

Twitter Thread by r■pø

r■pø

@MrMaxWellington

Those long awake are weathered and weary of everything. We feel as if we've been trapped in dystopian nightmare. A split reality. We've put on our "masks" and have assimilated to the false reality over the years, whilst still holding on, hoping the illusion is about to crumble.

I've been feeling this way for over a decade myself. I never wanted to make an attempt at a normal life, because I understood it was all a lie. You try to be a good member of society, and they crush you for it. Corruption pays off well, while honesty gets you entirely destroyed.

I had almost given up hope. After watching the election of 2016, and seeing blatant corruption from the left go unattested; I looked into what Donald Trump was actually doing. I realized, this man gave up a luxurious, easy life. He gave it all up for us. All to save humanity.

He knew of the shadow they cast on the entirety of society. He saw how they kept us in the dark, whilst bleeding us dry. Not just America; the whole of the World was under their reign, and a large portion of the populace had fallen for the illusion they perpetuated repeatedly.

I realized for once, we have someone in Office willing to fight with every fibre of his being, with the entirety of his soul, to shine a light in a society that has been clouded by darkness. We who had been awake and masked, were finally given a voice. He guided us the whole way.

He took the arrows and allowed the enemy (the globalist few that have controlled nearly every aspect of our lives) to expose themselves for the world to see.

From election fraud, the pandemic, the illegal spying during transition; the impeachment, and even the stimulus.

Every move that has appeared to be an attack against him has been turned around against them. While they think he's stuck in a state of defense; it's been an offensive defense the whole time. He has been waking others up the entire time. He knew he couldn't take them on alone.

It required A Great Awakening.

People don't like it when their told the life they've living is bullshit.

He had to show the world what we're really facing, bit by bit, over the course of four years. He had to awaken the people of the world from their state of slumber.

Emotions are at the highest in regards to the fate of the nation. They have utilized the narrative to insow as much division between the population as they possibly can. They are trying to break him; bit by bit.

It won't happen.

It's too late. He's gone all in. Nothing to lose.

He has given us a voice. He has given us a will to fight. A call to battle. This is the biggest battle of our lives, and I feel great knowing that we are finally nearing the end!

After all this time, the illusion is crumbling at a rate I had never anticipated.

I never thought I'd live to see the day #WeThePeople ripped the fabric of society out from under itself to invoke some actual change.

I'm so damn thrilled it's happening.

For the first time in over a decade, I look forward to what life has in store.

Thank you, @realDonaldTrump!

There are no words that can express my gratitude or how thankful I actually am that we have and will continue to have Donald J. Trump leading the way. I've been given a will to live again, and I owe you my life for it.

To those worn and weary; we're almost there. #FightForTrump

@threadreaderapp unroll