There are over a billion websites on the internet, yet most people never use more than a dozen.

Here are 10 little-known websites that give you superpowers.

Bypass paywalls.

If I regularly read a website, I'll pay for it. But when I occasionally need to check an article from a website I don't regularly read, I use RemovePaywall to lift the paywall.

Read articles without annoying paywalls

Remove Paywall works by finding archived versions of a website. These archived pages do not have a paywall and allow readers to get the article without having to pay or being forced to log in.

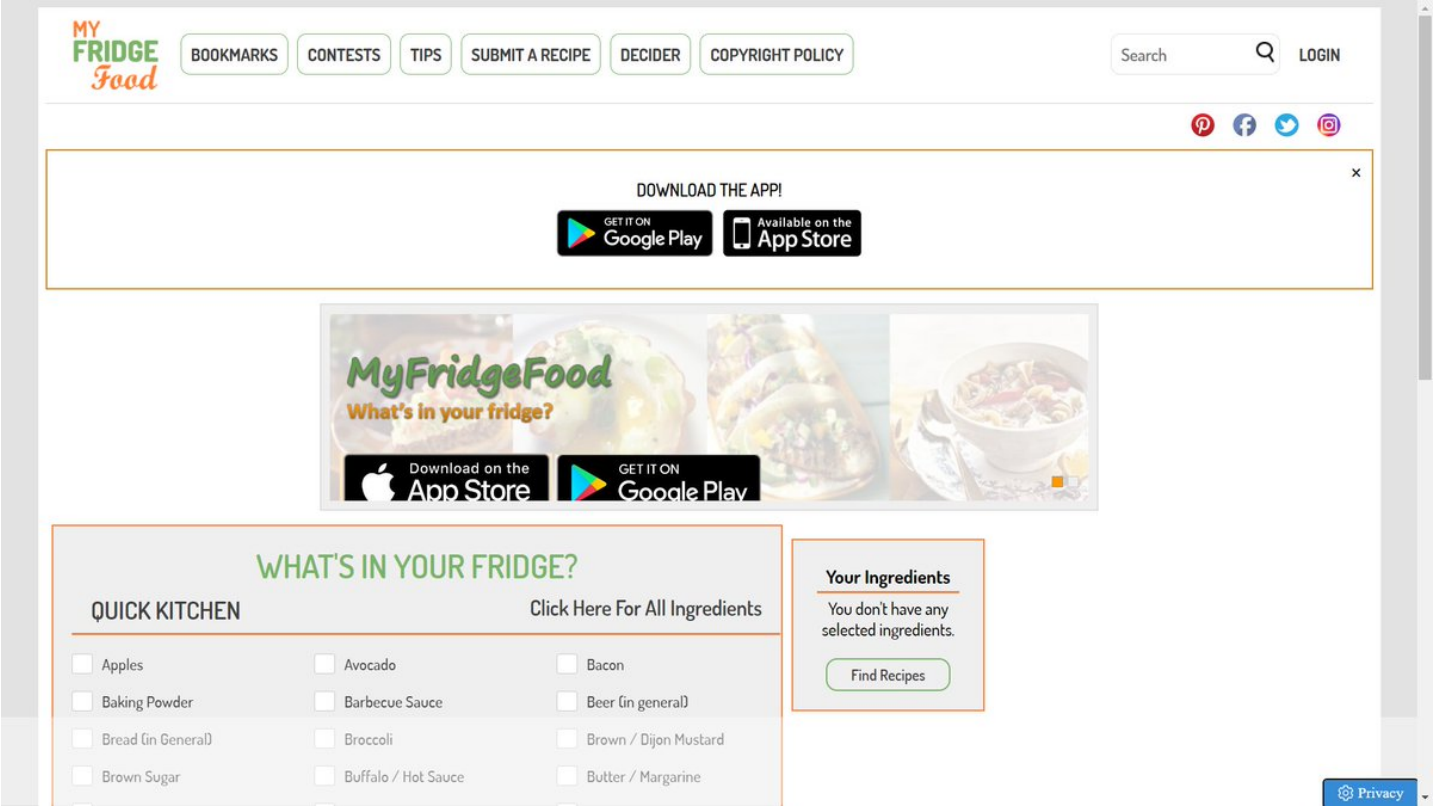

Please help us improve by reporting bugs 🐛.

Make the best possible meal with whatever you have.

If you can't decide what to eat, just let MyFridgeFood know what's in your fridge and it will tell you what meals you can make and how you can make them. A great way to discover new recipes.

Craft better sentences.

Most of us use more words than necessary. Trim the fat from your writing with this AI copyeditor. Just paste your text into the page and the robot will show you how each sentence can be improved.

Hemingway App makes your writing bold and clear.

The app highlights lengthy, complex sentences and common errors; if you see a yellow sentence, shorten or split it. If you see a red highlight, your sentence is so dense and complicated that your readers will get lost trying to follow its meandering, splitting logic — try editing this sentence to remove the red.

You can utilize a shorter word in place of a purple one. Mouse over them for hints.

Adverbs and weakening phrases are helpfully shown in blue. Get rid of them and pick words with force, perhaps.

Phrases in green have been marked to show passive voice.

You can format your text with the toolbar.

Paste in something you're working on and edit away. Or, click the Write button and compose something new.

See both sides of the debate.

Online, it's easy to get trapped in echo-chambers of like-minded people where your beliefs are never challenged. Kialo presents a more complete view of reality by showing you the best arguments on both sides of a debate.
