

Twitter Thread by Consortium News

Consortium News

@Consortiumnews

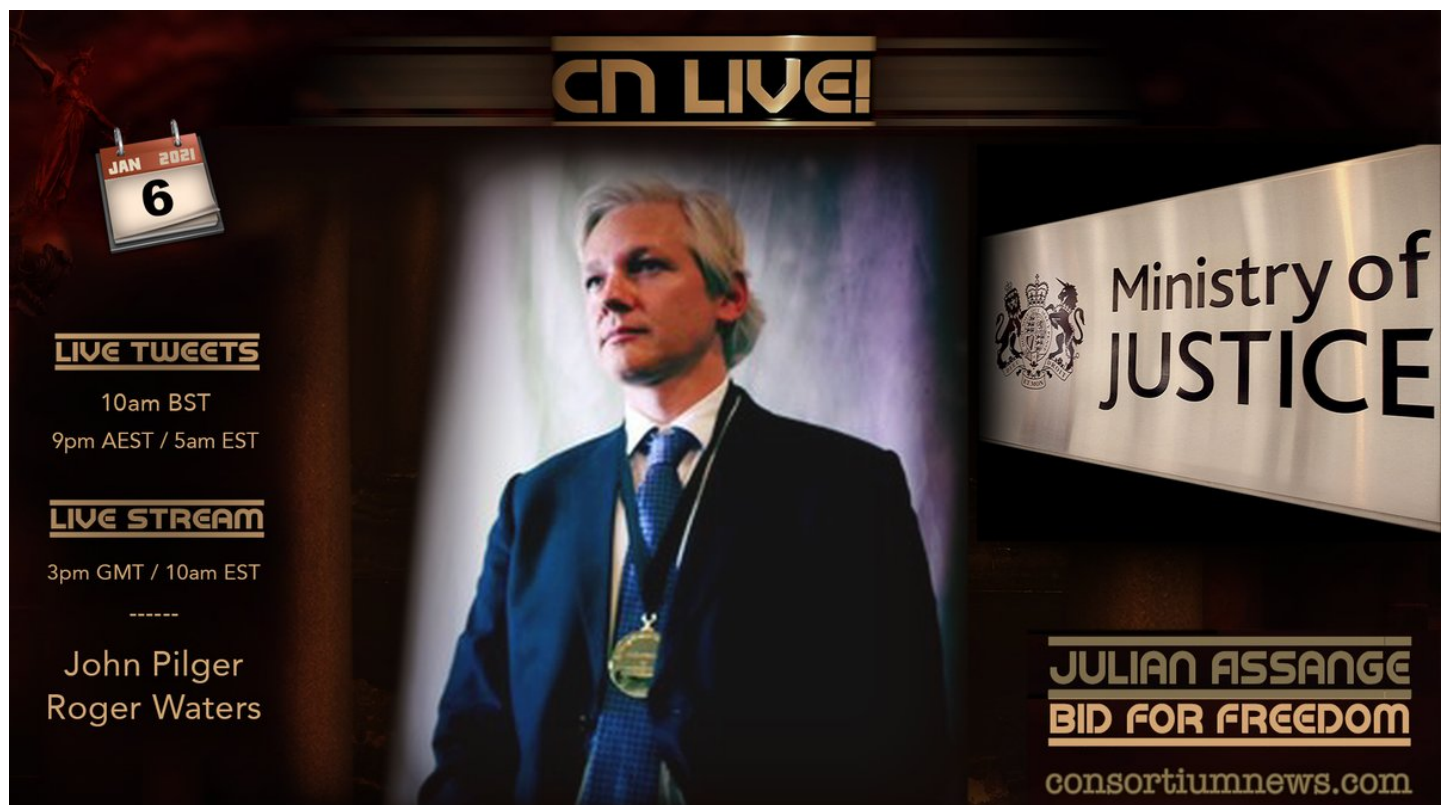

We'll be live-tweeting from the #JulianAssange courtroom again today on this thread.

Starts: 10am BST / 9pm AEST / 5am EST

At 3pm GMT #CNLive! will speak with @JohnPilger & @rogerwaters about the outcome.

This ■ WILL be the link after the hearing:

<https://t.co/wEiY9O6kyR>

A virtual courtroom graphic for a live broadcast. At the top center is a gold banner with 'CN LIVE!' in black. In the center is a portrait of Julian Assange, a man with grey hair wearing a blue suit and tie, with a gold badge around his neck. To the left of the portrait is a calendar icon showing 'JAN 2021' and the number '6'. Below the calendar are two sections: 'LIVE TWEETS' with times '10am BST' and '9pm AEST / 5am EST', and 'LIVE STREAM' with times '3pm GMT / 10am EST'. Below these are the names 'John Pilger' and 'Roger Waters'. To the right of the portrait is a white banner with the Royal Coat of Arms and the text 'Ministry of JUSTICE'. At the bottom right is a gold banner with 'JULIAN ASSANGE' and 'BID FOR FREEDOM' in black, and the website 'consortiumnews.com' below it.

We are in the virtual court room. Judge Baraitser has arrived. Awaiting #Assange.

US prosecutor has said it is uncertain whether the US will continue with the extradition effort:

<https://t.co/VwnhEnBkPi>

US prosecutor in charge of Julian Assange case says he is "uncertain about whether the administration of President-elect Joe Biden would continue the extradition effort" #Assangehttps://t.co/R7AhxPND8s

— WikiLeaks (@wikileaks) January 5, 2021

Camera is panning around Court 1 at Westminster Magistrates Court. Few people in attendance. #Assange has not yet arrived.

Judge Baraitser has arrived. We are looking at an empty dock. Split screen shows Defence lawyer Mark Summers. Assange enters & identifies himself.

Miss Dobbins will read objections to bail