(10/01/2018) Human 2.0 Is Coming Faster Than You Think. Will You Evolve With The Times?

But there may be other, more pragmatic reasons why we need to become transhuman, if only to stand up to the intelligent machines that are coming. Early on, Elon Musk sounded the alarm about humans being usurped by artificial intelligence in a series of well-publicized warnings. Since then, he has suggested that the only way not to be overtaken by computers is to merge with our creations. His venture, Neuralink, is in development precisely for this purpose. Meant to combine human brains with computers, it's his attempt to symbiotically join our minds with the machines. "The merge scenario with A.I. is the one that seems like probably the best," he recently said on the podcast, the Joe Rogan Experience. "If you can't beat it, join it."

A visionary himself, Goertzel has long foreseen Musk's vision coming, yet he urges caution in its implementation. "The next step to take is to wire these machines directly into the brain and body rather than have them held in our hands. Clearly, this takes time and thought because you need to be careful with sticking wires into human brains and bodies. But that work is being done, and it's not going to take more than a decade."
