10 Red flags to note in relationships .

A thread !

1. Secrecy - There is a difference between being private and being secretive . Anyone who doesn't want people to know you are dating may have somethings they are hiding . It's ok to be private but alarm bells should ring where there is secrecy .

2. Barter - The relationship is almost always about what is being exchanged . While there will be exchanges in every relationship, an undue focus on this will indicate that someone is there for something they can get and not what they can give .

3. Misaligned values - What is sacred to you isn't respected by the other .values like honesty , integrity , respect isn't important to the other party . A relationship with nonaligned values cannot work ! There will always be conflict .

4. Mystery income - Some folks are dating thieves , robbers and fraudsters and always have signs to indicate that their partners are fraudulent. It is a huge red flag not to know what your other half actually does for money . It's not wise to join a sinking boat .

5. Apathy - Don't ignore "disinterest " . It is a symptom of a deeper disease. Some folks after sometime just lose interest . Ensure you are able to discern this . If there is romantic apathy it is a sign that someone has moved on and you are only dating yourself .

6. Financial indiscipline - Money is very important in this life . Especially in marriage . Be very careful of any one whose presence in your life always brings about emergency spending of money you have plans for . You cannot build with an indisciplined partner .

7. Sexual indiscipline - Nobody just cheats . Cheating is a decision . Never minimize sexual indiscipline in your relationship. There are serious consequences for permitting it . Plan your peace early . Don't give your heart to someone who will shatter it .

8. Lack of compassion: Be worried if your partner is “nice” to you but cruel to others . The way people treat folks they don’t feel they need reveals who they really are . We are all nice to the chicken we want to kill on Christmas Day .

9. Propensity for violence - If a partner ever lifts their hands against you ensure you run . The violent partner is a dangerous partner . Do not excuse physical abuse under any circumstance. Extricate yourself fast . That slap you received was a sign from God ! RUN!

10. Disdain for authority- The partner who doesn’t submit to anyone will not be accountable to you . They can feign it but really cannot be . Always check for the accountability systems in a fellows life before you give your heart to them .
