

Twitter Thread by The Reckoning ■

The Reckoning ■

@sethlevy

Here's my question @SenTomCotton, if the Congress's role is simply to rubber stamp the state certified electoral college then why include in the Constitution a mechanism, specific to the election of a President, that includes the ability to object to state certified electors? 1/