Twitter Thread by TravSD

TravSD
@TravSD

Thread: I'm being conservative (ha!), but say Trump committed 100 appalling, unprecedented, unpresidential, if not inhuman acts a day since the escalator ride. This amounts to approximately 166,000 of them. Things he said or did that were either immoral, corrupt, cruel...1/10

(2/10)...criminal, treasonous, or simply inappropriately offensive, ignorant or otherwise mortifying, as well as the things he omitted to do, the things that amounted to a President's job. This doesn't count the things he did before that: the Birtherism,...

(3/10)...the Central Park 5, destroying Atlantic City, swindling hundreds with his phony diploma mill, etc. I wish I had kept a diary -- I'm certain somebody has -- because that number, as large as it is, doesn't begin to convey it. For most Americans, a majority of Americans,...

(4/10)...it has been like receiving that many SLAPS, every few minutes, every day for four and a half years. A constant feeling of agida and high blood pressure and upset stomach and anxiety and nausea. Every day. Four and a half years. He's the uniter? Families are DIVIDED...

(5/10)...I have numerous friends I have not spoken to since his Presidential campaign began. I think I hate him most for his skunk-like penchant for NEVER GOING THE FUCK AWAY. That's what we've prayed for every day, right? That he would be GONE. Out of our lives, so we can...

(6/10)...breathe again, and smile again, and hear the wind and the birds. But he's like a case of the shingles or something. We couldn't properly celebrate Biden's victory because Trump never conceded, then couldn't accept the state certifications, then REALLY couldn't...

(7/10)...celebrate Congress's sign off on the certifications. And so I really wish I could feel like I could celebrate tomorrow, to experience tomorrow like some kind of catharsis. But he's not going away. There's the Senate trial (and believe me I WANT the Senate trial)...

(8/10)...And the thousands of mini-Trumps who've sprouted up like dragon's teeth who will probably still be around long after I'm dead. And the fact that the leadership of this country has never displayed a propensity to hold up one of their own (the rich and powerful) to real...

(9/10)...justice. So I have no expectation or hope that Trump or his skunk smell will go away in my lifetime. But please know that I will never EVER "heal" or "unite" with anyone I feel contributed to doing this to my country, for turning it into, in the words of the...