This is a hoax that's come around before, that snow burns instead of melting, now. It's an urban legend among the chemtrails people, and they keep making these videos, and they don't want to hear your science explanations. Now it's a Q thing too, apparently.

The QAnon folks are circulating a video claiming a snowball won't burn suggesting it's plastic from a secret weather modification system.

Ice can turn directly into water vapor and/or the water could be drawn into the porous snowball. The lighter fuel left the dark spot. pic.twitter.com/fz8RtoLvAN

Flat Earth stuff I think is already part of some Q believers' worldview. Which you would think would make engineering a continent-wide system of tunnels tricky, like how would they know not to go too far and make a hole in the bottom of the world? But they manage to believe.
