Big tech allows Inciting violence and targeted harassment if it's against the "right people".

They allow coordination and organization if you're with the "right group"

The media, law makers and celebrities embrace the voices of the unheard (RIOTS) if they're the "right voices"

Criminals are celebrated as brave heroes while the people protecting us from the criminals are demonized.

Rioters looting, murdering, vandalizing, and terrorizing our country are supported, praised and funded by the media, politicians, celebrities and corporations.

Yesterday Americans who have watched the loudest voices get their way for years and felt it was time their voices be heard took action.

Sure there could have been a more productive approach but to demonize them as terrorists and insurgents just proves the double standards.

We are blessed to live in the greatest nation in the world.

BLM and Antifa rioters hate this country and are doing so to destroy it.

The people on the right who were rioting yesterday believe they were trying to save it.

One is praised and the other is condemned.

It's sad.

They wanna make sure the right never steps outta line again.

I don't recall a task force to identify every person who tried to breach security in front of Lafayette Square and set the guard house and Saint John's church on fire.
