Twitter Thread by Parker Molloy

Parker Molloy
@ParkerMolloy

I told you they'd bring this up

> Right-wing media have essentially convinced themselves that Trump never said "very fine people." They're lying. https://t.co/5960NPMYLJ
>
> — Parker Molloy (@ParkerMolloy) February 11, 2021

I was wondering why that tweet had so many stupid replies. And now I see https://t.co/wRJiBMIfTm

> The Fine People Hoaxers are trying hard to keep you from reading the actual FULL transcript because then you would see how the hoax was pulled off with devious editing. https://t.co/PQLj0DWuPj
>
> — Scott Adams (@ScottAdamsSays) February 11, 2021

Seriously, this was "the night before." If you're at the march where they're changing "Jews will not replace us" and "Blood and soil," you're not a "very fine person." Full stop. https://t.co/ZrOC0y8Rfq

> Trump defense talking about how the then-president was praising the peaceful protests at Charlottesville that occurred "the night before" the violence on Saturday. That was the night where the torch-bearing crowd chanted "Jews will not replace us." pic.twitter.com/HCKS6Q9LBY
>
> — Anthony Zurcher (@awzurcher) February 12, 2021

There are 3 important moments in that transcript.

1.) When someone asked Trump about a statement he had already made about there being blame on "both sides," he said the "fine people" line.

2. Trump does clarify! "I'm not talking about the neo-Nazis and white nationalists — because they should be condemned totally "

Okay!

Then adds that there were "many people in that group other than neo-Nazis and white nationalists."

That’s the part the Dilbert dumbasses cling to. “See! He sed he wasn’t talking about them!”

Okay, yes, we get that. What he said was that there were some “very fine people” who were marching in the same group as the Nazis.

And finally 3. He said that the “fine people” were the ones there “the night before.”

THIS WAS THE NIGHT BEFORE! IT WAS THE TIKI TORCH MARCH WHERE THEY WERE CHANTING “JEWS WILL NOT REPLACE US.”

Trump can say “I’m not talking about white nationalists and neo-nazis” all he wants. That doesn’t change that he said there were “very fine people” who were marching with that group. And sorry, but if you went to the “Blood and soil” tiki torch march, you’re not a “fine” person.

I have no idea why these nitwits think that makes their case better. They just run around calling everything they don’t like a “hoax.”