Twitter Thread by ■RiotWomenn■

■RiotWomenn■
@riotwomennn

"I grew up in Finland.

a) it rains all year round.

b) we have a lengthy and cold winter.

c) Finland is a sparsely populated country with just over 5mil ppl, with land size ~3/4 of CA and most of it forests and lakes.

d) no friggin body is raking the forests." @mallahadley

. . .

Trump's "assertion that California’s forest management policies are to blame for catastrophic wildfire is dangerously wrong."

https://t.co/Z9oRj77LlZ

Trump's message attacking California is "ill-informed, ill-timed and demeaning to those who are suffering as well as the men and women on the front lines."

https://t.co/Z9oRj77LlZ

"Wildfires are sparked & spread not only in forested areas but in populated areas and open fields fueled by parched vegetation, high winds, low humidity and geography. Moreover, nearly 60 percent of California forests are under federal management ... "

https://t.co/Z9oRj77LlZ

California Professional Firefighters President Brian Rice Responds to Trump's False Comments on CA Fires:

“The president’s assertion that California’s forest management policies are to blame for catastrophic wildfire is dangerously wrong. Wildfires are sparked and spread not only in forested areas but in populated areas and open fields fueled by parched vegetation, high winds, low humidity and geography. Moreover, nearly 60 percent of California forests are under federal management, and another two-thirds under private control. It is the federal government that has chosen to divert resources away from forest management, not California.

“Natural disasters are not “red” or “blue” – they destroy regardless of party. Right now, families are in mourning, thousands have lost homes, and a quarter-million Americans have been forced to flee. At this desperate time, we would encourage the president to offer support in word and deed, instead of recrimination and blame.”

Twitter educates Trump on why we can't Make California Like Finland Again.

First, @akihheikkinen

Twitter educates Trump on why we can't Make California Like Finland Again.

Veli-Pekka Kivimäki @vpkivi... · 1h

I perhaps wouldn't compare Finland and California climate-wise...
And besides, 80% of the country is classified as forest land. We don't exactly manicure all of it.

> Jennifer Jacobs @JenniferJJaco...
> "We've got to take care of the floors. The floors of the forest," Trump said in Paradise, CA.
>
> Other countries do it differently—pre...
> Show this thread

Twitter educates Trump on why we can't Make California Like Finland Again.

Michael Solomon @solomonbu... · 2h

Replying to @TheContemptor

Where to start??

1. Maybe Finland's latitude (approximately that if Alaska)
2. Finland's average summer high is in the low 40s (Fahrenheit)
3. Snow is a legit fire retardant.

Anyone care to add to this list?

77 137 1,312

Twitter educates Trump on why we can't Make California Like Finland Again.

Mrs. Betty Bowers @BettyBo... · 20m

Trump, the fool, doesn't understand why Southern California has fires when Finland, a country under snow half the year, doesn't.

INCHES OF RAIN DURING SUMMER (June - Sept):

Helsinki: 12"

Los Angeles: 0.2"

DAYS OF RAIN IN SUMMER:

Helsinki: 64

Los Angeles: 2

> Contemptor @TheContemptor
> Trump: "You gotta take care of the floors. You know the floors of the forest, very important... I was with the President of Finland... he called it a