Twitter Thread by Chris Cox ■■■■■

Chris Cox ■■■■■
@Cyber_Cox

When a student's baby started crying in class, she stood up to leave. But the professor stopped her and held her child while he taught so she could focus on the class.

This Turkish bride and groom spent their wedding day (after the ceremony) feeding 4000 refugees

https://t.co/LiUSbGgK4l

An entire neighborhood secretly learned sign language to surprise their deaf neighbor

This security guard at Disneyland would ask every little princess for their autograph. This one reportedly told her parents that she was thrilled he thought she was a "real princess"

This man put a washer and dryer in a van so homeless people could wash their clothes for free

The father of the bride took her stepfather by the hand so he could walk her down the aisle as well.

https://t.co/WOOST9NpWE

Hungarians leaving shoes at the train station in Budapest for arriving immigrants

Literally gave a homeless man the shirt off his back

https://t.co/lzTiRtjkUk

This man saved a kitten in a flood

Apparently, teddy bears are often used in wildlife rehabilitation

Seen in a taxi

https://t.co/qoNOqPstc3

This is true

There's no rule that says you can't take a hedgehog shopping. No rule anyone would enforce, anyway

CAUTION
WARNING