So, @elonmusk, you do know that the proposed tax on UNREALIZED capital gains on billionaires is just that, a proposal, right? Why would you burden yourself with an enormous tax until the proposal becomes tax law, which is highly unlikely? A couple questions for you. 1/

You note that as you earn no salary or bonus the only way to personally pay taxes is to sell stock. What became of the $22 million you received on the sale of Zip2, which you founded with your brother? After paying taxes on the realized gain, did you invest the net proceeds? 2/

Note, I do not take a cash salary or bonus from anywhere. I only have stock, thus the only way for me to pay taxes personally is to sell stock.

After being fired by the PayPal board and replaced by Peter Thiel, PayPal was sold to eBay. You received over $165 million in eBay shares from the sale. Do you still own them? Did you pay taxes on any realized gain and invest the net proceeds? Surely you have non-Tesla assets? 3/

You have committed to owning all of your shares in Tesla for the duration. Why would you break your word simply on a tax proposal until it becomes law? I understand you invested $6.5 million in Tesla when you joined the company in 2004, the year following its founding. 4/

@elonmusk

Forgot to say one thing at Tesla annual shareholders meeting: just as my money was the first in, it will be the last out.

Since joining Tesla, have you made any additional investments in the company or is the majority of ownership derived from share grants? I presume you will ultimately sell shares to finance exercises of expiring stock options instead of continued borrowing and pledging shares? 5/

It looks like the next tranche expiring is not until August of next year? Why couch a sale now based on proposed tax policy? Why not wait? Is your "poll" really a diversion from the belief that shares are overvalued? You don't tend to see insider selling when stocks are cheap. 6/

- (1) The market value of unvested restricted stock units is calculated by multiplying the number of unvested restricted stock units held by the applicable named executive officer by the closing price of our common stock on December 31, 2020, which was $705.67.
- (2) 1/12th of the total number of shares subject to the option becomes vested and exercisable each time: (i) our market capitalization increases initially to $100.0 billion for the first tranche, and by an additional $50.0 billion for each tranche thereafter; and (ii) one of 16 specified operational milestones relating to total revenue or adjusted EBITDA (other than any operating milestone that previously counted towards the vesting of another tranche) is attained, subject to Mr. Musk's continued service to us as either CEO, or as both Executive Chairman and Chief Product Officer with the CEO reporting to him, at each such vesting event. See "Executive Compensation—Compensation Discussion and Analysis—Chief Executive Officer Compensation—2018 CEO Performance Award" above.

Did your brother/board member, Kimball, know you'd poll to decide a personal sale ONE day after selling over $100m? Ditto other insiders in recent days? Seeing LOTS of SEC Form 4 filings. The timing of Kimball's sale at all time highs a day prior to your tweet is interesting. 7/

Explanation of Responses:

- The reporting person gifted an aggregate 25,000 shares of the issuer's common stock to charity.
- The price reported in Column 4 is a weighted average price. These shares were sold in multiple transactions at prices ranging from $1,223.060 to $1,224.000, inclusive. The reporting person undertakes to provide Tesla, Inc., any security holder of Tesla, Inc. or the staff of the Securities and Exchange Commission, upon request, full information regarding the number of shares sold at each separate price within

Do you know that Warren Buffett, fellow billionaire, has NEVER sold a share of Berkshire since gaining control in 1965? Yet Mr. Buffett's ownership in has been halved because he donates a portion of his shares each year to charity. Why not adopt a like non-taxable approach? 8/

No doubt it's your prerogative as to what you do with your wealth. Except for the plane you appear to live modestly. We've seen photos of your TX house. Mr. Buffett also lives modestly and has a "few million" in invested assets outside of BRK, owned prior to buying Berkshire. 9/

Berkshire & Tesla make an interesting contrast. Mr. Buffett acquired all of his shares with cash. He makes a larger $100k salary than you working gratis. Big difference in that he was NEVER given options & NEVER sold a share, despite the stock at times being very overvalued. 10/

Surely as the now richest in the world you won't leave ALL of your estate to your 6 children? $50 billion a kid seems like more than enough. Saw your proposed sale of $6 billion of $TSLA last week if you could solve world hunger, so you certainly appear charitably inclined. 11/

Couching a sale as tax (proposal) driven and not because of valuation is odd. You presently have no tax liability payable and can continue to pursue strategies, even charitable ones, to keep it that way. Looks like despite your money being first in it won't remain the last out.
