Twitter Thread by stewart robinson

stewart robinson
@stewart_1979

I'm going to open up a can of worms here, I dont know if you will read this or if even what the next step would be but its a web of connections that needs a real journalist to investigate

So let's start with the latest debacle
School meal boxes as highlighted by Marcus Rushford

@spencermorgan93 The company that supplies them is Chartwells foods
Chartwells food is owned by a parent company called The compass group
Compass group supplies the jockey club there events catering

On the board of directors at the jockey club are Baroness Dido Harding, of failed T&T fame

@spencermorgan93 Also on this jockey club board was the late Rose Patterson
The husband of Owen Patterson
The mp for North Shropshire and the former secretary of state for Environment and rural affairs

Owen Patterson is also a consultant of a company called Randox

@spencermorgan93 Let's dig deeper shall we

Let's look at another consultant of randox

John Penrose
The Mp for weston and the government's anti corruption champion is also a paid consultant for the company called RANDOX

Lets look at RANDOX for a moment

@spencermorgan93 Randox are a laboratory company who surprisingly won the multi million £ contract to process PCR tests which just happen to have 2 influential advisors

But how does this link into the jokey club and in turn Matt Hancock?

@spencermorgan93 Well Randox is the biggest sponsor of the grand national that is held at Aintree

Aintree race course is owned by the jockey club

The jockey club as we know has/had the late Rose Patterson on the board, who's husband is an advisor of randox and an mp
And also on the board is ..

@spencermorgan93 Baroness Dido Harding
Who's husband is also an advisor to Randox and also an mp
If you haven't guessed it yet he is
Mr John Penrose the mp for weston and the Government's anti corruption champion

How does this tie into Matt hancock?

@spencermorgan93 Well Mr Hancock is the Mp for west Suffolk and in west Suffolk there is a lovely little town of Newmarket
Which has a racecourse owned by the jockey club ■
But also a massiv stud farms
An investigation revealed that Hancock has benefitted from more than £350,000 in political @spencermorgan93 donations from donors in horse racing.

It includes £140,000 from racehorse owner Bill Gredley’s Unex property business, and £132,400 from horse auctioneer Tattersalls.

The £1450 monthly rent for his former constituency home, a Grade II-listed property on the Thurlow Estate near @spencermorgan93 Newmarket in his constituency of West Suffolk, was reimbursed by taxpayers via expenses. His landlords were the Vestey family.

Lord Vestey was chairman of Cheltenham Racecourse for 21 years.

@spencermorgan93 His son William Vestey is on the Jockey Club’s Cheltenham Racecourse Committee, which organises the annual festival.

The so called super spreading event that Matt hancock was happy to alow to go ahead as he was "following the science" or was that following the money?

@spencermorgan93 @threadreaderapp unroll please