@AbdullaahDawud @BreakingBrown @doritegrocery @Amazon_Queenn @melanatriot In my humble opinion, there are some (few) who claim “FBA” because they don’t like the moniker “descendants of slavery”. But, they don’t understand the significance, connection and necessity in being explicit that we are owed reparations BECAUSE OF “slavery”... 1■■■■

@JustUsADOS @AbdullaahDawud @BreakingBrown @doritegrocery @Amazon_Queenn @melanatriot And, everything that followed on the timeline from slavery til now. But, these few, need to understand that “FBA” IS an “org” (that does nothing) except for dox people, speak recklessly about ADOS, Black immigrants, and other people who ARE doing the work. Tariq can say 2■■■■

@JustUsADOS @AbdullaahDawud @BreakingBrown @doritegrocery @Amazon_Queenn @melanatriot it’s not an “org”, but once he trademarked it, created some kind of “flag”, took money from thousands of people for a “conference”, and created some sort of weird and dangerous allegiance amongst those people... it’s an “org”. That does NO real work in furthering our cause.3■■■■

@JustUsADOS @AbdullaahDawud @BreakingBrown @doritegrocery @Amazon_Queenn @melanatriot So, those few who are doing some work (in Marlon’s case) need to pick a definitive side in name, and principle. Because, whatever work they are doing, needs to be within the continuity of the foundation and work of ADOS who IS an actual WORKING ORGANIZATION. As well as a 4■■■■

@JustUsADOS @AbdullaahDawud @BreakingBrown @doritegrocery @Amazon_Queenn @melanatriot DEFINED lineage. Those few are NOT actually helping, but are in the long run, harming the momentum and progress of those (ADOS) who ACTUALLY created and initiated the definitions, foundation and momentum for the reparations movement in the past few years. I can clearly 5■■■■

@JustUsADOS @AbdullaahDawud @BreakingBrown @doritegrocery @Amazon_Queenn @melanatriot see why YC and AM are so adamant about not having any association with anyone touting the moniker “FBA”. Even IF, it’s just in name only. Because the ONLY work “FBA” has done AS A COLLECTIVE (led by ignoramus Tariq) has been DAMAGING to the collective movement of ADOS, 6■■■■

@JustUsADOS @AbdullaahDawud @BreakingBrown @doritegrocery @Amazon_Queenn @melanatriot and our demands for monetary reparations FOR ADOS, and a reparative Black Agenda for ADOS, and Black Americans in general. It is IMPERATIVE that we make and maintain the distinction, between us and them for several reasons that we should all be aware of by now. So, I hate 7■■■■

@JustUsADOS @AbdullaahDawud @BreakingBrown @doritegrocery @Amazon_Queenn @melanatriot too see this being a point of contention amongst my ADOS Family. Let’s be clear, there is NO alliance between ADOS and “FBA”. Whatever work that’s being done in our fight for reparations and a formative Black Agenda has to remain under one umbrella. ADOS. For 8■■■■

@JustUsADOS @AbdullaahDawud @BreakingBrown @doritegrocery @Amazon_Queenn @melanatriot continuity of purpose, and to ensure all of the heavy lifting that ADOS has and, are doing isn’t co-opted tainted by those (as a collective) who have only lifted one finger... (the middle finger) to us and everything we stand for. Those who lied on, doxxed, and endangered ADOS.■
