

Twitter Thread by BoozyBarrister

BoozyBarrister

@BoozyBarrister

Let's remember that L. Lin Wood - according to a lawsuit filed by three attorneys who worked with/for him - allegedly called them to his house at 1 a.m. in the midst of a personal crisis, they sat with him to make sure he was okay, and the next day he fired them all via email.

On February 10, 2020, Defendant Wood contacted Plaintiffs and begged for them to come to his house around 1:00 am, which Plaintiff Grunberg and Wade did. Once there, Defendant Wood urged them to stay with him until morning, with Plaintiff Grunberg leaving at approximately 4:30 am and Plaintiff Wade leaving after sunrise. This experience unnerved the Plaintiffs.

Let's also recall that, shortly thereafter, according to the same Complaint, it is alleged he held a 3.5 hour phone call wherein he - again according to the Complaint - verbally berated these attorneys nonstop.

On February 13, 2020, the day before all 5 people who worked for Defendant Wood at Defendant LLW PC terminated their employment, Defendant Wood hosted an approximately 3.5 hour teleconference with Plaintiffs Grunberg and Wilson in which he spoke almost non-stop.

Then proceeded, the attorneys who worked with him allege, to send multiple abusive email messages to them with unhinged ramblings about Almighty God guiding him.

At this point, Defendant Wood began a series of irrational and incomprehensible email, text, and voicemail threats. All of these emails, most of which are sent in the middle of the night, have a few common themes: False and manufactured accusations that Plaintiffs did some heinous federal crimes that he has chosen not to identify, Defendant is doing God's will, and Defendant will never pay the Plaintiffs anything, while reiterating nonetheless that the individual Plaintiffs were his law partners.

Note: Literally ANY email that includes the words "you are the ones who are crazy, not me" is immediately suspect.

Sidenote: Voicemails that insist an action seems crazy but really isn't and makes completely sense are, in my general experience with domestic abuse cases, red flags.

Taylor, I hate to call you at 12:14 am because it's the act of a crazy man, but it's not son. You need to watch out for Nicole Wade. She would be the person that Allegedly, this continued for a while, with multiple emails and phone calls.

The Complaint alleges that at one point he actually held a mini-sidebar WITH THE LORD ALMIGHTY on the phone.

2020 at 6:59 p.m., stating, in material part, that Plaintiffs had to pay for the Lease and he threatened to drag out any claims or suits for any amounts that he owed Plaintiffs:

Taylor Wilson, man oh man, it's your old boss, the guy you love one minute, test one minute, love one minute, test one minute. Taylor, you're in a damn mess, and you know it, and if you don't, you're gonna talk to a lawyer and you're gonna know it then.

This is not the way to start your law firm, Taylor. Here's what we're gonna do. You're gonna get off your ass and put your pride aside, and you're gonna come over here and you're gonna talk to me. And I'm gonna tell you exactly what I'm willing to do to get y'all out of the mess you got yourselves in with your damn foolishness. You're playing with fire when you come after Lin Wood.

[talking to himself] "Now stop being mad, Lin. Okay, God."

Also, the alleged phone call to ONE LAWYER'S WIFE was DEFINITELY the act of a COMPLETELY STABLE HUMAN BEING with a well honed legal mind and in full possession of their emotions, reason, and common sense. If it was made. Remember, Complaints allege facts, they don't prove them.

On March 3, 2020, at approximately 10:30 p.m., Defendant Wood called and left a voicemail for Plaintiff Wilson's wife professing his love for her and her family in a manner she found terrifying and stating, in material part, as follows:

[Redacted] Wilson. You've got a handsome little baby boy, I need to see him soon, I know I will. Listen, I know I'm calling you, I'm not calling Taylor, I'm not supposed to. You're gonna learn some things, Taylor's gonna learn some things in the next day or two, involving Taylor, Nicole, and Jonathan, and me and the lease. It's gonna sound bad for him at first. Bad for you. I want you to know something, [redacted]. I told you I loved you. I told you I loved your son, I love your husband, Taylor. I'm not gonna let anybody get hurt too badly.... I think defamation. Defendant Wood had repeatedly voiced his concerns about his misconduct being disclosed as he feared it would interfere with his imminent receipt of the Presidential Medal of Freedom and appointment as Chief Justice of United States Supreme Court. The latter belief was based, in part, on (1) a decade-plus old "prophecy" Defendant Wood heard in a YouTube video, and (2) a conspiracy theory that Chief Justice Roberts would be revealed to be part of Jeffrey Epstein's sex trafficking ring and was being blackmailed by liberals to rule in their favor.

It is good to know that, as far back as Spring 2020, believed this whole "SCOTUS SEX SCANDAL" thing. It even provides motivation in the Complaint, alleging Wood believed that God had anointed him to be Chief Justice.

The summary lays out the claims:

He did all this, and then refused to pay us.

In summary: (1) after months of repeatedly reiterating that Plaintiffs were partners and otherwise associated in Defendants' law firm LLW PC, falsely accusing Plaintiffs of various crimes, threatening them with various fantastical civil liabilities, making up various acts allegedly committed by Plaintiffs, assaulting and battering Plaintiffs Grunberg and Wilson, repeatedly reiterating that Defendants would never pay Plaintiffs "one thin dime" on the cases subject of the Settlement Agreement, repeatedly claiming Defendant Wood would destroy Plaintiffs' careers, and making repeated threats of physical harm against Plaintiffs Grunberg and Wilson, Defendants executed a Settlement Agreement promising to pay them a lump sum on various cases in return for which Plaintiffs made financial concessions totaling hundreds of thousands of dollars and giving Defendants a release for their conduct specifically in order to

You can give the full Complaint a read. I'm linking it.

Now for my caveats: Complaints allege facts and do not prove them. Wood has denied all allegations in this matter. To the best of my knowledge, there is no resolution presently.

<https://t.co/iRZmmJ7UqW>

However, if these allegations were proven to be true, it would be fair to assume that Mr. Wood is suffering through some sort of episode or illness - hence why I'm not going to be using words that are sitting on the tip of my tongue.

As Mr. Wood has thrust himself onto the public stage to espouse a bloodless coup, disparage a sitting Supreme Court Justice, and ramble about legal theories with no precedential support to rile up unsavory elements of our nation, I feel these allegations deserve some discussion.

If you consulted with me, and I began screaming that God Almighty directed my actions while rambling about Lizard People, you would likely not put much faith in my analytical ability vis a vis the practice of law.

Folks should apply that same standard to legal talking heads.

Also, attorneys, if you are struggling with a mental health or addiction issue, there certainly is confidential help out there from your peers.

Please seek it.

<https://t.co/VJMgkVZeRs>