@SmithDwane

"I could cause an insurrection at the capital and wouldn't lose any followers" is the logical outcome of "I could shoot someone on Fifth Avenue & not lose any followers." As a candidate, he ran on the platform that he could openly commit crimes without consequence.

We've been in denial - about far-right extremism, the GOP, and Trump - and now we're at a crossroads. History shows clearly what happens when you appease those who try and take down democracy. I don't want that for my country. pic.twitter.com/m2gamEkFDD
