Twitter Thread by American Hacker

American Hacker
@AmericanHacker

Story time. There will be a couple crypto wallet addresses at the end of this one.

You follow this account, you know that I straddle the terminator - one foot in light, one in shadow. Good-ish bad guys, bad-ish good guys, I've never belonged anywhere else.

Right before the election, I was shown some things. How it started, it was worth following. Caution was indicated. extreme caution.

Given the starting context, the amount of time, the volume of information, the veracity of the parts I can check without triggering suspicion ... it's real and I think there'd be some advantage to getting it all.

This is going to require some bare metal in a facility outside the U.S.

This is something that will stay up, maybe clear till the midterm election.

And it needs a significant amount of disk space, for unpacking and sorting and such.

What is needed is gonna cost around 0.2 $ETH a month at current rates.

0xc6301a7f5a750Aec37280ECabe45956405A4F92C

Heading off the things that usually come up here.

Nope, can't use any sort of cloud. Bare metal, encrypted drives, all that kinda stuff is required.

Don't need any hands/eyes on this one. The inception involved those who will know what to do with the data.

Nobody you know can tell you anything more about this. It's not a social media thing. At all.

And finally, even in a worst case, not against the interests of the U.S., FVEYS, NATO, etc.

So there you have it. If you know and approve of my past work, this is opportunity knocking.

@threadreaderapp unroll