Despite talk about its commitment to equality and inclusion, Disney has donated to every single sponsor and co-sponsor of the "Don't Say Gay" bill.

In fact, Disney has funded the legislators filing anti-LGBTQ bills for years.

And the company isn't

And make no mistake:

Disney knows exactly who these people are.

Disney knows who these people are. The Senate sponsor, Ocala Republican Dennis Baxley, has backed anti-gay legislation for years — including laws to prevent gay couples from adopting kids who otherwise wouldn't have a family at all. Baxley once compared kids who live with same-sex parents to kids raised by alcoholics and abusers and later said: "I'm not phobic, but I simply can't affirm homosexuality."

The very next year Disney cut Baxley a campaign check. And another after that. And yet another last year.

So the park puts out the rainbow Mickeys during Gay Days while also cutting checks to the politicians hellbent on dehumanizing those same park guests.
