Twitter Thread by Pulp Librarian

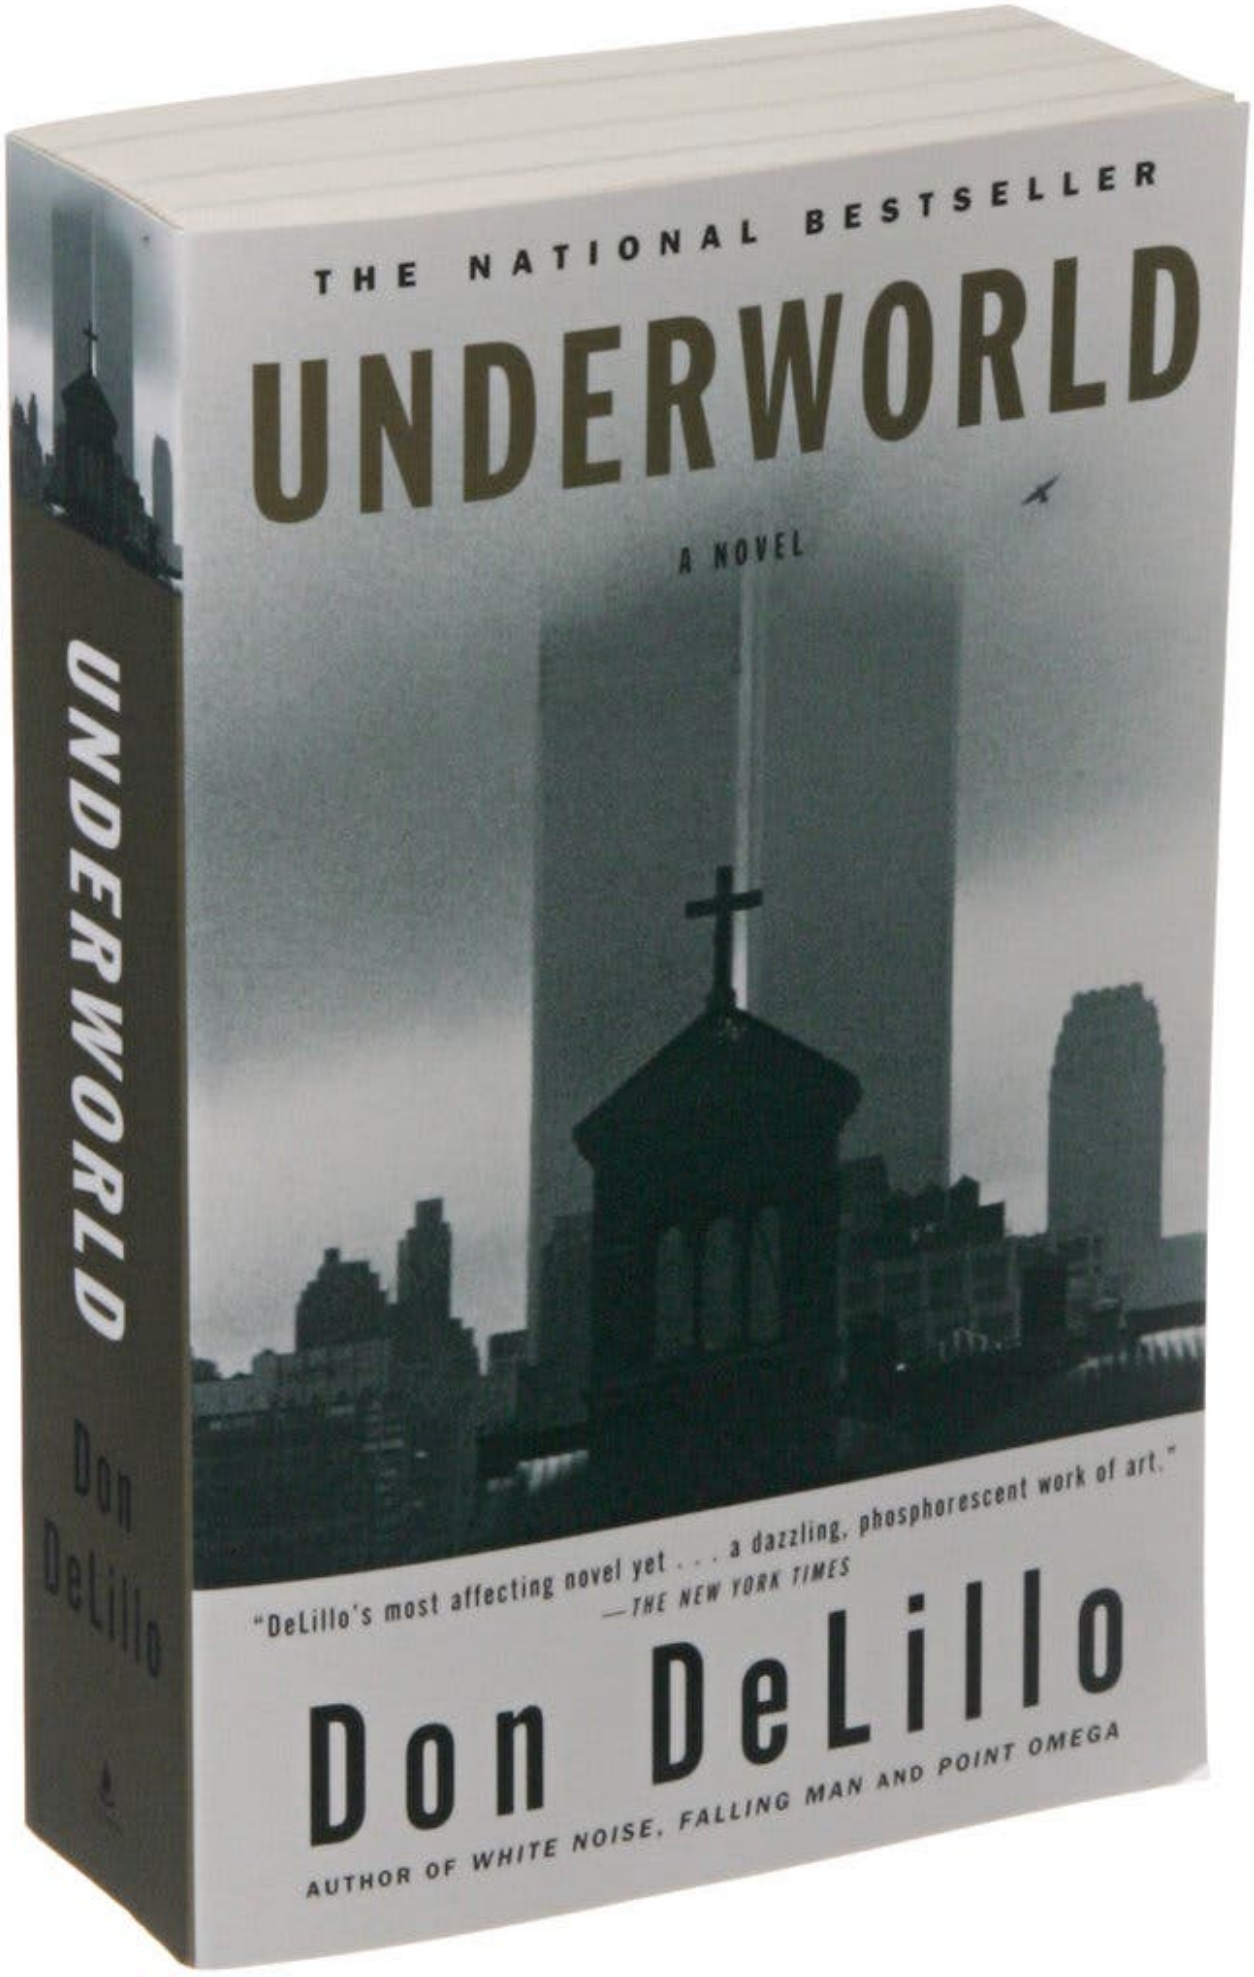

Pulp Librarian
@PulpLibrarian

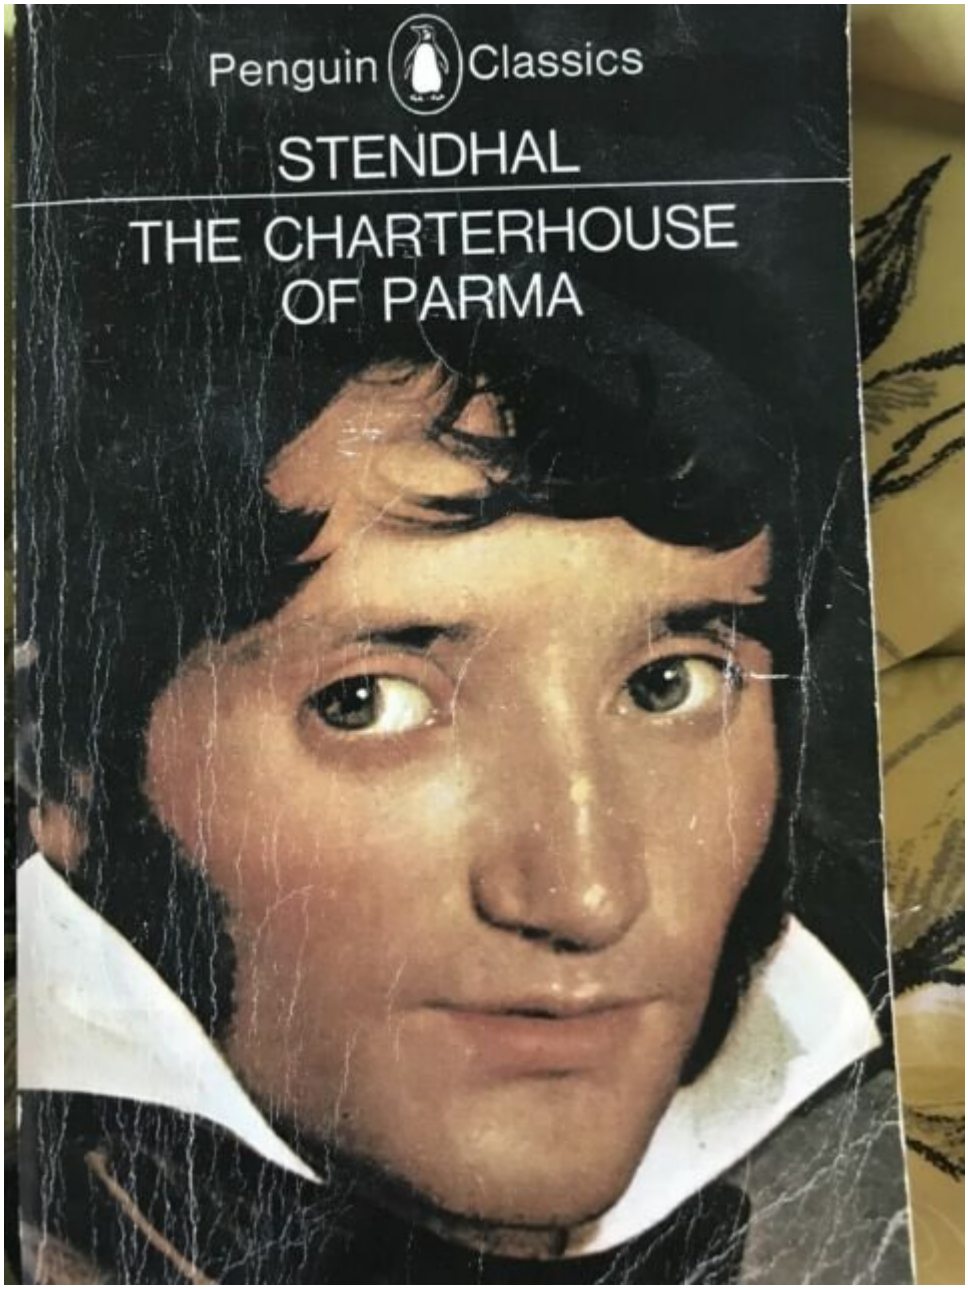

Which book took you the longest time to actually finish reading?

For me: Underworld. 17 years from buying it to actually getting around to reading it, and maybe 19 months on and off to make myself read it until the end.

Still, ticked it off the list ✔

Second place goes to The Charterhouse of Parma, which Stendhal wrote in 52 days. According to the Oxfam Books receipt I used as a bookmark I bought it on 11 April 2009. Finished it last month.

Coming Up For Air was torture. It's nature's punishment for autodidacts.

GEORGE ORWELL'S
AVON
35c
T-144
GREAT NOVEL OF
ONE MAN'S TEMPTATION
COMING UP
FOR AIR
By the Author of "1984"
Complete and Unabridged