Rocky struggles to go through Mickey's training (his mentor.)

The turning point: Rocky completes his training and is ready to fight.

The darkest moment: Apollo kicks Rocky's ass for most of the battle, until...

The triumph: Rocky knocks the world champion down.
