A white dude I knew through hoops left a comment on my page about Kyle Rittenhouse's victims. He said "play stupid games. win stupid prizes."

I unfriended him. Then months later he messaged me on Xbox Live asking why. I said it didn't matter.

Months after that he texted me to ask if thought people who voted for Trump were racist.

I have no clue why he was so focused on me not caring to be his friend. We weren't very close. But long story short I told him that anyone who voted for Trump in 2020 was racist.

In the exchange he defended Kyle Rittenhouse as just being in Kenosha to help people and wanting to protect property.

Now Kyle Rittenhouse is out on bail drinking underage in bars and flashing white supremacist hand signs in photos.

I haven't received a text from him.

But also Trump supporters stormed the Capitol building and caused all sort of property damage and killed a police officer a week ago.

Where were the "Kyle Rittenhouse's" of the world to protect property then?

I'll tell you where they were... storming the building.

I have still not received a text update about that shit.

Because the same way I know Trump voters are racist is the same way I knew Kyle Rittenhouse was a white supremacist.

The only thing that dude cared about was his own ego. He wanted me to absolve him of any complicity.

And because I wouldn't assuage his guilt he had to keep reaching out to me.

Essentially he wanted to say "You can't fire me I quit!"

Which is weird because I never really cared that much about him or unfriending him. For months this shit was on his mind.

But NOW?

Now I am wondering what the hell is up with him because I have a feeling he hasn't been very consistent with his hatred of property destruction and riots in the wake of the Capitol building being stormed.

Not that I'm gonna text him to find out though.

I KNOW I'm right.

The same way every Black person knows they're right about Trump and his supporters. The same way we knew we were right about Kyle Rittenhouse.

At some point you just get tired of talking to white people who continue to give whiteness the benefit of the doubt.

And they never acknowledge that they are wrong because to do so would mean to acknowledge that WE were right.

I can't imagine have that lack of empathy and yet still feeling a need for approval from me. Like he clearly doesn't really care how this makes me feel.

And he was expecting that same benefit of the doubt that he gives whiteness.

That we just "agreed to disagree."

Fuck that
