In this age of escapism and spectators, many are living through the lives of fictional characters.

While they become background characters in THEIR OWN lives.

Spare yourself the tragedy, and regain control.

How to become a Hero in the modern era.

//THREAD//

Become Courageous.

Could you ever envision your favorite hero being a coward and always shooting himself down in the face of danger? Of course not.

Begin your path to glory by facing each one of your fears in an age of cowardice.

Every fear is an opportunity to be brave.

Embody Strength.

To radiate power lies in being strong.

All heroes start somewhere and so do you, if you find yourself doubting your physical abilities.

It is your responsibility to become stronger to protect your loved ones and defeat any opposition that wants to bring ruin.

You know what you must do to become stronger.

Hit the gym and chisel away at your weak points.
Meditate in order to regain control over your thoughts and your mind.
Believe in something greater than yourself train your heroic spirit.

Among the defeated, awaits a victor.

Self-Sacrifice.

Are you willing to lay down the line and die for what you believe in?

Ask yourself this until you have a titanium resolve in your heart.

This is the true initiation into heroism.

Daring to live on beyond your mortality is the main trait of all legends.

Attaining Glory in this modern age lies in taking the path of most resistance for the sake of training yourself to become a pillar of Hope for your fellow man.

You will be laughed at; You will face doubts about your path.

But this is an essential part of being a hero.

Dare yourself to heights never reached.

Show the world what can be done with just your sheer Will and Determination.

Call out to the divine for their attention as you courageously rival the Sun with the brightness of your character.

And I promise you: You can become a Hero
