Twitter Thread by Aadit Sheth

If you use it right, your Twitter account is worth more than your degree.

But 98.8% suck at it.

Here are 9 unique ways to turn Twitter into a crazy valuable asset:

Highly Curate Your Following

99% of users follow real-time news on Twitter.

That's okay. But you won't make Twitter an asset then.

To make it an asset, build a high-signal information diet.

You'll see it as a whole new opportunity.

Let me show you...

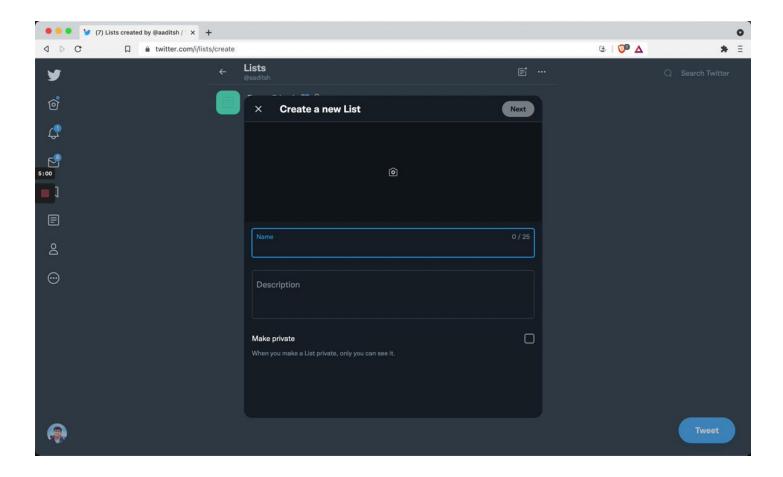

Use Twitter Lists

I find way too much news, drama and irrelevant ideas on the Twitter timeline.

I use Twitter lists to cut the noise and amplify the signal.

Bonus: Lists aren't affected by the algorithm.

Here's a video to get started on Lists:

Use Advanced Search

Scrape the internet to find what you want:

"(from:aaditsh) min_faves:1000 marketing"

Tweets with "marketing" from @aaditsh with more than 1000 likes.

Another favorite:

"(from:aaditsh) until:2021-09-01 since:2021-05-01"

Between May and September.

Mute Trolls

Trust me. They're not worth your time.

Click on a profile that annoys you.

Click "more" \rightarrow "mute profile".

You won't "block" them but their content will become hidden on your timeline.

It's so peaceful.

Polish Your Bio

It's a 1 line identity on the internet.

Make it crisp.

Mine: "I deconstruct world-class growth philosophies & mental models"

People now expect related content.

They like to see when you meet expectations (and go beyond).

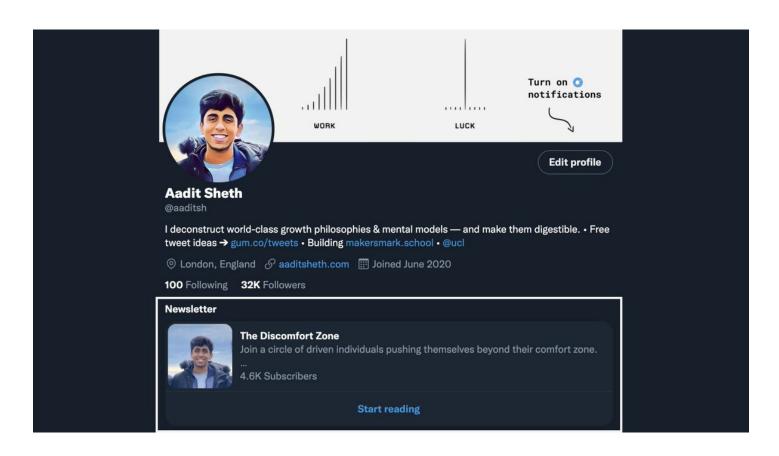

Integrate Your Revue Newsletter

Use your newsletter to write more in-depth content.

That's what I do at mine.

I have seen 2x subscribers arriving at my newsletter.

Seriously - this is a game-changer.

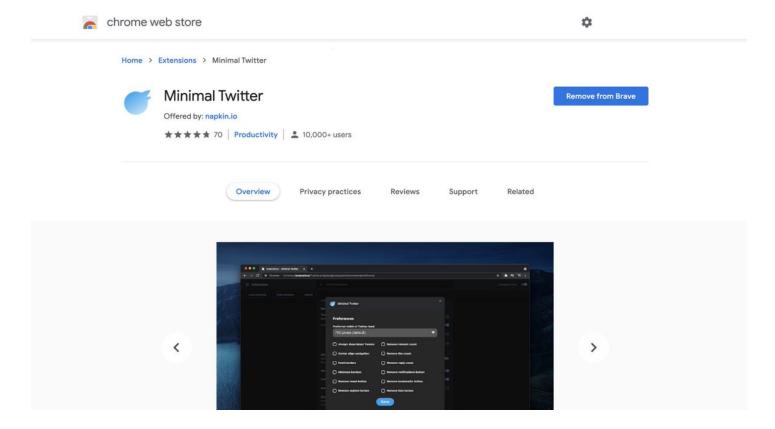

Write Twitter Threads

Deconstruct complex topics into simple actionable tips for others.

This act (itself) will turn your followers into "superfans".

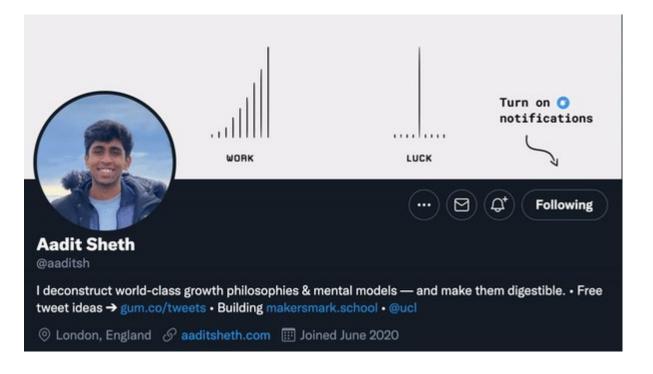

High-affinity audience = Valuable asset.
Network like you were born to.
You've heard this a million times.
If not, I'll say it again: You can literally reach anyone via Twitter DMs.
Think Gary Vee, Tony Robbins, Tim Ferriss (omg, this is crazy).

I've sent over 2000 DMs on Twitter.
Now, I do 10x the work in half the time in Twitter's most valuable feature.

Install Minimal Twitter:
I hate the "explore" section on Twitter. It's usually filled with news and garbage found in my location.
I use the "Minimal Twitter" chrome extension to remove Explore.
My entire Twitter experience has become 10x better.
