Twitter Thread by Prabhakaran (In Exile) Z ■■

Prabhakaran (In Exile) Z ■■
@panzer_rommel

Saw a few of you discussing govt. corruption on my TL.
My daddy is a babujeet he regularly tells me story of corruption of fellow babus, would like to share a few instances here.
Would delete this thread in 12 hours, taking a big risk.

1. An IAS from eastern state currently serving as DM of a big district has 2 malls (one full size, one shopping center) in his wife's name in the state capital built free of cost by a notorious sand mafia.

2. An IPS from the same state use to give bribe collection targets to his inspectors when he was SP, the inspectors used to submit the money to his brother in law in Jute gunny bags.

The officer has stashed millions of dollars in banks of a SAARC country and regularly visits the country in name of police to police interaction, but the motive is to check the money.

3. Daddy caught a petrol mafia who offered 5 crore to each member of his team to free him, dad refused and handed him over to state police. He told dad that he was doing a big mistake and he would be out regardless Later he bribed 10 crore each to DM and SP and case was squashed.

4. There was an IRS officer living next to us. One day his house was raided and they found 50 crore in gold alone, they had to bring in Industrial cash counting machine, his wife gave Dharna in front of our house accusing dad of being responsible for the raid, was quite a scene.

5. This is the "Baap" of all.
A senior state IAS officer of Secretary rank has net worth of 3000 crore+. He even lends money to political leaders to fight elections and gets away with his theft by giving a 200 crore donation to the CM's party every election cycle.

6. dad had invested 25 lakhs in a proposed society in west delhi, considering he never indulged in corruption that was our life's savings. DDA babu asked for 56 crore@7 crore/block to clear proposal. Builder could not pay,ran away with money, dad was in depression for a long time

The builder before running away told this was the rate and builders actually pay this much. I remember a DDA clerk got into a car accident a few years back. ACB registered a corruption case against him. Why? Because he was driving a 70 lakh mercedes and could not explain how.

Some of you would comment why don't you complain, take action etc. The thing you dont understand is that sab mile hue hai, from top to bottom, everyone works with utmost cohesion to rob the exchequer. And if you raise your voice they work in similar fashion to silence you.