Twitter Thread by Onyinye

Onyinye
@SisiOnyinye

I’m his front desk, digital marketer, social media handler, content creator, graphics designer, food warmer, food buyer, plate washer, office cleaner as a matter of fact and I also go to work on Saturdays
Warming and going to buy food for him WAS NOT

Part of my job description, I was doing it because of course nobody wants to stay at home and I’m not the type to sit and ask anybody for anything, I like to hustle
Now straight to the story
Mr Patric got in to the office at 3pm I exactly today and went

Straight into his office(he had visitors)
I usually ask him if he wanted me to order his food or buy but it was already 3pm so I felt he must have eaten from where he was coming from and also if he wanted food he’ll ask me to order, I was on my desk as

Usual up until 4:49pm my colleague comes to call me that mr Patric was calling me, getting there, he said I should go buy food for him, knowing fully well it was almost time to go home, I collected the card calmly and left with the driver to buy food,

I didn’t take my phone Cos I rushed out so I could quickly buy the food and rush back to go home, getting there I realized I had forgotten the pin, the driver was not with his phone, I checked the car and found his car papers, found his number and was walking

Around like a mad person looking for who would borrow me their phone to call him and ask for his pin, mind you I had already bought the food, just to pay and leave, I managed to find a security guy who gave me his phone, called him and he gave me his pin

I went back inside the fast food and the card got declined(insufficient funds) I didn’t want to call him again because that would mean me going back to beg for a phone to call me Patric again, so i decided to go back to the office and explain to him what had

Happened
Getting to the office, I went straight into his office and was trying to explain, I didn’t finish what I was saying he said he didn’t care, that I should go back and buy him his food, that why didn’t I call him, I said

“I cannot got back sir, it’s already my closing time” he said thank you and I walked back to my desk to pack my things, while I was doing that, he came out from him office and was like I should give back the company whatever of theirs I had with me, I

Responded “I don’t take home whatever that belongs to the company sir, everything is in here and please you’ll have to pay me for the month I’ve worked” he said okay that’s fine(in anger) He was in my way because I had shoes I wear at work and I was looking

For a plastic bag to pack them, I said “excuse me sir, I need to pack my stuff” he said “are you mad, who do you think you’re talking to?
I responded “excuse me sir, you’re in my way”
Next thing he screamed”GET OUT OF MY OFFICE and flung my bag,

I responded”sir, don’t touch me please, next thing, he pinned me down with his hands on my neck on our office couch and gave two slaps, I gained ground and slapped him back,his glasses fell from his face breaking, his visitor came to hold him, he picked up

His shoe and wanted to hit me with it, I was cursing him out that he was a coward and didn’t have any right to touch me, he was still screaming, calling me brat, dirty and useless
I picked up my things and was about leaving, even after people were asking him

To calm down, he asked the gate man not to let me out of the compound and they should search my bag, that he was looking for the phone, I spent 20minutes at the gate because the gate man wouldn’t let me out claiming he needed instructions from him to let me out

After he found the phone he asked him to let me out
Oh, my phone also got broken in the process
Here are the pictures....

Mind you, the person that have worked in that position have never spent up to 4months there, I am the first person, the others leave after two weeks, I stayed because I want to work and begin my career
Please guys, I need your help

I’m devastated