Twitter Thread by Damon imani■

Damon imani■
@damonimani

Let me share with you a secret.

In my childhood, I often had what I later came to learn was called “Lucy Dreaming” which sometimes literally made me afraid of sleeping in the dark. It faded away as I grew up and in 2010 (18yo) a friend showed me a 9 hour long video laying out...

...nearly everything about the “illuminati” stuff as we know it.
After that day I got obsessed with researching “the reality” myself. At the same time the lucy dreams came back to me again. Some of them got worse, with me seeing dark-looking entities while locked in my body....

... I started researching specifics and personal experiences about lucy dreams. An old wise man that I had contacted (Bobby), told me to “not be afraid of them, you have power over them”. He also told me “when you enter that mode, you’re in a hallway that other entities have...

...access to, they know your fear and they’ll look certain way to feed from the fear that you give out when you notice them”. Suddenly it all made sense to me and right after reading his email I could just feel I was really to chill if it (lucy dream) happens again.
Just like...

...that, a few days later, on a Sunday (day nap), it happened. While locked in my body, I was surprised that I was not afraid and for the first time I didn’t feel any entity’s presence. I went as far as trying to get out of my body, but halfway through I struggled so I laid...

... down, inside my body again. When I woke up I was hyped af. It was one of the craziest events in my entire life (little did I know crazier events were waiting for me later on ,maybe another thread). Same day I contacted Bobby about what I had just experienced and he told me...

... to “not try to get out of your body because they (the entities) know how the hallway works but you don’t, since it’s an unknown place to you, they can trick you”.
With that being said, I already had a feeling they could be up to something. So while the lucy dreams still...

...continued to happen to me, I never tried to get out of the body or even deliberately enter the lucy state. In some cases I even figured Jesus’s name was a trigger word for it to stop which still amazes me.

I wanted this out for some time but never got through with it so here it is.