I was wrong. He left. I own it. Now I'll keep my word. I can't say that I regret it. It's appropriate.

The fact that I was wrong that Trump would engineer a way to stay in the WH, & potentially wrong about an opinion I never vocalized, doesn't change what I laid out all yr 1/

And that's this: Trump was a Trojan Horse. Trump herded & set up & sold out the Christians in this country who were too blinded by the cult of personality that he and his fake enemies engineered. He pretended to be fiscally conservative, then destroyed us with warp speed. 2/

He pretended to be pro 2 Am, as he encouraged red flag laws & bump stock bans. He pushed 5G, ignored chem trails, & intentionally & obviously sabotaged his own litigation re things like "DACA," he pretended like a wall he knew he could never build was the only way to stop 3/illegal immigration, he pretended to want to stop child trafficking, & then prosecuted far less of those crimes than even Obama, he claimed to fight ISIS while moving troops just far enough back in Syria to allow Turkey to invade ... & free ISIS, & then assassinated the only 4/

guy who actually was fighting ISIS, he shut down the country for a wall he can't build bc 67% of the border is private property, but never over TRILLIONS of dollars in socialist pork or Planned Parenthood funding, he pretended to fight through tweets, rally comedy tours, & 5/

Exec Orders that he knows are worthless & toothless, he shit down our country while complaining about it, issued a Dec of National Emergency to fund it, claimed to defund the WHO of $1.19 million, & then turned around & gave $1.19 BILLION to Gavi, the primary funder of WHO 6/

He pushed hard to get an unnecessary poisonous vaxx, a vaxx so abhorrent to the pro life position that even Jorge Bergoglio is excited about it, & he used our money to do it, while convincing the "pro life" community to get excited about cannabalistic poison bc they can't see 7/past their disgusting adoration for a man who did nothing but mock everything they believe for 4 years while doing more to destroy it than any other POTUS in history.

So, he didn't stay. Ok. People who have hated everything I've said because they can't refute it can hang 8/their bitter small hats on the fact that I was wrong about that.

But he didn't need to. He destroyed the country, walked out a false victim hero, and handed it off to a stooge to take the blame.

He didn't even have his DOJ prosecute PP for selling baby parts.

Why?

I guess the future will answer that question. He owes more than $4 bil to the Rothschilds for bailing him out. Maybe this was the cost. Maybe there is more. But it wasn't that he had good intentions and was thwarted. Not.a.chance.

Dark days ahead, and now we'll get to have Vigano claim that his blasphemy about Trump being the Katechon was correct, that everything is going to hell because Trump didn't "win," & that will be the most disgusting lie of them all. I was afraid of that. Hopefully, I'm wrong. 11/

We'll see. But, I was wrong about Trump leaving, so I'll keep my promise for now. But let's be very clear about what that promise was.

The promise was "if Trump leaves politics & goes back to the business world" ... not if he "leaves the white house."

I wrote it that way intentionally. So, I technically don't have to do this, but I think it's appropriate, at least for a little while, because I'm honestly surprised that he left. Depending on how the next few months play out, I've some soul searching to do.

I won't delete my account until the rest plays out. Meanwhile, I'll be silent.

Frankly, if they're going to proceed with Trump's false martyrdom with an impeachment show, while using him as a honeypot to categorize & roundup his supporters, I don't want to watch it anyway.

God bless you, my friends. You've been a real blessing to me. I'm sorry if I ever steered you wrong.

Peace of Christ be with you.
