

Twitter Thread by GREG ISENBERG

GREG ISENBERG

@gregisenberg

Life gets better when:

You understand that grades never mattered but how you grade yourself does

You learn from disagreements, you don't get upset

You keep your private life private

You often have your phone in DND mode

You realize you're talented but probably just lack focus

You care more about impact than dollars

You believe age is just a number and don't let it get in the way of your dreams

You realize feeling lost is normal. Everyone feels somewhat lost

You stop watching so much reality TV ■

You can work when you want, where you want

You live your life on your own terms

Your friends give you a dose of inspiration

You become a master at not overthinking small or big decisions

You have healthy competition in your life among colleagues and friends

You write clearly every day

You think positively

You can stop your brain from making excuses

You build a community of people who are rooting for you

You realize work isn't just a business, it's a wonderful way to learn about yourself

You notice that everyone is learning as they go

You hold onto great investments and don't give up

You give up on perfectionism

You laugh often

You become someone you would hire

You do things when you don't "feel" like it because it's good for future you

You build unique projects

You figured out a way to pay your bills. It's hard to think clearly when bills are always on the mind

You don't "beat around the bush"

Your work becomes freedom not frustrating

This quote inspired this thread:

"Improve by 1% a day, and in just 70 days, you're twice as good." – Alan Weiss

"Simple" as that

Keep chasing dreams

For more threads like this, follow me @gregisenberg

And get my free email newsletter on the community-led movement and future of startups at <https://t.co/o2YiBTg4v>