

Twitter Thread by Anu Satheesh

Anu Satheesh

@AnuSatheesh5

Guruvayur Sri Krishna & Coconut with Horns.

#Krishnaleela

#Bhakthi

We've all grown up listening to stories of Shri Krishna. This one is a famous story of Shri Krishna in Guruvayur Temple, also called Dakshina Dwaraka.

There lived a villager who planted coconut saplings and had promised that he would offer the 'first coconut' from each of his coconut trees to "Guruvayurappan". When the trees started to yield coconuts, he collected the first coconut from all the trees in a sack ■ and set forth to Guruvayur.

On the way he was stopped by a robber who asked all the items in the sack. The villager told the robber that the coconuts in the sack belonged to Guruvayurappan and so he was unable to hand it over.

@SriramKannan77 @Jayalko1

The robber with anger asked the villager "Is Guruvayurappan's coconut any different? Does it have horns?". Saying so the robber pulled the sack forcefully out of the villager's hand, and coconuts came out..■

To their astonishment each and every coconut in the sack had horns! Even today, the coconut with horns are displayed in the temple for devotees to see.

Below Picture is not original, as we cannot take photos inside temple.

Hare Krishna

Guruvayurappa

■■■■■

Shubham

