To think that Northerners are Politically sagacious is the fallacy of the century. Since Nigeria gained independence (alleged) The leadership of this country both in the military and democratic span of it had always seen the Northern elites having higher clinch of power,

Control of major resources to their advantage, They say Politics is allocation of power,(human n material resources), as to who gets what,how and when;". especially to this modern day that the security architecture of this country is in their palms. Yet we have seen unpredictable

Slaughter of lives in our land under their gaze. To even, imagine that it happened once or twice is killing my spirit let alone becoming the norm we have to live with. Shameless to hear that farmers pay bandits for 'pass' to their farms/harvest is economic dilemma.

To even hear that their state governors paid and still pay them is out of this world. To even hear again that the arch spiritual/traditional ruler the Sultan is merely giving a news headline that Bandits now go door to door to kidnap is the height of shame with the amount of Power that the so called political gurus are disposed to. It beats common sense to hear that minors enrol, are given PVC just to maintain voting strength.. You now claim power belongs to you all. Alright. The question is, Do you actually have the power? Look around you.

Do you see deaths? Rapes? Arson? Poverty? Iliteracy? In fact you have to use power to bend it to quotas for your wards to pass exams. What exactly feels like power to this core North 'Foolish" or more exists in the dictionary just because of your sake. Have you ever compared your

Selves with other Islamic rich Nations?You have constantly played the religious cards. What have you turned Kano to? Do you see UAE? You all go to Mecca and come back as more foolish scholars. What can you say you have done with the Islamic Heritage of the North?

Today, after so much years of brigand-like leadership of oil sector through NNPC and sorts.what can the North produce as evidence of the assertion that they are politically more sagacious? Outside the big NNPC Towers is there any other thing visible to support structural strength

From oil monies? Don't worry I know the seeming parochial ratio of PTDF scholarships. The context here is to juxtapose the wealth you have controlled overtime with that of other Islamic sovereign nations. Shame. Today, if you ask a common leadership question with intent to right

A wrong.. they will jump out from the donkeys and say it is an attack against the North. The North that does what especially? Biko. Under your hegemony.. we are world's poverty headquarters. Do you not have eyes? Look deep
