Your job application mentions your statutory obligations under the Equality Act and correctly has sex in a list of the protected characteristics under the Act.

However...

Your Application

We are committed to promoting equality of opportunity in employment and to selecting and developing staff on merit, irrespective of race, ethnic origin, colour, nationality, disability, sex, age, relationship status, religion/belief or sexual orientation. In order to monitor the fairness of our recruitment and HR processes and the overall workforce composition as well as to assist us in meeting our statutory obligations under the Equality Act, we ask that you provide the following information. Please note that this information will only be used by the HR department for internal monitoring purposes and will not form part of the recruitment process or be made available to anyone involved the selection stages. The information provided will form a confidential statistical record/database which will be used for analysis only.

Please choose the option which best describes your gender identity [*]

☐ Male

☐ Female

☐ Transgender

☐ I do not wish to disclose

However, you then ask "Please choose the option which best describes your gender identity" with options:

Male

Female

Transgender.

'Gender identity' is not a protected characteristic under the Equality Act 2010 and is not defined in the Act.

PART 2 EQUALITY: KEY CONCEPTS

CHAPTER 1 PROTECTED CHARACTERISTICS

4 The protected characteristics

The following characteristics are protected characteristics—

- age;
- disability;
- gender reassignment;
- marriage and civil partnership;
- pregnancy and maternity;
- race;
- religion or belief;
- sex;
- sexual orientation.

Sex is the protected characteristic and the only two possible options for sex are 'Female' and 'Male' as defined in the Act and consistent with biology, but you don't ask for that.

'Gender' is not a synonym for sex.

11 Sex

In relation to the protected characteristic of sex—

- (a) a reference to a person who has a particular protected characteristic is a reference to a man or to a woman;
- (b) a reference to persons who share a protected characteristic is a reference to persons of the same sex.

'Gender identity' relies on demeaning, regressive stereotypical notions of societal roles for the two sexes, concepts that I'm sure you would not wish to be associated with.

'Transgender' is not a protected characteristic under the Equality Act 2010 and is not defined in the Act.

There is a protected characteristic of 'gender reassignment', but you don't ask about that.

7 Gender reassignment

- (1) A person has the protected characteristic of gender reassignment if the person is proposing to undergo, is undergoing or has undergone a process (or part of a process) for the purpose of reassigning the person's sex by changing physiological or other attributes of sex.

Asking about a personal characteristic such as 'gender' that is not a protected characteristic under the Act, may be in breach of the GDPR by processing personal - and potentially Special Category - data without a lawful basis.

6/10

If you choose not to gather data on specific protected characteristics (such as sex), you cannot have the information required to ascertain whether or not you could be discriminating on protected characteristics in recruitment. This could be vital in an employment tribunal.

7/10

If you choose to discriminate on characteristics (such as 'gender') that are not protected characteristics under the Act, you may inadvertently indirectly discriminate on protected grounds.

8/10

Language and meaning of words are important and proper use & understanding of terms is vital so that the public is aware of what rights they have and what your duties are. Any confusion or inconsistency over meaning may prevent people from accessing their rights in law.

9/10

Will you undertake to correct these errors and to review all your other policies, documents, reports, etc to ensure compliance?

Please respond.
