So it turns out that @RepBillJohnson is pretty cozy I guess with one of the guys who just tearfully confessed to his part in the #CapitolRiots

Here is Adam Newbold, former Navy SEAL, in an @ABC report that includes video of him boasting of "breaching the capitol" and how "to get in, we had to destroy doors and windows."

Adam is a director of ATG Worldwide, a company in Lisbon Ohio that provides weapons and tactical training. Their website says they serve "a wide variety of federal agencies, law enforcement and military clients."

They have a Facebook page, with Adam's more recent videos about what a hero he was standing up to save his country. These new videos omit his previous boasts of destroying federal property and "breaching" a building with his fellow terrorists.

And that page also includes a lovely post about ATG Worldwide having a "range day" for @RepBillJohnson and his staff.

Here is a screencap in case some stuff disappears.

It should also be noted that ATG and its terrorist Director have close relationships with local and state law enforcement. They provide training for a lot of public agencies, even some schools.

This fucker has been living off our taxes, in other words.

I hope some can follow up on his other connections. @Tylerjoelb @plunderbund @jpelzer @jbalmert @lizskalka @darreldrowland

Oh, shocking

More fun from ATG and its terrorist director: a "breacher" course. Wonder how everyone got in? Adam helped them "breach the capitol" (his words) and he is a professional at this.
