Drifting in & out of consciousness, you can't tell if it's a dream or if it's actually happening. It looks like a bear standing watching you.

Something about the bear, & quite frankly the whole situation, seems a bit off.

As it moves closer to you, the eyes start to move around the face.

Then the body starts changing shape, first one leg vanishes...

... & then 2 new legs grow.

Suddenly, he's in your face.

"Scared you, didn't I?" he leers at you.

"Tee hee!"
